RIT May Day Program Includes Selection Of Queen To Reign

RIT's faculty and students extend a welcome to our May Day guests. We want you to feel completely at home, for next year RIT will be your new home. So peek in every corner, meet all of your future classmates, and, most of all, have a good time.

The Residence Hall coeds are preparing for the reception of two-score Western New York girls who will be their guests during the annual May Day festivities, Friday through Sunday.

To make room for the housing of their high school girl guests, about forty of the Dorm residents will move into temporary quarters in the Powers Hotel, where they will be under student government supervision.

The major event of the program will be the annual May Day banquet at 6 p. m., Saturday, when a queen will be chosen from among five candidates by ballot of her fellow students. It will be the first time that RIT women have so honored one of their number. Two candidates receiving the next greatest volume of votes will be installed as attendants of the queen, who will be crowned by Dr. Mark Ellingson, president of the Institute.

Candidates for May Day Queen are Daisy Palmer, Martha Etter, Rosemary Sackett, Ninfa Vitale and Mollie Ann Williams.

The out-of-town girls will embark upon a round of social activities arranged by their hostesses immediately following their arrival Friday afternoon. Following dinner they will attend an informal reception in the Residence Hall lounge, where there will be facilities for dancing, cards and group singing. Saturday morning there will be a tour of the Institute under the guidance of Dr. Leo F. Smith, associate in the Evening and Extension Division, and at noon the Institute faculty will entertain at luncheon.

Following the banquet, there will be an informal dance in Eastman Hall with V-12 students from the University of Rochester and other servicemen from Sampson Naval Training Center augmenting the guest list. A feature of the entertainment will be a skit presented by Institute men students. Sunday morning the visitors will attend services at First Presbyterian Church and at noon the Dorm council will serve a progressive luncheon in the Residence Hall as the closing event of the program.

Ninfa Vitale is general May Day chairman, and her assistant is Lory Friedman. Others serving on various committees include:

Chi Delta Phi

No, it didn't take long for the newly-organized Chi Delta Phi Fraternity to get under way with its social activities. Within less than a month after its organization, the fellows got together for a real bang-up beginner in the form of a dinner held April 22 at Catali's Restaurant.

Of course, the women were included too. So after twelve couples had eaten all they could, everyone turned to rounding out the evening by having one grand and glorious session of dancing. With Mr. Clement keeping a watchful eye on all and inserting his usual humorous remarks, the evening was complete.

The time to part came all too soon. But, knowing these boys as we do, we know they won't be unheard from or for long.

Prizes Awarded

Winners in the Trade-mark Competition, sponsored by Scrantom's Inc., were announced by Clifford M. Ulp, Supervisor of the Department of Applied Art as follows: First Prize, $25, Virginia Norton; Second Prize, $10, Richard Hawver; Honorable Mention, Josephine Riedmann. Scrantom's, Inc. expressed appreciation for the designs submitted and were enthusiastic about the prize winning designs. The Jury of Award consisted of H. A. Holmlund, Manager of Scrantom's, Inc., Byron G. Culver, Supervisor of Publishing and Printing, and Clifford M. Ulp, Supervisor of the Department of Applied Art.

Having been poor is no shame, but being ashamed of it is.

The Institute's sixty-first annual Convocation will be held at First Presbyterian Church, 10:30 a. m. on Saturday, May 19.

Dr. George D. Stoddard, commissioner of education for the State of New York, will be the Convocation speaker. He will be introduced by Dr. Mark Ellingson, who will preside.

James E. Gleason, chairman of the board of RIT trustees, will present certificates of citation to seventy-five graduates of both the day program and the evening and extension division courses. The Rev. Murray A. Cayley, minister of First Presbyterian Church, will give the invocation and the benediction.

On Tuesday evening, April 24, Charles Palmer, President of the Phi Sigma Phi Fraternity was guest of honor in a surprise party given by frat members on the occasion of his twenty-first birthday.

Charlie was completely surprised when, about to go to bed, he was aroused by the drowning noise of his frat brothers who escorted him to Bryan's Soda Parlor for a well-deserved treat.

Who'll Accept?

This is an open and general challenge to all Fraternities and Sororities within the Institute to play one or more games of softball. This is contingent on the number of games you choose to lose.

Games will be arranged for any Sunday between the date of this issue and June 3, 1945. See Mat Goldberg, Floyd Holben, or any Chi Delta Phi member in order to be placed on the game schedule.

STUDENT COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

At its meeting of April 23, the Student Council discussed and acted upon the following:

It was voted that money should be appropriated for glass coverings to be placed on table tops in the Clark Union Lounge.

Arrangements for operation of the Tennis Court were discussed. It was decided that many of these arrangements would be decided at a meeting of those interested in playing.

Plans for a full-time program at Clark Union were agreed upon for next year and it was voted to retain the services of Mrs. Perry.

The last meeting of the Council is to be held May 21, 1945, with provision made for special meetings when necessary.—Al Horton

Dr. Stoddard, who has guided New York State education since July, 1942, is considered a foremost authority on child development and, despite his comparative youth—he is 47—has had a long career in educational administration. Formerly dean of the University of Iowa's graduate school and head of that department of psychology, he is a graduate of Pennsylvania State College, completed advanced courses at the University of Paris and received his doctorate in philosophy at Iowa in 1925. His topic will be "Education for Working and Living."

At the close of the Convocation ceremonies, the Institute's various departments will be open for the inspection of alumni and friends until 1:30 p. m. A general exhibit will be on view in Bevier Building. Other Departments are planning exhibits and lab demonstrations.

From 6:45 to 7 p. m. over Station WFHAM a special Convocation Day program will be broadcast under the direction of the Alumni Association. Dr. Ellingson will be among the speakers. Groups within the broadcast range will listen in. Norman J. Callister, alumni association president, is directing the arrangements.

You Coming?

RIT will hold its annual Junior-Senior Ball. "The Blossomtime Prom," May 12 at the Seneca Hotel. Music for dancing will be furnished by Bob Bruce's orchestra from 8 to 11:45 p. m.

Committees working to make the dance successful are: general chairman, Faye Burgwardt; co-chairman, Betty Eddy. Decorations: chairman, Joan Dennis, assisted by Betty Eddy, Delia Dekin, Alice Rosen, Jean Marie Belmont, Ninfa Vitale, and Daisy Palmer. Publicity: co-chairmen, Virginia Dwyer and Corwin Skinner, assisted by Mollie Williams, Shirley Cain, Bette Alexander, Dorothy Larson, Janet Preston, and Cathy Reid. Tickets: Alberta DeRita, Dorothy Damon, Nancy Lyon, Genevieve Powell, Chaperones: Jack Wilder and Charles Palmer. Alumni committee, Faye Burgwardt. The clean-up committee as yet has not been chosen.

Council Officers
Feted At Dorm

In a blossom setting, the new officers of the Residence Hall Council took office at the annual installation dinner ceremonies in the cafeteria on April 19. To carry out the Spring-like theme, the dining room was decorated with Spring flowers, and then out of the program the new officers were designated as "buds" and the retiring group as "blossoms." At the climax of the ceremonies, Martha Etter, retiring president, presented the "grant of power" for student government of the Residence Hall to Ninfa Vitale, new leader of the Council. Ninfa will be custodian of this important document for the ensuing school year.

Dr. Mark Ellington was a guest of the girls and spoke as the "Master Gardener," while Miss Harvey talked on "Garden Walks."

Incoming officers besides Ninfa are: Vice president, Elsie Mosher; senior representatives, Norma Meyers and Jane Patterson, and junior representatives, Pat Fitzgerald and Phyllis Jones. Retiring officers include Jean Dennis and Faye Burgwardt, seniors; Gloria Guile and Janice Becker, freshmen representatives. The following committee chairmen were also honored at the dinner: Rosemary Sackett, Faith Ross, Vivian Lockwood, Maribel Gurtel, Barb Dixon, Virginia Mason, Miriam Herman, Janice Becker, Lory Friedman, Catherine Blodgett, and Ninfa Vitale.

The dinner ended with group singing and auguries for next year's Council. JEAN DENNIS

Melodies At U.S.O.

Sunday night was certainly not the loneliest night for girls from RIT and the servicemen who attended the formal dance at the U.S.O. The musical strains of Jim Dennis plus different steps from Maine to Texas shown to the girls started the evening off successfully amid the background created by Cathie Reid and her committee. The credit for all the servicemen being there goes to our publicity manager, Ruth Becker. To Janice Becker, our general chairman, we all extend "thanks" for the smoo—th evening.

The strains of "A Pretty Girl Is Like A Melody" opened the dance by request in accordance with the theme and was also the last melody played. Large and small musical notes were used as decoration; some with faces of coquetish co-eds drawn on them. Stretched across the front of the stage was a frieze of captivating servicemen and girls. This was given much comment; a very clever idea. It can be truthfully said the sailors helped decorate. I heard one used his personality on a drug store clerk who took pins out of price tags so the girls from RIT wouldn't be handicapped by the lack of them.

During the intermission, atmosphere was created by Maribel Gurtel and Phil Jones who skirted around like two true Photo Tech students snapping pictures (which we're all patiently waiting to see) of dancing couples and table groups. Who knows, maybe they caught part of you!

All in all, the dance served two purposes; it boosted the moral of servicemen present, and after hearing the talk around the Dorm, it can be said that it gave our "Dormites" quite a lift. "A Pretty Girl Is Like A Melody" has become our favorite song.

NANCY FUCHS

He that is of opinion money will do every thing may well be suspected of doing everything for money.

Our strength grows out of our weakness. Not until we are pricked and stung and sorely shot at, awakens the indignation which arms itself with secret forces. A great man is always willing to be little. While he sits on the cushion of advantages, he goes to sleep. When he is pushed, tormented, defeated, he has a chance to learn something; he has been put on his wits, on his manhood; he has gained facts; learns his ignorance; is cured of the insanity of conceit; has got moderation and real skill. The wise man always throws himself on the side of his assailants. It is more his interest than it is theirs to find his weak point. The wound cicatrizes and falls off from him, like a dead skin, and when they would triumph, lo! he has passed on invulnerable. Blame is safer than praise. I hate to be defended in a newspaper. As long as all that is said, is said against me, I feel a certain assurance of success. But as soon as honeyed words of praise are spoken for me, I feel as one that lies unprotected before his enemies. In general, every evil to which we do not succumb, is a benefactor.

Birthday Dinner
Brodt Cited

On April 12, Annice Briggs, Phyllis Utter, and Pat Dempsey, chairmen of the month's birthday dinner, portrayed the "Spirit of Spring" as the theme of this affair. Gay Spring flowers, pastel colors and candles created the calm, seasonal atmosphere.

The latest songs added to the program, which was concluded by the singing of "Lights Out."

Next month's dinner will include all girls whose birthdays come during the Summer months when school is not in session. Therefore, we'll be celebrating with you, even if it is a bit early. So let's see all of you "Summer children" at the last birthday dinner of the year, on May 10, in the Institute dining room.

Frat-Sorority Jaunt

The Delta Omicron Sorority and Phi Sigma Phi Fraternity had a get-together at Genesee Valley Park on Sunday, April 22.

Thanks to the skillful planning of Elizabeth White, Joan Warner, Shirley Stone, Bob Warren, Bob Jakala and "Dutch" Burley, everything was organized to the fullest satisfaction of all concerned.

With old Sol giving the fullest co-operation, everyone enjoyed himself thoroughly, playing hot games of softball, as a result of which a considerable appetite had been developed. Keeping Mr. and Mrs. Karker more than busy at the chow line.

After every one had satiated his inner self, the Karker home was invaded and it was 10:30 p. m. before Mr. and Mrs. Karker succeeded in repulsing the intruders.

The group left with the memory of a day well spent.

Goin' My Way?

Tickets for the Blossomtime Prom sponsored by the Junior and Senior classes can be obtained from members of either class or at the book store. A swell orchestra, your favorite selections, and a long night of dancing—all this for that small sum of $3 per couple (tax included). See you on May 12 at the Seneca, kids!!!

Chief Specialist Carl B. Brodt, former Y.M.C.A. athletic program director, recently completed a course in coaching at the central sports school sponsored by Special Service, Mediterranean Theater of Operations.

C/Sp. Brodt is the husband of Mrs. Marion J. Brodt and son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Brodt, all of 1223 Walnut Street, Utica, New York. He is operating a photographic laboratory and V-Mail station with a Navy Detachment.

Students attending the sports school will serve as instructors and coaches in a post-war athletic program for soldiers. Classes are held in gymnasiums and stadiums once used by Mussolini to train Fascist troops. Immediately upon completion of the course, men are returned to their outfits to begin expansion of the units' athletic programs.

C/Sp. Brodt directed basketball and softball leagues at the Utica and Rochester Y.M.C.A. organizations. At the time of his entry into the Army he was employed by the Eastman Kodak Co., Rochester, New York.

Overseas twenty-three months he wears the North American Defense Ribbon and the Mediterranean Theater Ribbon.

Coed, Pinup Girl

Thomas Andrews, an alumnus of the Publishing and Printing Department, writes in from on board a United States warship in the Iwo Jima combat area, that in his recent copy of SPRIT, the group picture of our coeds, was admired by his shipmates, and the paper made the usual rounds, above and below decks, even to the brig (not the brig).

This issue was so favorably received that "Ginger Rogers" Rieker was chosen pin-up girl by the entire crew of this war vessel. Congrats, Betty Lou!

Cross Awarded

First Lieutenant Edward R. Carey, 358 South St., Lockport, N. Y., navigator on a B-24 Liberator bomber in the 15th AAF, has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for meritorious achievement in aerial flight.

The award, presented by his group commander, Col. Craven C. Rogers, Galveston, Tex., came in recognition of the part he played as group lead navigator on a bombing mission to Munich, Germany, December 22.

"There was really very little flak on that mission," says Carey. "I was more worried about the weather than anything else. We flew through soup the whole way to the target, and the weather did not really lift until we reached open water on the way back."

Carey entered the AAF January, 1943, and received training as an enlisted man at the Harlingen, Tex., gunnery school. He received his navigator's wings and his second lieutenant's commission at Hondo, Tex., January, 1944.

He arrived overseas in July and has since been flying to some of the most heavily defended installations in Europe. He wears the Air Medal with two bronze Oak Leaf Clusters. As a member of his present group, he is authorized to wear the Distinguished Unit Badge with one bronze Oak Leaf Cluster.

A 1940 graduate of Lockport high school, he attended RIT, where he was a member of the Student Council and the Junior Class Executive Committee. He was employed as an apprentice machinist for the Merritt Engineering and Sales Co. in Lockport.

THE REVEALER

Leave us trip lightly down the halls of RIT and see what Rochester's luscious spring weather has done to some of the inmates.

Get a whiff of that "Odor of Pansy;" Werner Jaeger must be around. May be that new hair tonic of his has some magic spell over Jane Shafer. Heck, it should have worn off after five weeks though—the hair tonic, I mean.

Could that be Dick Frye romping along ahead of us? Somehow he seems to have that "hangover" look about him. Can't imagine why, everybody knows he wouldn't touch a drop of that filthy brown stuff. We'll chalk it up to "Spring Fever."

Our maestro Friz seems to be acquiring a new interest besides the band these days. I don't want to say that women in general and Bubbles in particular are occupying the other track in his mind.

Here comes Charlie Palmer with that rosy glow around him. He's probably thinking of Friday night at the Mixer with Shirley Stone.

Speaking of the Mixer, what foursome left at ten o'clock to take a long ride? Incidentally, the driver of that car has been trying to get a certain columnist to go for a ride. The columnist just found out why. Stevie, she doesn't mind walking, but not all the way in from the country. Now, really, that wasn't a very nice idea—and me with no shoe stamp!

Our pal, Leif, from Iceland, got a big charge out of the songs sung at the Mixer. He can't understand all the words, but we'll break him in. You see, he didn't know that Americans spoke two languages fluently—English and slang. He's been wasting his time learning English.

Last, but far from least, we can't forget the only one who pushed a broom after the party. Our one and only "Honey Boy" Gilpin. The boy with the cigarettes.

Pea Wee has that far-away look. Could Marilyn Harmon be the reason that he was also far away from work the next morning?

Those who survived the party at Summerville will not forget it for a while. Ed Laubenstein still has that "dark brown taste" from those three quarts. D. "Splathead" Schaubert is still wondering what he did to get his picture framed in such an appropriate place by our little Annie.

Johnnie Rietschky and Max Reed turned out to be quite the acrobats on the beach. Or do they always talk that way?

"It takes one to know one," sighed Dave Johnson as an inebriated character slept on his shoulder all the way home in the bus. Dave, you just don't look the type!

It's the first time in my life that I ever had a man for a rival. But I must admit the best man won. Say, Bobbie Rice, I hope you and Davey will be very happy. You make such a darling couple.

When Art Sawyer reached Pennsylvania, he wasn't calling "Penn 6500," instead he called Main 8658. Alice, next time why don't you wait until the elevator gets to your floor before you get in? Art's a patient boy?

Corwin Skinner is plugging for a trip to Cobourg early in June. How about it, kids? Let's hear some opinions.

Well, I've gotta dash now; that cigarette line is almost a block long—something like some of the other lines in this school. Davey.

—:— V. O. E. —:— Fads And Fems Dorian Gray Quiz Baseball In Bloom

DEAR V. O. E.:

Dew yu giv advice to lonele hearts? If you dew I wish yu wud giv me sum. My name is Susie O' Toole and I am looking for a husband. I am not az yung az I used to be. Altho I am stil not so old. Yu nite say I am just rite.

I am not reely bad looking. My hair iz blond—on the ends at least. It is getting dark in the middle. These days it iz hard to get pirovide yu no. I hav blue eyes, and three teeth mizing in front. I am going to get nu ones eny day now.

I can cook sum if the foods comes in cans altho sum times I hav trouble with the can opener. I get so lonesum living all by my self—that iz wy I wud like a husband.

Yu tel him that I cud support him. I got a good job. I wurk for a dentist and my job iz to mak faces at the patiens so they will forget he is hurting them.

Tel him also that he will not hav to wurry about cigarets. I collect lots of old butts.

Pleeze find me a husband. Fur ever gratefully yurs,

SUSIE

DEAR SUSIE:

I have read your most interesting letter and I assure you I will do my best to find you a husband. I am sure you would make any man a good wife. You sound like you are the domestic type. I am putting your letter in the paper so I am sure I will soon receive many replies from all the men that will read it. Perhaps you would like to send me a picture of you to accompany the letter. It wouldn't matter if it was a little blurred.

I promise you I won't give up til I find you a husband.

Sincerely yurs,
V. O. E.

Hi, gals . . . again we wonder if this is Spring or did old man Winter sneak back for a last bit of fun. Let's forget the sun isn't shining and talk Spring anyway.

To set off those blue jeans or that broom stick skirt, a braided rope belt gives that extra little touch. The credit for bringing that clever idea to RIT goes to "Peep" Lee.

If we took a stroll down by the Lake we would no doubt find ice—bur-r-r. But Elsie Mosher's bustle back bathing suit is too startling not to mention.

The RIT Dormites certainly proved "A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody" when they took over the U.S.O. as well as a great deal of the Navy last Sunday evening.

Looking as if she had stepped out of Vogue, was none other than Faye Burgwardt with latest of hairdos. Most of us have experimented with these all too unsuccessfully—what's your secret, Mrs. B.?

Naturally you're all going to the Junior-Senior Ball next Saturday, so again what to wear. Daisy Palmer has dreamed up a lush pink print which really is different. Long skirts and peasant blouses are youthful and they certainly catch the eyes.

There is to be activity galore this week-end with all our May Day guests. Of course, we're keeping up our standard of chicness but yet complete comfort, so—I'm off to get my room spic and span for another prospective RIT Dormite.

BECKY

Forty art students participated in a competition for the best drawing in connection with the motion picture, Dorian Gray. The contest was sponsored by Loew's Rochester Theatre. Students were scheduled to work in relays of four in the lobby of the theatre, afternoons and evenings, during the week of April 16.

Seventy-one drawings were produced, which were judged by a jury consisting of Amy Crough-ton, Art Critic of the Rochester Times-Union, Norman Nairn, Art and Music Critic of the Democrat and Chronicle, and Clifford M. Ulp, Supervisor of the Department of Applied Art.

The prize winners were: First Prize, $25 War Bond, Betty Lorraine Eddy; Second Prize, $25 War Bond, Josephine Riedmann; Special Honorable Mention, Helen Matz and Florence Patrick; Honorable Mention, Richard Andre, Richard Hawver, Joan Humbert, Jean Webster, Phyllis Whitfield. Prize winning drawings were exhibited at the theatre.

On May 7 the Institute baseball season opens at Genesee Valley Park. There are four teams entered in the competition; Photo Tech, Mechanical, Electrical and the combined Publishing and Printing, Chemistry, and Art school.

Umpires are to be picked by the managers of the teams playing that day. Games are to be seven innings long. There are to be nine games played, and at the end of the season the team that is first will play an All-Star team composed of players selected from the other three teams.

On May 7 the intramural base-games played, and at the end of Games are to be played on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday nights at 4:15 o'clock. In event of a team not being able to play on the date set, the game may be played on any open date.

Don't forget to get your ticket for the Blossomtime Prom to be held on May 12 in the Seneca Hotel Ballroom from 8 p. m. sharp until 11:45 p. m. From then on, it's up to you! ! !
