No. 7 Rochester, N. Y., November 1, 1940 Vol. 15

On behalf of the Board of Directors and faculty may I extend to the citizens of Rochester a cordial welcome to Open House. We hope you will enjoy your visit to the various departments of the Institute and that you will get some insight into the problems involved in carrying on an educational program for nearly four thousand men and women. As you know, the Institute is operating some of its departments 24 hours a day in order that young men may secure needed defense training. Never has so great a burden been placed upon the facilities of the Institute and never has its faculty responded so well to this great task.

Mark Ellingson

Sincerely yours,
MARK ELLINGSON
President

Endowment Campaign Swings Into Highly Intensified Drive

"Mechanics Institute builds industrial manpower."

With that as their slogan, more than 500 men will begin work this Friday in the Institute's public drive for a $1,000,000 increase in endowment. The drive will close Nov. 18 with a banquet in the Chamber of Commerce.

To acquaint industrial, business and professional leaders, team workers and the general public with the varied work of the Institute, students, faculty and members of the Board of Directors have been hosts at four "open house" programs, which began two weeks ago and end tonight. Previous receptions were held Oct. 23, Oct. 31 and Nov. 1.

Institute Tour Taken By Guests

Guests toured shops, studios and laboratories to learn from firsthand observation how students are prepared each year for the earning of a living and the living of a life.

Department heads interpreting demonstrations tonight will be Alfred A. Johns, Industrial Chemistry; Herman Martin, Mechanical and Construction; Earle M. Morecock, Electrical; Byron G. Culver, Publishing and Printing; Carrol B. Neblette, Photographic Technology; Mrs. Georgie Hoke, Food Administration; Miss May D. Benedict, Home Economics; Miss Edwina B. Hogadone, Retailing, and Clifford M. Uip, Applied Art.

Faculty and Students Act As Hosts

ander, Pauline Weir, Rosemary Doerr, Dorothy Thomsen, G. W. Agan, William Bowman, J. H. Dickinson, John Gillis, Carlton Goebel, Richard Halligan, Horace Holliday, Alfred Johns Jr., Stanley Keller, Wilfred Kennedy, Julian Kubit, Ray O'Connor, Milford Rahn, Alva Redfield, Louis Ruiz, Donald Sweet, Donald Warren and Wesley Woodman.

Opening dinner meeting for the drive workers will be at 6:30 p.m. Friday in the Chamber of Commerce. Report luncheons will be held Nov. 12, 13, and 14 at 12:15 p.m. in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium. Final reports will be given at 6:30 p. m. Nov. 18 in the same place.

Leading Civic Leaders Participate

James Gleason, chairman of the Institute Endowment Committee, is general chairman of the drive. Heading Section A are Charles K. Flint, chairman, and Erle M. Billings, assistant chairman. Edward A. Halbleib, one of the Institute's prominent alumni, is chairman of Section B, with Ralph B. Knight as assistant.

Division leaders are Richard Baybutt, Mark Clark, P. Richard Jameson, William F. Johnson, John W. Remington, Ralph C. Welch, Gordon Baird, Arthur C. Rissberger, John O. Williams, Ralph T. Olcott and Herman J. Norton.

Backing the campaign are these members of the Board of Directors: Arthur W. Beale, John P. Boylan, Herman M. Bramley, Theodore C. Briggs, Kendall B. Castle, Albert K. Chapman, Brackett H. Clark, George H. Clark, W. Dewey Crittendon, A. Edwin Crockett, Mrs. C. Schuyler Davis, M. Herbert Eisenhart, Mark Ellingson, Charles K. Flint, Frank Gannett, James E. Gleason, Edward A. Halbleib, Ezra A. Hale, Carl S. Hallauer, Mrs. Alfred Hart, Sol Heumann, R. Richard Jameson, Verner C. Kreuter, Mrs. William Brewster Lee, Frank W. Moffett, Oscar H. Pieper, John D. Pike, Herman Russell, Benjamin G. Stallman, Harry C. Stevenson, Albert F. Sulzer and Raymond L. Thompson.

RIDING CLUB TO HOLD BARN DANCE

Elser's Barn has been chosen for the Riding Club barn dance to be held November 8. It is to be a real old-fashioned "Rube" affair with participants dressing in their old patched-up clothes. Prizes will be awarded for the most original costume.

The committee in charge of the affair consists of the following: general chairman, Barbara Mauibetsch; decorations, Virgil Zetterlind; music, Walter Chase; tickets, Lloyd Swanson; posters, Martha Lorscheider; publicity, Bob Ripple; and refreshments, Jack DeLeylis.

Twenty-five couples attended the hay ride at Naas Farm last Saturday. The evening entertainment included a supper and dancing besides the hay ride.

Plehn Speaks To M.S.A. On Ships

The Mechanical Students Association held the first meeting of Block B Thursday, October 24. Mr. J. R. Tobin presided.

The guest of the evening was Mr. Brainerd Plehn, who spoke on "The Building of a Modern Battleship." His talk was illustrated with slides and was based on Mr. Plehn's experience with the Bethlehem Ship Building Corp.

After the talk, everyone indulged in doughnuts and cider. Among plans for the future was a social evening at the Student Center. This was to be patterned after the famous M. S. A. "boilermakers' brawl" of last year.

Dorm Girls Entertain Faculty at Tea

Approximately 50 members of the faculty and their families were entertained at a tea last Sunday afternoon at the girls' dormitory. Guests were received at the door by Miss Florence Meyer, Dormitory House Mother, Janet I. Alexander, chairman of the affair and Dorothy Holt, president of the dorm.

Light classical music was played for the enjoyment of the guests while tea was served.

Janet Alexander was chairman of the tea and was assisted by the following committees: Food committee: Nellie Kotte, chairman, aided by Norma Roeller, Margaret Wagner and Marion Drewery. Invitations were in charge of Helen Gould, Marilyn F. Smith, Jocelyn Woodward and Laura Funnell.

Hostesses were Ann Griffith, Marion Blood, Adell Brizidle, Ruth Bush, Marie Cage, Mildred Kubler, Janet Roberts and Mary Skivington. Jean Rutledge served as music chairman with Rachael Smith, Virginia Kitchen and Alyce Page assisting her.

Decorations were in charge of Marilyn "Dixie" Smith and Doris Blacklock. Thank-you cards were taken care of by Dorothy Griffiths. Marion Van Dellon was general house chairman.

Faculty members taking turns at pouring were: Miss May Benedict, Mrs. Raymond Biehler, Mrs. Calvin Thomason, Mrs. Lawrence Jarvie, Mrs. Alling M. Clements, Mrs. Warren Davis, Mrs. Mark Ellingson and Miss Mary C. Havens.

Campaign

Several months ago an anonymous donor offered $400,000 to the Institute endowment fund provided that the Institute raise a sum of $600,000. Work has been proceeding quietly on the campaign previous to this time but since the goal has not been reached and the expiration date, December 31, is drawing near, the campaign is to be opened to the public.

Student leaders, faculty members and outstanding men in civic life have offered their services to help attain the goal of $600,000. Approximately 550 campaign workers will undertake the tremendous task of soliciting 22,000 citizens in and around the Rochester area.

It is indeed inspiring to note that these men are giving their time and energy to promote better facilities in the Institute and thus increase the already important part which the Institute plays in the educational and industrial life of this section of the country. While these men are working, it is also interesting to note that the students and faculty have a part to play and are taking an active interest in the campaign.

General Home Ec. Girls Keep Busy

General Home Economics girls were busily engaged last week acquiring homemaking skills.

The class in Food Preparation made cookies for the Open House on Wednesday evening when guests of Dr. Ellingson and the Board of Directors visited the work of the evening school.

Mary Ingersoll is making a red formal. Doris Ward has just completed a plaid skirt, Jean Hargrave has finished five ship-shape bound buttonholes on the jacket of her wool suit; three girls, Rosalie Canepa, Clarice Fuller, and Elizabeth Gilman have been initiated into the intricacies of zippers in their new dresses.

This group, with the addition of Doris Gordon, Virginia Norris, Jeanne Rock, Patricia Nixon, and Genevieve Truesdell, has checked kitchen furnishings in their home kitchens to determine the features which are favorable to saving time and energy in the preparation and service of home meals. Revision of these kitchens plans is under way to improve working conditions in the preparation centers.

Gitelman Speaks to First B Block Assembly

The first assembly of the "B" block was held last Friday morning in Eastman Hall. George Kupferschmid, president of the Student Council, introduced Louis Ruiz, a Publishing and Printing Senior, who will be assembly chairman this year.

Dr. Mark Ellingson extended to the new students a greeting and spoke of the wonderful opportunity waiting for them in the Institute.

The speaker of the morning was Mr. Jacob Gitelman, practicing Rochester attorney, and recent city court judge, who described his C. O. D. City Safety Traffic Plan, which works on the principle of rewarding those communities which show a decrease in traffic accidents from previous years.

The assembly ended with more singing and harmonizing, including the patriotic song, "I Am An American," under the direction of Mr. Chesteen Kendall.

You know who critics are—the men who have failed in literature and art.—Disraeli.

Mechanical Curriculum Is Tuned To Times

"The Mechanical Department is as old as the Institute itself," said Mr. Herman Martin, department head, in a recent statement, "Although the type of work has naturally changed and the full three year program of today has different combinations of subjects than those that were given forty years ago.

"At the present time the day school program of the department is divided into a Mechanical Course curriculum, which gives general training to young men for positions as supervisors and workers in power plants, drafting rooms, machine shops and the Instrument Makers curriculum, which gives more specific training in the making of precision instruments and tools.

"Unusual opportunities are offered to students in the machine shop area, which is in almost constant operation, twenty-four hours each day. Equipment in the mechanical laboratory enables our students to get instruction in the theory and operation of steam and gas engines, steam turbines, diesel engines, materials testing and air conditioning equipment.

"During the training period in industry the young men usually serve time in machine shops, foundries, drafting rooms, inspection work, production offices and in one or more production departments. Through these varied experiences in industry they learn to appreciate the value of the underlying theory, experiments, and tests that are taught and performed through the school periods at the Institute.

"There are now enrolled in the Mechanical Department 218 students, of which approximately 200 are employed on cooperative jobs. Most of these young men are from Rochester and vicinity, but a few come from nearby states such as Ohio, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Vermont.

"Most of the industries employing cooperative students are located in Rochester and the immediate vicinity, but students are also employed in out-of-town plants at Buffalo, Elmira, Auburn, Wellsville, Geneva, Salamanca, Seneca Falls, and Jamestown.

"Since the present three year Cooperative Mechanical Course was started in 1922, 423 have graduated. About ninety per cent have remained in the mechanical field, and about sixty per cent are still with the company where they started as cooperative students.

"The above statements and figures

Retailing Course Has Three Main Divisions

At the request of store executives of Rochester and Western New York, according to Miss Edwina B. Hogadone, department counselor, the Retailing Department was organized in 1923 to provide specialized training in this field. The course was organized to train for merchandising, personnel and service work. Three major cooperative courses are offered: (1) Retail Distribution—preparing for work in selling, buying, small store management and personnel; (2) Costume Art and Retailing—training young women for work with clothing, fabrics, and accessories in the selling and buying fields; (3) Interior Decoration and Retailing—training home furnishing specialists and consultants in interior decoration. Subjects include salesmanship, color and design, textiles, merchandising, clothing construction, interior decoration and personnel relationships.

One hundred and twenty-four students from four states and Canada are enrolled. Of this number 85 per cent are women and 15 per cent men, with the majority cooperatively employed in Rochester, Syracuse, Buffalo, Elmira and Binghamton stores.

Work of students includes marking and selling merchandise, keeping unit control records, tracing customer complaints and supervising customer services. During the Christmas rush all students are employed full time and faculty members also renew their store experience and are employed in various supervisory capacities.

More than two hundred men and women have completed the retailing courses. Recent graduates begin in selling jobs, those with more experience are buying merchandise and others have gone into various phases of store operation. Some own their own stores, including dress shops, shoe stores, hardware stores and gift shops.

apply in general to full course day school students and graduates. In addition approximately 1000 young men are attending Mechanical Department evening classes each year and nearly all of these are studying subject matter that is closely related to their daytime employment. Our machine shop in particular is being used to full capacity to aid in the present defense program, and nearly 900 day and evening students are at present enrolled in this subject alone."

A fool babbles continually; a wise man holds his tongue.

Art School Offers Wide Training

The Department of Applied Art of the Institute is an outgrowth of the first instruction in Freehand Drawing which was offered by Mechanics Institute. At present it offers training leading to the positions of illustrator and commercial artist, designer, and interior decorator.

Classes are held in the Bevier Building which is equipped with excellent facilities for carrying on art study. The art library is one of the important features in the school work and is considered one of the most comprehensive libraries of reference art material in New York state.

The pottery department has been reconditioned and modernized throughout and is one of the best equipped school potteries in the United States. The development of the Rochester Art Scale, a unique installation for self-evaluation of student work has attracted national attention in the field of general and art education.

An important feature of the school work is the monthly exhibitions which are held during the school year and which are primarily for the study and inspiration of the students, but which are also open to the public.

More than 250 students are enrolled in the day and evening school courses.

Graduates from the Art Department have held a variety of positions, many of them finding congenial work in the field of illustration and advertising art. Some individuals have made notable success in the field of magazine and book illustration and others have become well-known for their work in painting, mural decoration, design of stained glass and industrial design. Conspicuous work has also been done in the field of interior decoration both in Rochester and in New York and Chicago.

Within the last five years a number of students have found interesting opportunities in working with various motion picture companies, making the drawings and animations required for feature length cartoon pictures produced by the Disney Studio.

Printing is a good business. . . . It combines the need for knowledge of everything under the sun: mathematics, mechanics, language, spelling, grammar, color, composition, salesmanship; there is indeed no limit to the accomplishments that are required of a printer.—Henry T. Porter.

Personnel Workers Meet At Institute

A one day conference of personnel workers from department stores in western New York sponsored by the Retail Department under the direction of Miss Edwina B. Hogadone was held Thursday, Oct. 31.

The conference was to serve as an opportunity for these store representatives to discuss their mutual problems in the fields of training and employment.

The program began with a meeting in the Bevier living room at 10:30 in the morning followed by luncheon at which the representatives were guests of the Institute. The afternoon was devoted to further discussions and a tour was made through some of the Rochester department stores.

Among those who attended were representatives of stores in which Retail students are cooperatively employed:

From Rochester: Miss Yates and Mrs. Whittington of Sibley, Lindsay and Curr Co.; Miss Gibson and Miss Isler from E. W. Edward and Son; Mr. Guttenberg from E. Forman and Co.; Mrs. Carlisle from McCurdy and Co.; Miss Haymoff of Sears, Roebuck and Co. and Miss Sparacino from Kresge.

From Buffalo: Miss Eggers and Miss Beckstein from the William Henger Co.; Miss Neuhor of Hens and Kelly Co.; Miss Richwine from Sears, Roebuck and Co. and Miss Jorgenson and Mrs. Mann from J. N. Adams and Co.

From Syracuse: Miss Allison from Witherall's; Mr. Jackson of Chappell's; Mrs. Rowe from Sears, Roebuck and Co. and Mrs. Taylor of E. W. Edwards and Son.

From Binghamton: Mrs. Anderson from Hills, McLean, and Haskins.

Yahoodie Attends Art League Party

Silence and bleak desolation shrouded the house (Student Center) with a blanket of mystery. As I timidly wafled my way up the steps, the door opened and entering the dimly-lit interior, I saw standing about the room and reclining on the chairs other ghosts of Halloween such as I.

Eerie music descended upon me from the next room and wending my way there, I saw it was nothing but swing music and couples plotting themselves to it about the smooth floor. No one saw me join the Grand March, but I was there and if the judges had seen and recognized he'll bet that I would have gotten the prize for the most horrible costume and not that old mummy.

Even such a ghostly ghost as I was held spellbound as I stood in the shadows cast by the flame of a single candle, at the portrayal of Edgar Allen Poe's "The Tell-Tale Heart," by Mr. Milton Bond, who I understand played on the legitimate theatre. When the lights were turned on again after the play I applauded too, but alas, no one heard me; I wrung my hands as the human spooks filed into the game room to partake of cider, doughnuts, and apples.

I had walked in the Grand March had watched them play their silly games, I had stood in the shadows and listened to the "Tell-Tale Heart," no one offered me cider and doughnuts, and I could only stand against the wall as they danced; I longed for more ghostly haunts where I would be welcomed as a fellow member and appreciated as the one and only.

Home Economics Is A Growing Department

"Initiated by Capt. Henry Lomb in 1893, the Home Economics Department has grown from training in the skills of housekeeping to a broader technical program in home administration and family life," stated May D. Benedict, department counselor.

Many alumnae are now teachers, supervisors, home demonstration agents, research workers, hospital dietitians, or food directors in schools, colleges, industries, retailing stores, clubs and tea rooms; others hold jobs in journalism, a few are specialists in education, others have written and published books.

Today the Home Economics Department offers a new program to young women who seek preparation for the activities of modern home management and development of family life.

Since 1936, when this modern course in home economics was initiated, more than 1,000 women have enrolled in the day and evening programs.

With reasonable men, I will reason; with human men, I will plead; but to tyrants I will give no quarter, nor waste arguments where they will certainly be lost—William Lloyd Garrison.

Industrial Chemistry Graduates Excell

The Coop. Industrial Chemistry course enrolls those students who may wish to qualify for positions such as chemical laboratory technicians or trained workers in chemical manufacturing plants. Organized in 1926 the department has graduated about 160 young men who are now employed in a number of widely scattered companies. Some are chief chemists, while others are technical sales representatives, foremen, supervisors, research workers, technicians with special assignments and general laboratory assistants.

Companies employing graduates include the Eastman Kodak Company, the Rochester Gas and Electric Company, the Rochester and Hasslacher Company of Niagara Falls, Dupont, the Bausch and Lomb Optical Company, the Defender Photo Supply Company and the Ritter Dental Manufacturing Co.

The Chemical Department has always had for its chief objective the training of men for positions in the fields of manufacturing involving chemicals or chemical processes and acquired equipment of the type used for large scale processing of materials.

In the technological laboratory there are such pieces of metal equipment as power and vacuum evaporators, filters presses, pumps, mixing tanks, distillation equipment with a fractioning column, grinders, drying ovens and equipment for water treatment. All students work with this equipment after they have completed basic courses in qualitative and quantitative analysis and organic chemistry. In addition all students are required to complete several basic chemical engineering courses.

Of the total number of graduates of the course since its organization about 85% have remained in the chemical field. The balance have gone into related fields as opportunity has offered. At the present time there are no graduates of the course without employment.

At present there are approximately 100 enrolled in the chemical course. Of this group about one third are drawn from cities outside of Rochester and nearby towns.

Carrol E. Neblette, Counselor of the Photographic Technology Department, was one of the ten men to be made fellows of the Photographic Society of America in Cleveland, Oct. 25th.

He was cited for "achievement in and service to photography" at a dinner in Cleveland.

Sorority News

PHI UPSILON PHI

Phi Upsilon Phi held its social sorority meeting in Room 2, Student Center, Monday Oct. 28 at 7:30.

The meeting was called to order by Associate President Peg Linsin. There was a short business meeting. New members attending were: Miriam Drewery, Helen Haskins, Rachael Smith, Lucy Jackson and Marcel Bridges.

Rita Greenwood and Janet Alexander had charge of the social meeting.

ALPHA PSI

The Alpha Psi Alumnae held a meeting on Tuesday, October 22 at the home of Helen Budd.

Plans were made to fold bandages for the Public Health Service at their next meeting, Tuesday, November 5.

Alpha Psi held a meeting Monday night at which time final arrangements were made for a rush party to be held Friday, Nov. 1.

MORE GIRLS WANTED FOR BASKETBALL

Fewer girls turned out for bowling last Monday than the previous week with the result that one alley moved a little faster and finished their game although the others on an average reached their sixth frame. Highest scores at the half-way mark were Frank 75, Shields 73, Alexander 59.

According to our basketball coach, Miss Raeburg, basketball practice is going great guns but she still could use more volunteers. To join the basketball team just drop over to the Brick Church next Monday with your gym things.

Many of the girls may not know it but swimming is also an authorized sport at R.A.M.I. The Natatorium on South Avenue is open all winter for those who enjoy a healthful swim in all seasons.

GLEE CLUB HAS HAYRIDE TONIGHT

The members of the Glee Club will be entertained on a hay ride tonight at Scott's on Chili Road. The social committee of the Glee Club made all the necessary arrangements.

After a two hour ride, the frolickers will return to Scott's where refreshments will be served. Dancing will follow to round out an enjoyable evening.

Freddie Woolston Will Play for Dorm Formal

Freddie Woolston and his band, made up of Eastman School of Music students, will be playing at the Dorm Formal, Nov. 16 at the Seneca Ballroom.

This orchestra has been organized for the past five years and has been proven to be very popular in and around the city.

They have played at Cornell University, University of Rochester and at many of the country clubs in the vicinity. They were at the Century Theater for twenty-six weeks and now are at the Collegiate Club for the remainder of the winter season. Freddie and his band have made three N.B.C. Broadcasts.

Music Group Meets at Home of Mrs Ellingson

The music group of the Women's Club of the Institute held its first meeting at the home of Mrs. Mark Ellingson last Tuesday at 1:30 p. m.

The life and the works of Beethoven were studied as the first in a series of discussions on renowned composers. Mrs. John Elberfeld is general chairman and Mrs. Warren Davis summarized Beethoven's biography.

Officers who began their services at the meeting were: Mrs. Herman Martin, biography chairman; Mrs. Alfred Davis, treasurer; Mrs. Duncan W. Seavey, secretary; Mrs. Herbert Bohackert, social chairman and Mrs. Burton Stratton, program director.

Featured on the program was the choral group under Mrs. Leo F. Smith, Mrs. William H. Clark and Mrs. Sherman Hagberg, vocal soloists. Mrs. Mark Ellingson and Mrs. Donald Ritchie were piano soloists and Mrs. George LeCain is the violin soloist. Mrs. Wallace E. Dobbs was accompanist.

NEWMAN CLUB POSTPONES DANCE DATE

The date for the Newman Club dance which had previously been set for Friday, November 8, has been changed to Saturday, November 9 due to conflicting dates with the Riding Club dance. It will be held in the Student Center from 8 to 12 P. M.

Bob Spriggs and Stanley Keller of the Printing Department spent the weekend at their homes in Rome, N. Y.

Around the Dorm

Block changes always cast a sort of gloom over the Dorm; some the girls hate to leave and the rest of us hate to see them go. But what can you do about it? At least, even when they're low, Dormites can have fun!

Like the bunch that went to the roller skating party last Friday night—Jackie Pfeleger, Shirley Rupright, Barbara Maubetsch, Gene Simmonds and Kate Collins. Or the group who went on the Riding Club Hayride on Saturday night—Ann Austin, Nicky Sozzi, and the triumvirate of Simmonds-Rupright and Maubetsch. Bet they had fun!

Present at Collegiate Club Friday night were: Doris Blacklock, Dixie Smith, Tori Auclair and Nicky Sozzi.

Polly Weir spent the weekend in East Lansing, Michigan, where she attended the Michigan State football game on Saturday.

Margaret Austin was called to Erie on Friday by the death of her grandmother.

Janet Alexander was the weekend guest of Mona Hammond at the Hammond home in Marion, New York.

Ruth Kratzer, "A" Block student from Buffalo, spent Sunday at the dormitory in celebration of her eighteenth birthday.

The large bouquet of purple crysanthemums which decorated the piano in the Dorm living room was sent by Miss May D. Benedict and Mrs. G. W. Hoke, while the vase of fall flowers was given by Miss Edwina Hogadone.

Dr. and Mrs. Ellingson were the guests of the Dormitory at dinner last night. At this time, Dr. Ellingson was presented with a large bag of shining copper pennies, as a donation from the Dormites for the Million Dollar Campaign.

Guess that's all for this week, only . . . have you bought your Dorm Formal ticket yet???

CARL DENGLER TO BE MARRIED

Carl Dengler, one of the Institute's most popular orchestra leaders, is to be married on Monday, November 4, to Miss Virginia King of 25 Brookdale Avenue.

The couple will be married in Westminster Presbyterian Church, and will leave immediately to spend their honeymoon in Virginia. After their honeymoon in Virginia, Mr. and Mrs. Dengler will make their home at 729 Chili Ave.
