3 January 2003

A $1,000 scholarship is available for communication students who are New York State residents. The Women's Press Club of New York State will award its Beryl Spector Memorial Scholarship to "a student who wishes to resume or continue his/her studies toward a career in the communications field and can demonstrate good communication skills." Applicants must compose and submit an essay on the role the media played in this year's New York State gubernatorial election and two letters of recommendation. Applicants must be postmarked by 15 March 2003.

A copy of the Award description and an application form are posted above the mail folders. For more information, contact Bruce Austin.
