Carol Dombrowski, a 1993 Professional & Technical Communication graduate, is featured in the Spring 2003 issue of The University Magazine, RIT's quarterly publication (p. 34). The article, "Dombrowski Finds Perfect Fit on eBay," reports on Carol's success following her graduation from PTC and her most recent career move: landing, in a most creative fashion, the executive-level position of "Manager of Global People Development" at the Internet powerhouse. Carol triumphed over more than 700 other applicants for the position. Previously, Carol was director of product innovation at FranklinCovey, an international personnel training organization.
