NEWS BRIEFS

NTID STUDENT EARNS PRINTING MANAGEMENT DEGREE; FIRST IN NATION -- NTID student William C. Davidson, has become the nation's first deaf person to receive a college degree in printing management.

Davidson will be employed Jan. 18 as a printing management trainee with the Navy Publications and Printing Service, Naval Supply Systems Command, U.S. Navy Department, Washington, D.C.

"For years the printing industry has employed deaf persons, but not to serve in a supervisory capacity," said Dr. Robert Frisina, RIT vice-president and director of NTID. "But if it hadn't been for the government, Davidson would be qualified for a management position, but unemployed."

Davidson, 31, reports that the doors of private industry were shut to him through extensive nation-wide interviews.

"The big companies told me to first prove myself with a small company," Davidson said. "The small companies told me I would have a better chance going with a big firm. At times the whole thing was really frustrating. They never met a deaf person before and didn't know what to do with me."

Dr. Frisina admits that Davidson will be a test case for admitting other deaf persons into the printing management programs at RIT.

"In addition to Davidson's success, we need to educate all of industry to the valuable resource we have in our technically skilled deaf citizens," Frisina stressed.

"I realize that what I do could help others, but it is still the responsibility of each deaf person to earn opportunities through his or her own efforts," Davidson stated.

Married and the father of a three-and-one-half year old daughter, Davidson graduated from W.F. West High School in Chehalis, Wash. in 1958. He attended Gallaudet College in Washington, D.C. from 1959 to 1963 and again from 1965 to 1966. Prior to enrolling in NTID in 1968, he studied a year at Seattle Community College in Seattle, Wash.

Davidson's work experience includes counseling and coaching at the California School for the Deaf in Berkeley, Cal. (1963-64), counseling and coaching at St. Mary's School for the Deaf in Buffalo, N.Y. (1964-65), inventory clerk with the Boeing Company in Seattle, Wash. (1966-68) and negative assembly stripper at Ridgway Litho Company of Seattle (1968).

Davidson cites the "excellent support" of counseling, interpreting and tutoring services of NTID with enabling him to compete with hearing students at Rochester Institute of Technology as well as finding a "responsible" position in industry.

"We are confident that Bill Davidson will make an extremely valuable employee,"
Dr. Frisina evaluated. "He, like most of our deaf students, is highly self-motivated."

NEW PUBLICATION AUTHORED BY HENDERSON -- "Program Planning with Surveys in Occupational Education" is the subject of a new publication authored by RIT Associate Professor John T. Henderson.

Henderson, director of the Institute's Center for Community College Faculty Development, prepared the monograph as part of the Occupational Education Project of the American Association of Junior Colleges under funds provided by the W. K. Kellogg Foundation.

Designed to provide a better understanding of techniques involved in conducting surveys, the publication furnishes guidelines for junior college deans and administrators involved in the planning and implementation of occupational programs.

According to Henderson, the primary area of growth in the junior colleges over the next few years will be in the field of occupational education. "In most communities," he states in the book's Introduction, "where junior colleges have been established, there has been a dearth of career programs. Their formation demands diligent information gathering and careful planning. Thus, surveys can be a critical tool in both processes, which is the basic reason for the publication of this quide."

Henderson, who also holds the dual post of director, School of Applied Science, came to RIT in 1968 -- having previously served as assistant university dean for two-year colleges at the State University of New York (Albany).

PAPER GIVEN -- Dr. George D. Demopoulos, assistant professor of economics in the College of Business, recently presented a research paper entitled "Wage Adjustments to Monetary Policy" at the national convention of the American Statistical Association section of the Allied Social Science Association in Detroit, Mich.

Dr. Demopoulos' research showed two things: first, that monetary policies have a strong but not constant or easily predictable effect on inflation, thus undermining both monetarist and non-monetarist theories of inflation control; and secondly, that if inflation is to be curbed without extensive unemployment, concentrated attention on the structure of labor markets and the development of extensive, effective and easily accessible retraining program is necessary.

Dr. Demopoulos is currently working on a book (research monograph) titled "Monetary Policy, Unemployment and Wage Rates: The U.S. Postwar Experience" scheduled for publication this spring by the Center for Planning and Economic Research in Athens, Greece. He is also preparing a paper (with A.D. Butler) titled "Labor Force Behavior in a Full Employment Economy", scheduled for publication in the April issue of "The Industrial and Labor Relations Review."

DUBRIN PAPER PUBLISHED -- "Management Development: Education, Training or Behavioral Change" is the title of an article by Dr. Andrew J. DuBrin, associate professor of behavioral science in the College of Business, in the December issue of Personnel Journal. The article was adapted from material contained in a forthcoming book by Dr.DuBrin titled The Practice of Managerial Psychology: Concepts and Methods for Manager and Organization Development.

ROTC INFORMATION MEETING SCHEDULED -- Three informal informational discussions on RIT's two-year Reserve Officer Training Program (ROTC) will be held on Tuesday, Jan. 26 in the south lounge of Nathaniel Rochester Hall at 10 a.m., 1 p.m., and 7 p.m., according to Dan Marquart, ROTC student cadet battalion commander.

The two year ROTC program is open to all students who have two years of college remaining. This means that a junior in the cooperative education programs of the Colleges of Engineering, Science and Business are eligible. Advanced cadets receive a monthly stipend and all materials for ROTC courses. He is commissioned as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army upon graduation.

Students interested in the program are invited to attend the discussion.

Persons desiring more information may call the ROTC office, at 2881.

MEMORIAL SERVICE HELD -- A memorial service for Prof. Alexander Easson of the School of Photographic Arts and Sciences was held Sunday, Jan. 10, at 3 p.m. in the Gannett-Booth Auditorium.

Prof. Eason who died suddenly on Jan. 6, joined the Institute in 1970, specializing in industrial photography in the professional photography program.

* * * * *

PROFESSOR NAMED DIRECTOR -- Dr. Hollister Spencer, associate professor in the College of Business, has been named to the board of directors of the Monroe County Industrial Development Corp. The Corporation, affiliated with the Rochester Chamber of Commerce, channels funds and otherwise promotes industrial development in the Rochester area.

CO-OP APPOINTMENT ANNOUNCED BY PUBLIC RELATIONS -- Miss Susan Keane, a senior in the College of Business, has been named to the RIT Public Relations staff as a ten-week cooperative education student.

Miss Keane is a senior in RIT's School of Retailing. In public relations, she will serve as a staff assistant in the News Bureau with responsibility for publicizing the Institute's cooperative education program.

Miss Keane, has been active at RIT as a member of Alpha Xi Delta Sorority, secretary of Panhellenic Council, and a member of the Reporter advisory staff. She is also listed in "Who's Who at RIT.

NTID OFFERS NEW COURSE -- "World Literature" is the topic of a new course being offered this quarter to deaf students in the NTID program.

Presented by Robert F. Panara, chairman of the NTID English department, the course is exploring selected world classics in poetry, drama and the novel.

Panara recently authored an article titled "The Deaf Writer in America: From Colonial Times to the Present". It is the first in a series of proposed publications by deaf NTID faculty members on the cultural achievements of the deaf.

KLAFEHN NAMED NTID DEPARTMENT CHAIRMAN -- Robert N. Klafehn has been promoted to department chairman of the Certificate-Diploma-Associate programs in electrical-mechanical technologies for the NTID.

For the past seven months Klafehn served as an assistant professor in NTID's mechanical-electrical department.

"Mr. Klafehn's extensive teaching experience in mechanical and electrical technologies will be valuable in helping to chart the course of study for deaf students in those two areas," said NTID Dean William E. Castle.

A native of Hilton, N.Y., Klafehn was a counselor and coordinator of engineering graphics in RIT's College of Continuing Education for two years prior to joining NTID.

He earned his bachelor's and master's degrees in industrial arts from S.U.N.Y. College of Education at Buffalo, N.Y.

Klafehn's teaching experience includes Eastridge High School of Rochester (1961-64), John Marshall High School of Rochester (1964-66) and Hilton Central Schools (1966-68).

PUBLICATION LISTS NTID FACULTY MEMBER -- The name of NTID faculty member Elizabeth O'Brien, an education specialist in the College of General Studies, has been selected to appear in the 1971 edition of "Community Leaders of America".

The book honors those individuals who have in some way contributed to a better America by building better communities through service.

Miss O'Brien is a member of the American Instructors of the Deaf and of the Professional Rehabilitation Workers With the Adult Deaf. She is corresponding secretary of the RIT Women's Club and a member of Zonta Club International.

As an educational specialist for NTID, Miss O'Brien arranges courses of study for deaf students as well as for the support services needed in notetaking, counseling, tutoring and interpreting. Miss O'Brien, an expert interpreter and teacher of sign language, was listed in the 1965 edition of "Outstanding Young Women of America".

"GOOD LIFE" FOUND BY FORMER RIT EMPLOYEES -- Several retired and former employees have found the "good life" away from the snow-filled skies of Rochester in the resort-retirement community of Sun City, Arizona.

Miss Ada Vernon, who joined RIT in 1938 and served for 26 years as executive secretary to President Emeritus Dr. Mark Ellingson, was the prime promoter for the RIT retirement colony. Miss Vernon was joined in Sun City last spring by C.B. Neblette and his wife Edith.

Neblette retired in 1967 as dean of RIT's College of Graphic Arts and Photography, after 36 years of employment with the Institute. His wife Edith logged in 27 years at RIT as an executive secretary in the School of Photographic Arts and Sciences.

Other former RIT employees now living in Sun City are Mrs. Merle Gay, Mrs. Mary Heintz, (on a medical leave of absence from RIT) and Mrs. Lucy Dixon.

FROSH SWIMMER EARNS ATHLETE OF THE WEEK HONORS -- Don Carlson, a freshman who has been one of the leaders in RIT's assault on the swimming record book, has been accorded Athlete of the Week honors by the RIT Athletic Committee.

Carlson chopped 4.4 seconds off the RIT record last Saturday (Jan. 9) in his specialty, the 500-yard freestyle with a time of 5:24.7; led off the victorious 400-yard freestyle relay team; and took a second behind co-captain Dave Oates in the 200-yard freestyle. Carlson, incidentally, set the record (1:56.9) in that event against the University of Rochester.

The one-two finish by Oates and Carlson in the 200 was the spark that led John Buckholtz' Tigers to a 71-42 triumph over RPI, their fifth victim of the season. RPI had won the opening relay and the 1000-yard freestyle before the Tigers took over. Mike Kenna and Mike Cahill followed Oates and Carlson with a one-two in the 50-yard freestyle, and Rom Trumble and Craig Southard took one-two in the 200 Individual Medley. Kenna tied the record in the 50, and Trumble peeled three seconds off the record in the IM.

In other action last Saturday, Earl Fuller's wrestlers won their opening dual meet with a 29-8 decision over RPI. Don Porter (118), Mike Wilson (177), and Jim Miller (Unlimited) scored pins, while Skip White posted his 11th win in 12 starts.

SPORTS (Continued)

In basketball, the Tigers put together a pair of big point spurts to defeat Potsdam State, 87-75. A run of 12 points in the middle of the first half paved the way to a 17-point halftime lead, and an eight-point burst stymied a Potsdam rally that had cut the lead to seven. Tom Connelly led the way with 21 points (15 in the first half) and 22 rebounds, and Pete Wilson chipped with 14 points and 15 rebounds. Bill Myers and Gene DeCristofaro sparked the second-half attack, accounted for 15 RIT points at one stretch.

RIT LONG RANGE PLANNING COMMITTEE

The Long Range Planning Committee (LRPC) of the RIT Policy Committee has held several meetings in which the goals of RIT for the 1970's were discussed. A revised preliminary set of goals will soon be released for the information of and subsequent discussion by all members of the Institute community. Comments by RIT faculty, staff and students will be appreciated and considered by the LRPC. Subsequent meetings of the committee will be open to members of the RIT community. Times and locations of the meetings will be announced in future editions of "News and Events."

All those interested in the planning and work of LRPC should feel free to communicate with one or more of the members of the committee. Their names and telephone numbers are listed as follows:

Dr. Paul A. Miller, Chairman 2394
Mr. Arthur L. Stern 2395
Dr. Todd H. Bullard 2392
Dr. Leo F. Smith 2398
Dr. Edward S. Todd 2297
Dr. Lothar K. Engelmann 2732
Mr. Donald A. Hoppe 2820
Dr. Eugene Fram 2360
Prof. George W. Reed 2176
Prof. Dane Gordon 2450
Mr. Eric Gutwillig Stüdent Association Folder

All news on matters relating to LRPC will be reported in future editions of "News and Events."
