All PTC and CMT students are invited and eligible to apply for a financial Grant for Independent Research. Students with a minor or a concentration in Communication (but who are majors in another discipline) are also eligible to apply for the grant.

Recently, the College of Liberal Arts announced the availability of up to $500.00 to support student research projects. The College defines research generously: any scholarly or artistic activity that produces new knowledge or original art or an artistic performance.

Complete information on the College's Grants for Independent Student Research is posted outside of the Department office, above the student mail folders.

Senior Thesis in Communication students and CMT students initiating their master's thesis are especially encouraged to avail themselves of this financial support.
