A paid summer internship in the advertising industry is available to multicultural undergraduate or graduate students. This is a competitively selected internship program sponsored by an advertising industry association.

The American Association of Advertising Agencies (AAAA) is once again sponsoring its Multicultural Advertising Intern Program. This ten week summer internship offers professional experience at an advertising agency. AAAA cover approximately 60 percent of the intern's cost of housing and a round-trip ticket between the intern's home (or school) and the city where the internship takes place.

The deadline for receipt of applications for this internship is Friday, 24 January 2003.

For more information, including application forms, please see Cathy Smith or Bruce Austin.
