Queen Will Be Chosen At Ball Tonight By Popular Vote

Tonight, at nine o'clock, the baton will be raised to usher in another Senior Ball. For this most anticipated event of the year, the class of 1941 has been fortunate in securing the McFarland Twins, George and Arthur, and their orchestra. At this, the last formal dance of the year, the Senior Queen will be chosen.

The McFarland Twins feature both sweet and swing rhythms which should satisfy both jitterbug and waltzer. The twin idea is used throughout, with both Twins in front of their band directing, and featuring their saxophones.

After five years with Fred Warding and his Pennsylvanians, the twins premiered their own band at the Rainbow Grill in Radio City, New York. Their music has been broadcast over NBC and the Mutual networks. They have played many outstanding engagements and have just concluded a lengthy run at the famous Blue Gardens in Armonk, N. Y. Other well-known location stands of the Twins include Benjamin Franklin Hotel, Philadelphia, DeWitt Clinton, Albany; Hotel William Penn, Pittsburgh, and the Rainbow Grill, N. Y. C.

Featured with the McFarland Twins—America's only twin syncopation—is their famous trio, the Norton Sisters, Dorothy, Betty and Grace.

From five contestants from the Senior class will be chosen the Senior Queen. These contestants are: Betty Booden, foods; Betty Sears, foods; Jane Hathaway, retailing; Marilyn Smith, retailing; and Eleanor Brockmyre, art. Plans have been made to form a court for the queen and her attendants, and the dance will close with a grand march, led by the queen and her court.

This year's Senior Ball can be made one of the finest ever given at the Institute, with the help of the student body. Tickets may be purchased from Betty Booden, Rocky Bills, Tom Jennings, Dottie Holt, King Fleek, John Bowllan, Michael Hammar, Clyde Johnson, Dick Eisenberg, Jim Cox, Frank Kovarik and Martha Lapham. James Tobin is general chairman of the dance.

Food Faculty To Entertain Seniors

The faculty of the Food Administration Department will entertain Food Administration seniors at breakfast at the Hotel Rochester on May 17, preceding convocation exercises.

Retailers Plan Picnic At Sunset Point

Even the Retailers are affected by spring, and they are now making plans for the annual Spring Picnic which will be held on Thursday, May 22, at Sunset Point at Durand-Eastman Park. One of the activities of this picnic will be the usual, vigorous softball game, in which the handful of male members will attempt to star. A few of the braver members of the department will take a brief dip in the lake. More sensible entertainment is being planned for the less active.

James Cox is general chairman of the picnic, and he is assisted by the following committees: Food—Virginia Moesel; Transportation—Tom Alvord; Finance—Barbara Maulbetsch, Karl Lamb, Martha Wright; Alumnae—Janet Roberts Eleanor Denfore; Entertainment—Pat Holmes, Rachael Smith.

As in the past, the picnic is open to students, faculty, and alumnae of the Retailing Department only.

Phi Upsilon Phi Girls Elect Officers

Phi Upsilon Sorority girls elected the following girls to offices for next year: Eleanor Denfore, president; Rachael Smith, vice president; Dot Kitzings, corresponding secretary; Mona Hammond, recording secretary; Pat Holmes, treasurer; Jackie Pfeiffer, social chairman; and Dot Griffiths and Barbara Coe, intersorority members.

After the regular business meeting, a social was held with Natalie Foster, Marcel Bridges and Eleanor Denfore in charge.

Alumni Gather At Oak Hill Tomorrow

Tomorrow evening more than 500 alumni of the Institute are expected to gather together at Oak Hill Country Club for their annual reunion.

In keeping with the purpose of the occasion, the program is being arranged so that it will be exceedingly brief, allowing ample time for strictly social get-togethers. A short address by President Mark Ellingson and a snappy business meeting are scheduled.

Music of Frank Skultedy's will begin with the first course of dinner and continue until 1 a.m. Dinner will start promptly at 7:30 p.m. Daylight Saving Time and the rule "first come, first served" will hold good. Dancing will begin at 9 o'clock. Semi-formal dress has been decreed as proper for the occasion.

Mrs. Edward De Bisschop and Winfield Van Horn are co-chairmen of the reception committee and will greet members of the Board of Directors invited as guests of the alumni. They also will see that members of the Class of 1941 are welcomed into the Association and introduced to their fellow alumni. John Arnold is chairman of the music committee.

Graduating seniors will be guests of the alumni.

Cafeteria Notes

Cafeteria students will be in charge of the tea to be held tomorrow afternoon at the dormitory for parents and visitors who attend the convocation exercises.

Tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock 271 students who have completed courses in 10 occupational fields, will receive citation awards at the annual convocation exercises in the Central Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Peter Marshall, D. D., pastor of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church of Washington, D. C., will deliver an address on "Why I Am an American."

Citation awards recognizing "ability to carry on a constructive program of self-education" will be presented to the seniors by James E. Gleason, new chairman of the Institute Board of Directors. Dr. Mark Ellingson, president of the Institute, will present the seniors to him.

The Rev. William S. Meyer, D. D., pastor of Central Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. Murray A. Cayley, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, will also participate in the program.

Following the Convocation exercises, students, alumni and guests will have an opportunity to visit the various departments of the Institute and tour the laboratories, shops and classrooms. There will be exhibits of the work of Art students in the Bevier Exhibition Hall, of Photography students in the Eastman Assembly Hall and exhibits of the Publishing and Printing students in the Printing laboratory.

Residence hall students will be hostesses at a tea for parents and friends of out-of-town graduates.

Highlight of the Alumni program will be a dinner-dance at Oak Hill Country Club at 7:30 p. m. Seniors will be guests of the alumni.

Fifty-one evening school students will receive citation awards and will participate in the convocation exercises. Graduating seniors represent 52 from the Mechanical Department; 22, Electrical; 26, Chemistry; 24, Photographic Technology; 26, Food Administration; 18, Art; 22, Retailing; 8, Construction; 16, Publishing and Printing; and 6, Home Economics.

MUSIC APPRECIATION HOUR

May 21, 1941 4—5 P.M.

This is the final concert of the present series. A new series will begin in September. The music committee wishes to acknowledge its appreciation for the interest students of the Institute have shown in this project through their consistent attendance at the Wednesday Music Hour.

UNIONISMS

Tomorrow let us all pause in the midst of our Convocation ceremonies to honor Colonel Nathaniel Rochester, as May 17 marks the one hundred and tenth year since his death. This house was built by Colonel Rochester for one of his daughters, while his own home was on the site of the Beaver Building.

Having to decide between visiting his Alma Mater for Convocation, or the Printing Department banquet last Friday, Howard Clark chose the latter event, and trekked four hundred miles from Woodstock, where he is now employed, to disseminate good cheer to his many friends.

Two University of Rochester students have visited Clark Union recently. Ann Trivelli brought in Jess Perkinson of Atlanta, Georgia, now studying for his Ph. D. in vital economics at Strong Memorial; and John Miller was escorted to Jane Lacey, a sophomore, and "an extremely old friend."

Little wonder that any one whose family came from Hammerfest should write an extensive Norwegian language Edda as has David Von Klinghsburg Sparks recently.

Robert Goldstein and many others are doing their afternoon work in the game rooms, which are almost quiet these days. And they like especially the step-ladder chair for a typing high chair.

Last Friday evening while the Camera Club was holding a special meeting in Room One, known now as the Music Room, Bill Nichols, '40, and Miss Jean McGraw visited the Union.

How about taking a vacation in California where lemons are sold three dozen for ten cents, according to a letter from Georgiana Hathaway Randall, Jane Hathaway's aunt, and former head of the M. I. Retailing Department? Mrs. Randall also tells of the mesas covered with exquisite cacti bloom. She says:

"We are looking forward so happily to the time when Mark and Marcia will be here. (The Ellingsons are driving to the Pacific Coast in June. Ed.) We are trying to figure out what things they will enjoy most and which to include if their time is limited. Of course, we have our pets, but want them to be as enthusiastic as we are about this general locality."

Finally the explanation of Nelson Herron's daily change of ties is forthcoming. He has fifty hanging in order, it is said, and he wears them in rotation, unless a special social event disturbs the cravat routine.

Several entirely new views of the Lounge were taken by Warren Kaplow this week, with cameras mounted "at close quarters."

Since he does not possess dual personality, George Keller gave up his Clark Union activities a few days ago to utilize the afternoon in planting a "novelty" garden at the new Van Peursem home on Penfield Road.

Hats left here usually reach their owner's heaus before too long. After almost a week minus his crown-cover, Jack Arnold, Alumnus, ran in to retrieve it, and to talk over old times.

That famous brown hat of Bob Hall's is to be left at the Union as a memorial to be worn once a year for outstanding memory, when Bob "convocates."

Perhaps no one of the regular matinee hops during the winter drew as large a group of dancers as did the entirely extemporaneous whirl here last Friday afternoon. With Jim Pulvino, Norm Brinkerhoff and Joe Smith taking turns at the phonograph, the gameroom was filled until closing time.

Sincere congratulations from everyone here are extended to James Liccion, who was recently married. Jimmy who was president of the Student Council last year says that he has "real responsibilities now."

Ben Saggese and Harold Lugert, with the generous cooperation of Mr. Earl Morecock, have worked out an electrical attachment from the front door to the office chimes, thus settling the door-bell shortage of the past two years. Everybody is invited to ring the new bell to his heart's content, be the door locked or wide open.

Return matches are scheduled with Brockport May 17 at 3 p. m. on the Brockport court and with Niagara University on May 28 at 2 p. m. on the Mechanics courts.

Holley Girls Visit Institute

Twenty-eight high school girls from Holley, N. Y., visited the Institute on Tuesday afternoon, May 13.

After a tour of the Applied Art, Retailing, Home Economics and Food Administration Departments, the girls were served refreshments by the Food Administration freshmen.

A capacity audience crowded Eastman Hall last Friday morning as the Art League presented their annual assembly. The assembly was a satire built around a typical day in a broadcasting studio.

The program opened with setting up exercises, given by the old professor, Charlie Rogers, and performed by his star pupils, Hank McIver and Ross Baglio. The Cooking School followed, with Dorothy Holt as Aunt Hezzy Doe. Poor Lil' Butterfly, traditional morning soap opera, drove even the announcer crazy. Characters were played by Laurel Wagner, Butterfly; Dick Van Dongen, Smutch; and John Tweedy and Douglas Howland, policemen.

Lone Ranger Kides Again

The Lone Ranger, thrilling drama of the old west, starred Jim Steg as the Lone Ranger, Dorothy Holt as Tonto, Alfred Knebel as Zeke, and Lyle Briggs as Cartlett. The Amateur Program then brought to the fore such talent as Sarah Penn singing "Oh Look At Me Now," Ruth Siebert reciting a poem called "Spring," and Jim Steg and Armand LaMay singing an ill-fated duet. The Sal Costor Program with Jim Pulvino announcing, Martha Lorscheider as songstress, and Alfred Knebel as a member of the audience, was next.

Family Problems Settled

In The Hectic Home Hour, Mr. Horace N. Buggy, portrayed by Bill Keeler, counseled Mrs. B. O., played by Clifford Bull—and her family. Mr. B. O. was played by Armand LaMay, and Junior by Ross Baglio. The assembly concluded with Hektor The Spectre, horror program. John Bowllan was disguised under the Hektor the Spectre costume, Archie McLeod and Jim Pulvino were gangsters, and Elizabeth Stark was the heroine.

Robert Criddle and Lyle Briggs were excellent as two announcers who announced the entire program. Forrest Pfautz was the sound man. Two lively Pepsi Cola commercials were sung by Lyle Briggs, Bob Criddle and Jim Pulvino. Ann Trivelli and Ruth Geisinger portrayed comic characters from the audience.

Robert Criddle was chairman of the program committee, which included Lyle Briggs, Elizabeth Gray, and Shirley Doersam. Original scripts were written by committee members.

Faculty Members Attend Conference

William Clark Construction Department and Leo Smith, Educational Research Department, are to leave soon for Denver, Colorado, for a four-day conference sponsored by the American Association of Junior Colleges in preparation for next summer's teaching.

Leo Smith is to teach a cooperative course at George Peabody's Teacher's College at Nashville, Tenn., and William Clark is to teach at the University of California—a course called Terminal Curricula in Engineering Fields.

Brides-To-Be Feted By Secretarial Staff

Two May brides-to-be, Miss Clara Wallis who is to marry John H. Breman, and Miss Arlene Kesel, whose coming marriage to James J. Miller was announced last week, were honor guests last Wednesday evening at a banquet arranged by the young women of the Institute secretarial group, at the Home Dining Room.

Following the dinner all were entertained at the San Rafael where the brides-elect, wearing their camellia corsages, were presented lovely gifts for their new homes.

Alpha Psi Elects Officers; Plans House Party

The newly elected officers of Alpha Psi are Marjorie Jones, president; Mildred Keubler, vice president; June Hill, secretary; Ruth Brown, treasurer; Irene Ketcham, chaplain; and Charlotte Gottlobber, Intersorority representative.

Final plans for the house party at Keuka Lake were made. Marjorie Jones, the new president, is head of the food committee and promises an appetizing week-end for all who come.

The 1941 Ramikin was distributed to over 1000 students and faculty members on Wednesday, May 8. It has also been sent to many of last year's graduates now in the armed forces of the United States.

The 112-page book is bound in blue imitation leather and is dedicated to Calvin C. Thomason, instructor in the social science department.

The theme of the book was to present the students in school, at work and at play.

William Lartz was editor-in-chief of the book with Ross Townsend acting as business manager and Frank Nazzaro as photographic editor.

Members of the "Pi" Club of the Printing and Publishing Department held their fourth annual senior banquet at Lorenzo's last Friday evening. This is an annual affair which the freshmen of the department sponsor for graduating seniors.

John Adams Lowe, Director of the Rochester Public Libraries, was guest speaker. New officers for the coming year took office with Ward Blossom succeeding Ross Townsend as president, Robert Marshall succeeding Hubert Sheffer as vice-president, John Wellenhofer succeeding Frank Kovarik as secretary and Jacob Muha succeeding Bernard Martin as treasurer. Donald Blackwell will be editor of the Typographer next year and succeeds Louis Ruiz.

Awards were presented by Joseph F. Sorace, faculty adviser, to Ross Townsend, Bernard Martin, Louis Ruiz, John Wellenhofer and John Whitman for their commendable work in the club and Typographer.

John Whitman was toastmaster of the affair. Among the guests were Thomas Alvord, publisher of the Livonia Gazette; Edward M. Perkins, publisher of the LeRoy Gazette-News; Corrin Chiler, production manager of the LeRoy Gazette-News, and a 9-year alumnus of the department and Walter Moffitt, of American Type Founders Corp and J. W. Judkins, Kelly division of the American Type Founders Corporation.

Printers Tour Printing Press Roller Plant

The Senior Production Problems class of the Department of Publishing and Printing visited the plant of Bingham and Sons, manufacturers of composition rollers for printing presses on Monday, May 12, at their Hudson Avenue plant.

The printers toured the plant and were shown the enormous vats and casting boxes into which the composition—made up of glycerine and glue in the correct proportions—in a liquid form is forced into molds under pressure.

Retailing Notes

A new pamphlet entitled "If You Are Considering Interior Decorating" by Mrs. Jean Stampe of the Retailing Department was published recently. This vocational guidance pamphlet contains interesting information written in an informal style for those intending to enter the interior decorations field.
