Campus Calendar Trimmed With Holiday Events

With the traditional Institute holiday party as the centerpiece, a festive smorgasbord of seasonal activities spreads itself across the campus this week and next.

Starting today, the annual sale of hand crafts is being held in the lobby of the College-Alumni Union. It features an array of unusual and delightful items made by student craftspeople and designers.

Tomorrow night scores of students, staff, faculty and their families will share in the activities, refreshments and good feelings that will be on hand during the Institute's 8 p.m.-midnight holiday celebration.

Next Wednesday, Dec. 17, at noon in the NTID Theatre, the RIT Signing/Singing Chorus will present "A Christmas Concert." If you've never realized the beauty and broader significance of signing, there may not be a better time than the holiday season.

And next Friday, Dec. 19, of course, there will be the tree-lighting ceremonies and presentation of turkeys in the Administration Circle at 1:30 and 3 p.m.

In addition to these events, there will be smaller signs of holiday cheer as departments and divisions hold their own informal get-togethers to share, in a more ostentatious manner than usual, the camaraderie of those who've worked, complained and triumphed together in the past year.

Have You Heard?

James Speegle, acting director of Personnel, has announced that the Institute will be closed on Dec. 29-31. This extends the holiday from the close of the work day on Dec. 24 to the start of the work day on Jan. 5.

Recommendation for closure was developed by the Institute Energy Committee and approved by the Administrative Committee, with the rationale that approximately $40,000 in energy costs will be saved by not reopening the three days between the Christmas and New Year's holidays. This year Christmas

Juanita Kreps Speech Tonight on Work Choices

JUANITA KREPS

Tonight (Dec. 11), students, faculty and staff will have a chance to meet former U.S. Secretary of Commerce Juanita Kreps. Kreps is this month's Institute Forum speaker on technology and values.

Following her speech on "Choosing Work That Matters" in Ingle Auditorium at 7 p.m., Kreps will be a guest at an informal reception in the Fireside Lounge. The reception is free and open to the public.

An economist who has had three decades of experience in the academic world as teacher, writer and administrator, her career also includes work in a variety of areas.

From 1975-76, she was president of the Southern Economic Association. She formerly chaired the Commission on Academic Affairs of the American Council on Education, and was a member of the Council of the American Association of University Professors and president-elect of the American Association for Higher Education. She also served as chairman of the board of trustees of the Educational Testing Service and was vice president of the Gerontological Society.

Kreps, who holds a Ph.D. in economics, was named a James B. Duke Professor of Economics at Duke University in 1972 and was appointed university vice president in 1973. A member of Phi Beta Kappa, she has been the recipient of many honorary degrees from colleges and universities. In 1976, she received the North Carolina Public Service Award.

Her trip to Rochester will be in part a business trip; she will be attending a board meeting of Eastman Kodak Co. of which she is a board member.

Other boards on which she currently serves include: The New York Stock Exchange, Citicorp, J.C. Penney Company, American Telephone and Telegraph (AT&T), ARMCO, and R. J. Reynolds Industries.

Kreps is currently vice president emeritus and a trustee of Duke University.

In the Library...

A selection of books and articles by Dr. Juanita M. Kreps is available in Wallace Memorial Library.

Books: Lifetime Allocation of Work and Income: Essays in the Economy of Aging, 1971; Sex in the Marketplace: American Women at Work, 1971; Sex, Age and Work: The Changing Composition of the Labor Force, 1975 (with Robert Clark).

Books edited: Employment, Income and Retirement Problems of the Aged, 1963; Our Natural Resources: Their Development and Use, 1955 (H.W. Wilson); Women and the American Economy: A Look to the 1980s, 1976.

Articles: "Age, Work and Income," Southern Economic Journal, April 1977; "Aging and Social Policy: The Role of the First Forum," Gerontologist, August 1979; "Economics of Aging: A Survey," Journal of Economic Literature, September 1978; "Why We Need A Regulatory Budget," Business Week, July 1978.

Josephine Dudley Named to New Position with NRS

Josephine Dudley, special assistant to the director of Development, has been named to the position of administrative liaison to the Nathaniel Rochester Society (NRS).

Vice President Al Davis steps aside from that responsibility to assume special projects on behalf of President Rose.

After 10 years of service as administrative assistant to presidents Miller and Rose, Dudley last year was appointed special assistant to the director of Development with the responsibility of coordinating communications between RIT and the donors of scholarships and other special funds and between student recipients and donors. She now serves as a central resource for information about scholarships.

"Her additional assignment with the Nathaniel Rochester Society is an appropriate complement to her scholarship responsibilities," said Dr. William H. Williams, director of Development.

In her new role Dudley will interact with NRS Chairman Bruce Bates, who also is a member of the RIT Board of Trustees, and Vice Chairman Fred Ray in planning special functions for the 270-member organization. She also will work with the Membership Committee, Awards Committee and other committees of NRS, a major source of annual fund raising support for the Institute. NRS members are active in many aspects of the Institute.

Bill DuBois (left), acting director of Career Education and past director of the Partners Project, recently was honored by the NYS Division for Youth for his valuable services as director of the Partners Project. The project links youth with RIT interns from the School of Photographic Arts and Sciences and the School of Art and Design. A plaque was presented to DuBois by Dr. Barry Glick, district supervisor of the Division for Youth, at a recent meeting at the City Center.

Plans to Upgrade Athletics Announced

RIT has announced plans to upgrade its intercollegiate athletics program.

Among the changes the Institute cites are the selection of several sports for special emphasis, improved scheduling, better equipment and enhanced aid based on financial need.

The men's sports selected for improvement are hockey, basketball, soccer and lacrosse. Increased emphasis will be placed on women's sports with the intent of identifying those areas with the greatest potential for development.

Please Note

A group of approximately 500 persons will be attending an IRS Practitioners Workshop at RIT on Monday, Dec. 15. Because they will be dining in the College-Alumni Union cafeteria at 11 a.m., Institute faculty, staff and students may want to wait until after noon to eat, or choose the RITskeller or Grace Watson instead. (Note: workshop participants will park in lots A and B.)

"The sports chosen for greater emphasis are those that will contribute most to school spirit, attendance and RIT visibility," says Dr. Fred Smith, vice president for Student Affairs.

In order to accommodate these changes, RIT has announced it will discontinue rifle, bowling, golf and baseball effective for the 1981-82 academic year. Men's tennis will be modified to a one season activity in the spring.

"To insure the strength and vitality of the intercollegiate athletics program in a time of inflation, a greater focus of resources is required," explains Smith. "Difficult choices must be made in the best interests of both students and the Institute."

Existing programs to be continued are men's hockey, basketball, soccer, lacrosse, tennis, swimming, cross country, wrestling and track, and women's hockey, softball, volleyball, tennis, swimming and track.

All RIT sports, with the exception of men's hockey, will remain at Division III. This year men's hockey moved to Division II of the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC).

Uelsmann Speech Tonight

Jerry Uelsmann, a well-known photographer whose work is included in the permanent collection of the International Museum of Photography at George Eastman House, will speak at RIT tonight (Dec. 11) at 8 p.m.

His public lecture will be held in the College of General Studies lecture room. Following his speech, Uelsmann will receive the 1980 Distinguished Alumnus Award from RIT's College of Graphic Arts and Photography.

Currently a graduate research professor at the University of Florida, Gainesville, he is a 1957 graduate of RIT.

Uelsmann has had one-man exhibits of his work at the New York Museum of Modern Art, the Chicago Art Institute and the Philadelphia Museum of Arts.

He has been the recipient of fellowships awarded by the National Endowment of the Arts and the Guggenheim Foundation. Uelsmann's works have also been reproduced in both book and portfolio form.

Uelsmann is best known for a special technique he developed for printing multiple image photographs. He set the standard for prints in this field, according to Dr. Richard Zakia, coordinator of RIT's MFA program in photography.

Uelsmann's lecture is free and open to the public.

Ski Package

The RIT Physical Education Department will offer a skiing package to faculty, staff and families beginning Jan 6, according to Bruce Proper, PE director. Available on either a six-week or seasonal basis, the program will run Wednesday or Thursday evenings at Ski Valley, Naples.

Persons interested in the program should attend an informational meeting Friday, Dec. 12, at noon in the RIT ice arena conference room. For additional information contact the physical education office at ext. 2620.

RIT MEN'S SWIMMING

1980-81 Experience the
TIGER SPIRIT!

Coach John Buckholtz just may be perched on a powder keg in the middle of the Edith Woodward Memorial Swimming Pool.

The Rochester Institute of Technology swim mentor has surrounded himself with a nucleus of veterans and top newcomers and points toward an explosive 1980-81 campaign.

With freshman Barry Zacharias providing his own bit of dynamite, the Tigers opened the season Dec. 6 with a strong effort against Division I Colgate University. Despite a 63-50 loss, six RIT finmen qualified for the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Division III Championships. Zacharias annihilated two school and pool marks and set a state record in the process. He chopped 23 seconds off the 1,000-yard freestyle record, timed in 9:49.14. His 1:56.96 in the 200 butterfly lowered the school mark by six seconds.

Zacharias is not the only Tiger finman to be reckoned with this year. Key veterans Buckholtz cites include tri-captains Rob Dandrea, Tim Early and Jake Gulick, All-Americans Paul Bartels and Keith Ostermann, state champion Eric O'Brien and diver Scott Ball. Along with Zacharias, leading newcomers are Jim Leenhouts and Dave Cannon.

"This is the strongest swim team RIT has ever had," admits Buckholtz, who has coached the squad since its inception in 1968. "We have talent, maturity and a positive attitude."

The mentor looks for these qualities to lead his team to another banner year. Last season RIT achieved an 11-2 dual meet record, posted its best finish ever in the Upper New York State Championships with second place and sent 10 swimmers to the NCAAs.

Buckholtz has established what he feels are realistic goals for the 1980-81 season. Along with equalling last year's dual and state meet marks, he is pointing toward finishing in the top six at the NCAA Championships. Along the way he is gearing his finmen to an undefeated record in the Independent College Athletic Conference (ICAC). Last year one of RIT's two losses came against conference foe St. Lawrence. RIT's other defeat was to Cortland.

While the roster is loaded with versatile performers, the freestyle events should provide depth and power for the Tigers. Early, Cannon, Dandrea and Ostermann will share the spotlight in the sprints. Early and Ostermann were All-Americans two years ago. Buckholtz sees all four sprinters qualifying for the nationals.

In the distance events, Zacharias leads the way with O'Brien and Leenhouts right on his heels. Depending on where he's needed, Zacharias has the potential to become RIT's first national champion, and that in his freshman campaign.

Leenhouts is a Section Five champion in two distance events and has already qualified for the NCAAs in the 200 and 500-yard freestyles with times of 1:46.7 and 4:48.09 in the opener against Colgate. O'Brien proved himself by winning the state title in the 1,650-yard freestyle last year.

The specialty events, with the exception of breaststroke, loom very strong. Zacharias, Bartels, Gulick and veteran Tom Callahan lead the butterfly corps. In the backstroke, Buckholtz points again to Zacharias and Bartels, along with Cannon and veteran John Vesosky.

The individual medley may be the strongest event for the Tigers. Bartels was All-American last year and should repeat. Zacharias, Gulick and O'Brien should also see action here.

In diving, Scott Ball points toward returning to the nationals. Veterans Bob Ketrick and Kerry Ten Huisen provide depth and newcomer Jim Ross shows much potential.

Ed Martin plays a big role in the breaststroke plans. The veteran must replace Rich Bernstein who graduated.

The relays could be awesome. Buckholtz sees both freestyle relays and the medley with All-American potential.

The schedule along the way will not be an easy one, as witnessed in the loss to Colgate. St. Bonaventure, St. Lawrence, Cortland and University of Rochester will be teams to beat for success.

Two years ago RIT splashed its way to 14th place in the nation. With the talent in the lineup this season, Buckholtz feels his finmen can break into the top six with as many as 10 All-Americans.

In his 12 seasons as head coach, he has compiled 110 wins while losing 38. His record in the ICAC is 40 wins, six losses.

Assisting with the coaching duties is Janet Jones, who comes to RIT from State University of New York at Brockport. Jones will also coach women's track and teach an adapted physical education program for handicapped at RIT.

Government Affairs Office Moves

The Office of Government Affairs, which is responsible for monitoring and disseminating information on grant and contract opportunities for faculty and staff of the Institute, has moved to the RIT City Center. The telephone number is 262-2719.

The Government Affairs staff will continue to provide information services as well as the monthly newsletter announcing new grant programs. In addition, the staff will maintain an office on the Rochester campus, in cooperation with the Faculty Council, from which interested persons will be able to obtain guidelines and other reference sources.

Foundations Seminar at NTID Today

Dr. Michael Steve, NTID assistant professor for the division of Technical and Professional Education Administration, will present highlights of his paper on "Problem Solving and Decision Making" today at noon in Room 1510 (formerly 1145) of the Lyndon Baines Johnson Building.

Later today, Steve, Dr. Gary Long, NTID assistant professor and chairperson of General Education Research and Development, and James Kersting, NTID assistant professor and chairperson of the career exploration department, will conduct a seminar on "Problem Solving and Decision Making," from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. in the Visitors' Center of the LBJ Building.

For the past nine years Steve has investigated instructional strategies useful

NTID Media Production Honored

The Media Production Department of NTID recently received national awards for excellence in communication design from the University and College Designers Association (UCDA) and Art Direction Magazine. The department's award-winning project was a three-poster series for NTID's 1980 energy savings campaign.

The poster series was displayed at the national conventions of both the association and Art Direction Magazine. It will also be included in the hardcover edition of the Art Directors Annual, Creativity 10. Artist/designer Louise Hutchinson designed the posters.

Art Direction Magazine also recognized another media production department project, the Speech and Voice Characteristics of the Deaf Package. The package will be disseminated nationally through the Alexander Graham Bell Association for the Deaf in Washington, D.C. Artist/designer Dean Woolver was the graphic designer for the project.

Other NTID professionals who received UCDA and Art Direction Magazine awards for their work on these two projects include: Mark Benjamin, Thomas Castle, William Castle, Stephen Dingman, Donald Lichty, Shirley Loeffler-Wallace, Sarah Perkins, Nicholas Orlando, William Repp, Jorge Samper, Michael Spencer, Joanne Subtelny,

Tiger Wrap-Up

Coach Bill Nelson's basketball squad faces a major test this Saturday when it hosts the University of Rochester at 8 p.m. This will be the first and only meeting of the two squads this season.

UR captured the Lincoln First Tournament last weekend with a two-point win over Nazareth, which had downed RIT in the second round. The Tigers took third place honors by trouncing Geneseo. Dave Grundtisch was named All-Tournament for the Tigers.

The Tigers played Hamilton Wednesday as a tune-up for the contest Saturday.

In other sports action last weekend, the men's hockey team downed Canton (4-2) and Sheridan (10-2). The women's hockey squad opened the season Sunday with a 2-2 tie against RPI. In wrestling, Darrell Leslie won the 145-pound title in guiding RIT to sixth place in the 15th annual RIT Wrestling Invitational. Brockport won the crown.

The men's and women's swim teams opened their campaigns, losing to Colgate. The men fell short in the final relay and lost by a 63-50 margin. Barry Zacharias broke two school and pool records to pace the Tigers. The women lost to Colgate by a 108-26 margin.

Christmas Mass

Students, faculty and staff of the Institute are invited to a special Christmas mass and celebration before vacation begins. The mass, with Christmas music, will be held Sunday, Dec. 14, 5 p.m., in Ingle Auditorium. The usual Sunday morning mass will not be held on that day. The Saturday afternoon mass, however, will be celebrated as usual.

PROFILE

Four Good Reasons to Dine in Clark

As RIT's frantic fall pace accelerates into its annual pre-holiday frenzy, many faculty and staff come to value lunch time in Clark Dining Room as much for its restorative quality as for its culinary content.

The setting is handsome and the food satisfying, but many luncheon regulars regard the cheerful ministrations of Clark's skilled team of waitresses as a highlight of each meal.

Arlene Campbell, Alice Hicks, Maureen Isaac and Valerie Schillinger have been on the dining room staff for a combined total of 28 years. They are four people who genuinely seem to enjoy their work.

The waitresses' day begins at 10:30 each morning as they set the tables, prepare the salad bar and assist in arranging the buffet. At 11:30 the first customers arrive, the pace becomes hectic for two hours, by 1:30 the rush has passed, and by 2:30 the four are on their way home.

"Every day is a challenge," said Valerie Schillinger, who has seen the dining room clientele grow considerably during her 11 years on the staff.

Schillinger previously worked as an inspector for DeLuxe Check Printers and today still praises the "people part of my job at RIT." "We each have our own customers. We can see their moods change day to day, but we actually don't get very involved," she explained. "Our customers prefer it that way and so do we."

An ardent outdoors person, Schillinger snowmobiles every day this time of year near her home in Rush. During the summer she and her husband, who works at Kodak, camp frequently. She also invests a lot of her abundant energy into serious tennis as often as possible.

She is the mother of two daughters and a proud first-time grandmother. Her children share her enthusiasm about RIT and also work on campus, one in Grace Watson Dining Hall and the other in the printing and duplication center.

Alice Hicks, known to her coterie of customers as the "singing waitress" (although, in fact, she only hums) hails from Orchard Park near Buffalo. She has worked as a waitress since the age of 15 and continues to enjoy the role.

"At RIT the work is pleasant because of the people, especially the people I work with," she said. She has been on the dining room staff since 1975.

Hicks describes her favorite pastime as taking care of her family and appreciates being home in the afternoons to greet her two younger children after school. Two older children are married and she is a grandmother several times over.

A person who seems serenely content, Hicks becomes most animated when talking about her husband of 26 years, who is a manager and salesperson for Rupp Rental and Sales. "He is the greatest person," she claims.

Arlene Campbell's comfortable and comforting manner has been appreciated by her customers since she joined the Clark staff in 1971. A highly experienced waitress, she has also worked part time in the evenings at Logan's Party House for the past 18 years.

A native of Rochester, she and her husband now live in Chili with the younger two of their five children. He is employed by Kodak.

Campbell says, "I like to do things with my hands, especially flower arranging." Right now she is completing ceramic and other craft items as gifts for friends and family.

The newest member of the Clark team is Maureen Isaac, beginning her fourth year on campus. "Maureen is always smiling," said one of her regular customers. "Her unfailing good humor always adds something to the meal, especially during working lunches."

A bowler, snowmobiler and avid canoeist, Isaac is the mother of four children, one a student at the University of Rochester. "One of the good things about this job is that it gives me time to be with my family," she said. "Plus I have really liked getting to know the people I work with and a lot of other people at RIT." Isaacs' husband is an officer of Lincoln First Bank.

All four of the waitresses attribute much of their enjoyment of their work to Robert Day, who has been manager of the dining room the entire time of their employment.

For his part, Day echoed the thoughts of many members of the RIT community when he said, "We have been extremely fortunate to have this group of waitresses. They are upbeat and spread a lot of joy. And they are a lot of fun to work with."

Have You Heard...

Day and New Year's Day fall on Thursdays and create two four-day holidays and thus provide a circumstance to attempt this energy saving experiment. This will not necessarily be a regular practice.

All permanent employees normally scheduled to work on these three days will be paid on a regular basis for Dec. 29-31. (Employees not eligible for holiday pay will not be paid.) All general and hourly employees will receive two pay checks on Dec. 24. Time cards for general and hourly employees are due by Dec. 19. There will be more information from Payroll in the next several days.

Employees paid semi-monthly will receive their end-of-the-month check on Dec. 24.

Many general and hourly employees, who must use vacation time by Dec. 31, may have been planning on taking some or all of these three days as vacation. So that those employees will not be penalized, those planned vacation days (maximum of three) may be carried over into 1981.

Questions about the Institute closing should be directed to either the Payroll Dept., ext. 2381, or Personnel, ext. 2424.

TALK ABOUT EXISTENCE

RIT Philosophy Club presents Professor Dennis Bradford, Dept. of Philosophy, SUNY Geneseo, who will talk on "The Concept of Existence," Tuesday, Dec. 16, 7 p.m., in Room 1141 of Bldg. 12. Everyone welcome.
