Programs Will Earn 'Units' For Students In New Plan

Conferences, seminars, television courses and other educational programs that carry no formal academic credit will earn special "credits" under a new plan approved by the RIT Policy Council at its regular meeting.

Called Continuing Education Units, (CEU), the "credits" will be granted for ten "contact hours of participation" in an organized continuing education experience under "responsible sponsorship, capable direction, and qualified instruction," the Policy Council said.

The unit was developed by a national task force representing the U.S. Office of Education, the National Commission on Accreditation, the U.S. Civil Service Commission, the American Management Association and the National University Extension Association.

"A Carnegie Commission report predicts that during the 1970's and 1980's non-credit continuing education programs will be a major component of American education," Harold M. Kentner, Assistant Dean for Extended Services at RIT, said.

According to Kentner, the Continuing Education Unit will help employers, professional associations and others to take non-credit learning into account when appraising an individual's performance or occupational growth.

CEU units will be recorded on a Continuing Education students' transcript, similar to the way academic credit hours are recorded, RIT officials said.

Programs or courses which carry academic credit may not be used to gain Continuing Education credit, Kentner said.

He said RIT will use the following criteria to determine whether a program is eligible for CEU credit.

*--The activity is a continuing education learning experience.

RIT Assumes Colony Manor This Month

RIT will take possession of the 184-unit Colony Manor apartment complex on John Street May 30, Jon Prime, director of Institute Business Services, said this week.

Prime said RIT will use the apartments as married student housing, similar to the Perkins Green and Riverknoll complexes.

"We had 125 applications for apartment housing that we had to turn down last year because we had no room left," Prime said. "In order to attract and maintain our enrollment, we felt we had to provide more of this type of housing."

Prime noted that there "aren't too many apartments of this type around RIT."

He said non-RIT residents of Colony Manor will be asked to find other housing when their leases expire this year.

Prime said rents will not be changed, at least for the first year of operation.

Dr. Mary Ellis, director of the Technical Education Research Center, Washington, D.C., addressed engineering technology educators, industrial personnel, and RIT faculty members at the fourth annual B-Tech Evaluation Conference held by RIT's School of Applied Science. Dr. Roy Satre, dean of RIT's Institute College, said the purpose of the conference was to evaluate the current curriculum of the School of Applied Science. He added, "The B-Tech Conference is valuable to us because it acts as a gauge that tells us how effective our current programs are." The day-long conference was held at the Inn on the Campus.

Student, Faculty Conduct Outlined By Policy Council

Standards for both student and faculty academic conduct were outlined last week in a statement adopted by the RIT Policy Council.

The council approved an outline of academic conduct procedures submitted by the Faculty Council committee on academic conduct.

"The academic area is the one place where RIT lacks an official policy establishing equitable procedures for dealing with

Ballard Named Head of Criminal Justice

John O. Ballard, formerly acting director of the department of Criminal Justice, has been appointed director of that department, Dr. Paul Bernstein, dean of the College of General Studies, said.

The appointment was effective May 1.

Bernstein said Ballard has administered the department "with distinction" since he was named acting director in January.

The department has 200 students.

Ballard earned his B.A. in Sociology from Indiana University in 1964 with a minor concentration in Police Administration. He earned his M.P.A. in Public Administration at Indiana University in 1969.

He served as a police officer in Santa Ana, California, received police training in the Orange County Peace Officer's Academy at Costa Mesa, California, and acted as a police management consultant from 1967 to 1969 for the Public Administration Service in Chicago, Illinois.

As a police management consultant he conducted surveys of police, fire, and sheriff agencies as part of a comprehensive organizational and management study for the City of Portsmouth, Virginia. He also directed and conducted an in-depth study of police organization and administration for the Village of Shorewood, Wisconsin.

Dr. Miller Reappointed, Kay Barbour Named To Board

Mrs. Marcus (Kay) Barbour has been elected to RIT's Board of Trustees. She succeeds Mrs. Hettie Shumway who was named to the Institute's Honorary Board.

Arthur L. Stern, chairman of the Board, said that Mr. and Mrs. Barbour have been substantial supporters of RIT. They have been active in the Institute's Nathaniel Rochester Society (NRS), and Mrs. Barbour is currently serving her second year as co-chairman of that group. The NRS was founded to formulate a close relationship between leaders of the community and RIT.

Barbour

Through a gift to RIT, the Barbours have made it possible for the NRS to present an annual award to individuals who have significantly contributed to the advancement of the Institute.

Besides her involvement with RIT, Mrs. Barbour currently serves on the Board of Directors and the Executive Committee of the Highland Hospital Foundation.

In naming Mrs. Shumway to the Honorary Board, Stern said, "This is an expression of RIT's deep appreciation to her for her years of service." Mrs. Shumway has served on the Board since 1960.

Stern said her role in helping to establish RIT as the sponsoring institution for the federally funded National Technical Institute for the Deaf (NTID) will always be remembered. NTID is located on RIT's Henrietta campus and was established in 1965 by an Act of Congress.

During her tenure on the Board, Mrs. Shumway served as president of the RIT Women's Council and was co-chairman of the Student Personnel Committee during the years RIT was constructing its Henrietta campus.

In other business, the Board elected its 1974-75 officers. They are: Arthur L. Stern, chairman; F. Ritter Shumway, first vice chairman; Maurice R. Forman, second vice chairman; Brackett H. Clark, treasurer; and Byron Johnson, secretary.

Also re-elected to the Honorary Board were: Albert K. Chapman, chairman and Ezra A. Hale, vice chairman.

The Board re-elected Dr. Paul A. Miller as President.

Nine trustees were re-elected to terms expiring in 1978. They include: Howard F. Carver, Brackett H. Clark, E. Kent Damon, and Richard H. Eisenhart. Also A. Dexter Johnson, Tyron Johnson, Thomas F. Judson, Allen H. Neuharth, and Dr. Kenneth W. Woodward.

Stern said that David E. Egan was re-elected as the RIT Alumni Association representative on the Board, and Mrs. Julian Fitch was re-elected as the RIT Women's Council representative.

Furniture like this stool will be included in the two-part exhibit of thesis work by students in MFA program in the College of Fine and Applied Arts. The exhibit will be open daily in the Bevier Gallery through June 3.

CCE Plan

--There must be evidence of pre-planning which includes a written statement of objectives and/or rationale and a description of the program content and instructional methodology.

--Content must be organized and presented in sequential manner.

--The program development and planning must include input by Extended Services personnel and any two of the following: (a) Representation from the population to be served; (b) RIT personnel with content expertise in the program area; (c) Non-RIT personnel with content expertise in the program area.

--There must be a provision for registration and certification for individual participants.

--Minimum attendance and participation requirements will be specified for each program.

"The unit is only a record for the individual student, but measure which can be used by the institution to record the amount of its continuing education activity," Kentner said.

He said RIT will be the first college in the area to use the CEU system, which he said is "in line with the historical thrust of RIT to meet diverse educational needs."

Conduct

misconduct or grievances," committee members said in submitting their proposal.

As adopted, the procedures call for each college or academic unit within RIT to establish an Academic Conduct Committee composed of an equal number of students and faculty.

The Committee then will be responsible for hearing and making determinations in cases of charges of student academic misconduct or faculty academic unfairness.

The Committee should "attempt to avoid a strict legal atmosphere at formal sessions," the Faculty Council recommended, although it pointed out that both the student and faculty member have the right to present relevant evidence, question, and cross-examine witnesses.

The guidelines prohibit the use of legal council at Committee hearings.

Findings of the Committee will not be binding on faculty members, the guidelines note, but says that "faculty members have a moral obligation to respond in the highest professional manner to collegial recommendations."

Commuters Will Sell Tokens

With the increased bus service now available between RIT and Rochester, the Commuter Organization, through the efforts of Mark Bellinger, president, and Sharon DeSantis, vice-president, will sell bus tokens and commuter bus tickets in the College Union lobby, from noon to 1 p.m. on Mondays and Fridays.

In addition, tokens and tickets will be available at the Day Cashier's office on the first floor of the Administration Building.

"This is all part of the effort RIT is making to make available to more people economical commuting between RIT and Rochester," RIT officials said.

Secretaries' Seminar Planned June 5

"Secretaries Seminar '74," a workshop designed to promote the professional image of secretaries, will be held at the Holiday Inn Downtown, 120 E. Main St., June 5. The seminar, which is being sponsored by RIT's Extended Services Division, will begin at 10:45 a.m.

Main speaker will be Ms. Harriet F. Brewer, owner of Miss McCarthy's Stenographic Training Service, Rochester. She will speak on the topic, "What Makes a Gal Tick."

Alumni Film Crew Producing 16mm Film On Institute Programs, Student Activities

If you've seen signs that a film's being made on campus, you've seen right.

Camera crews for the RIT alumni film project spent their second week here last week, and they'll be back the week after next.

They're producing a 16mm film about the Institute which the Alumni Association hopes will be especially helpful in the current development campaign and in the admissions effort. The 12-to-15 minute general film should be useful to many groups within the Institute to show to a variety of audiences, alumni feel.

So far the film crew has interviewed students, alumni, and officials such as Dr. Paul Miller and Dr. Robert Frisina, and has taken location shots.

Five alumni and five others are among the creative personnel working on the film.

Dave McKenna, Photography '66, head of Visualforms of Toledo, Ohio, is the producer/director. Other alumni involved are four cameramen: Greg Elliott, Photography '69; Phil Yoder, Photography '67; Dennis Glenn, Photography '66, and Andy Olenick, Photography '70.

Non-Alumni working on the creative end are Toby Thompsonson, script writing; Ron Harper, animation; John Trucker Miller and Greg Goodhew, sound, and Linda Fox, creative art.

McKenna is aiming for a July completion date.

The film project task force, which the Alumni Association's Executive Council has given the day-to-day authority to see that the project is carried out, includes chairman David A. Park, Business Administration '68; alumni president Thomas G. Raco, Art and Design '63; Kathi McGarry Piehler, Photography '71 and Roger Aceto, ME '61, members of the Executive Council; and Chris Belle-Isle, Business Administration '69, director, Alumni Programs.

As planned by Visualforms, the film will contain facets on student life and activities in and out of the classroom, with special sections on the School for American Craftsmen, a photography studio, engineering, science and Food Administration laboratories, and classes in criminal justice, applied science, computer technology and business administration.

RIT will be shown as a career-oriented institution with the advantages of Co-op and an extensive curriculum. Shots of a student in a Co-op job will be included.

On-the-job interviews with alumni will elaborate on the career-focused education.

A deaf student will be interviewed and shots of the new NTID complex will be included.

Overviews will show the architectural features of the campus. Another segment will mention the Metropolitan Center.

Profs Take Grant For Science, Art

Two RIT professors have received a $1,346 grant from Collaborations in Art, Science and Technology, Inc. (CAST) of Syracuse for a project called "Sculptured Form in Liquid Flow."

Franklyn Schwaneflugel, associate professor of physics in the College of Science, and Philip Bornarth, associate professor of art and design in the College of Fine and Applied Arts, will use the grant to build a circular, radial flow table of six feet diameter upon which various combinations of flow patterns can be produced.

The aesthetic aim of the project, the professors said, is to study form, with a liquid of a higher viscosity than water used as the medium in place of traditional solid materials. The liquid flow will be stabilized into fixed patterns revealing formal configurations which might not be otherwise evident.
