

PTC Award Opportunity

Bruce A. Austin baagll@rit.edu

18 March 2004

PTC Students invited to submit projects for the Professional & Technical Communication Award for the Study of Ethics and Communication

The PTC Ethics and Communication Award has been established by the Department of Communication to recognize outstanding work in the study of ethics and communication by an undergraduate student enrolled in the PTC program. Human communication in the public sphere and in private life frequently presents ethical questions and dilemmas. Within the communication professions, standards of ethical guidelines and codes of ethics have been developed for practitioners. Yet new circumstances in society and technology generate constant rethinking of ethical decision-making. The Department of Communication seeks to award outstanding projects that advance our understanding of ethics and communication. This award has been made possible through a generous donation from a PTC alumnus who wishes to remain anonymous.

See the award webpage for further details.

http://www.rit.edu/~pmsgsl/Ethics_Award/Communication_Ethics_Award.htm