RIT TO HOST MERIT SCHOLARSHIP SEMIFINALISTS

High school seniors who were semifinalists in the National Merit Scholarship exams will be guests of the Institute for a day-long orientation program Sunday, Nov. 7. The "Sunday Seminar for Semifinalists" will bring 1972 high school graduates and their parent to the campus for conferences with faculty advisors and open discussions with RIT student

PERSONNEL DEPARTMENT REMINDERS

The Personnel Department reminds all Institute faculty and staff that a son or daughter who turns 19 or marries will no longer be covered by the RIT Blue Cross-Blue Shield group contract and must apply for a separate contract. Also, if a staff member marries, he or she must request change to a family contract. In all cases, the Personnel Department must be notified immediately of a change in address or telephone number. For further information call Personnel at 464-2424.

BRICK CITY PLAYERS SCHEDULE FARCE

RIT's Brick City Players have scheduled "What The Butler Saw," by Joe Orton, Nov. 11, 12 and 13 at 8:30 p.m. in Ingle Aud., College-Alumni Union. The play is a farce about a psychiatrist who runs his own hospital and who has affairs with his female job applicants; and his wife, who seduces a hotel bellhop and brings him home. The show is produced by Butch Cassidy and directed by Ed Casey. Admission is 50¢ for students, and $1.50 for the general public.

EVENING STUDENTS SCHEDULE MEETING

The Evening Students' Association will hold a general meeting for evening students and their spouses, on Friday, Nov. 5 in the Mezzanine Lounge of the College-Alumni Union. Refreshments will be served at 7 p.m., the business meeting will begin at 8 p.m. and a rap session will follow. ESA vice president Don Wolf stated that the meeting is planned to "let everyone know what the Evening Students' Association is and what it's doing this year."

MIDDLETON RECEIVES PRINTING AWARD

R. Hunter Middleton, internationally-known type designer from Chicago, has received the third annual Frederick W. Goudy Award from the Institute. The award, established in 1969 by a grant from the Mary Flagler Cary Charitable Trust, is given to an individual whose activities add to the professional development and enhance the teaching effectiveness of printing faculty.

CAMPUS APARTMENTS AT RIVERKNOLL AVAILABLE TO FACULTY AND STAFF

Campus Apartment Housing Manager Miss Sue Niess has announced that one, two and three bedroom apartments in the recently-completed Riverknoll housing complex are available for RIT faculty and staff. The apartments rent for $165 to $200 including utilities. For additional information contact Sue Niess, 328-6455.

MRS. EISENHART DIES

Mrs. Elsa Eisenhart, wife of RIT Trustee M. Herbert Eisenhart, died earlier this month. Mrs. Eisenhart, 81, was a member of the RIT Women's Council, and was active in numerous community and civic group projects. She visited RIT only shortly before her death when her husband was awarded the Institute's coveted Founder's Award which was presented "for a lifetime of achievement and service which demonstrate and vitalize the ideals of the founders of this institution."

POT-POURRI

Mrs. Robert (Pilar) Pease, first vice president of the RIT Women's Club and wife of College of Continuing Education Dean Robert Pease, has been chosen an Outstanding Clubwoman of the Year by the Rochester Times Union. . . Jean-Guy Naud, formerly of the School of Photography, has joined the staff of NTID as an educational specialist to work with students who are cross-registered in NTID and the College of Graphic Arts and Photography. . . Dick Delmonte, director of placement, has been asked by the National College Placement Council, Inc., to join three other placement directors in composing a "how-to" manual for those new to college placement work. . . Dennis Krukowsky, first year photo major, "has been up to some very nice photography" in the year since he won the Photo Society of America/Rochester Institute of Technology Scholarship, according to the PSA Journal, which ran a four-page section of his work in its August issue. . . Paul Griggs, also a first year Photo student, won first place in the Gannett Newspapers Snapshot contest. . . John D. Hostutler, RIT trustee and general manager of the Industrial Management Council of Rochester, has been elected to the board of trustees of Community Savings Bank.
