Hellerman Baretz Communications, a Washington, D.C. public relations company, is looking to hire a full-time Account Executive for the firm's New York office. The firm prefers to hire recent college graduates or those with one year of experience.

Hellerman Baretz's work involves extremely high visibility matters for preeminent law firms, financial services companies and consulting firms. This is a wonderful professional opportunity with a high level of responsibility in an incredible learning environment.

Interested? Contact Bruce Austin at the Department office for more information.
