Boston Appoints Council Members To Committees

When 5 o'clock rolls around every Monday throughout the school year, it usually means almost every student has completed his day's work, but for members of the Student Council, work is still at hand. Last Monday, Sept. 21, Council members were welcomed back by President Bernie Boston to another year of responsibility as members of the student governing body.

No time was wasted in getting down to work as a secretary from "A" Block was elected. The appointments of the many committees for the school year were also made. Included in this quite important list were the assembly, lounge, athletic, publications, awards, constitution, parking lot, and civic activities committees.

Plans for frosh elections, the next large task for the student government were also discussed.

President's Message

Dr. Mark Ellingson

Welcome, Evening Students!

I am delighted to welcome each and everyone of you to the Institute. From past experience, I know that you come to us with a very sincere desire to better yourselves and widen your horizons. All of us here at RIT offer you our full resources in helping you to achieve your purposes. I know that you will take every advantage of the educational opportunities we provide. It is our purpose to offer a carefully prepared up-to-date educational program designed to help you achieve greater competence and a more satisfying life, whether you come from industry, business, or the home.

May I wish you all success.

Evening School Program Set For Monday Opening

Once again the lights will blaze at night in the Rochester Institute of Technology as hundreds of ambitious people seek their education under the Evening Division's program. Nearly 4,000 evening students are expected to use the facilities and know-how of RIT in the coming year.

Over 225 courses are offered this year to everyone interested in obtaining an education no matter how slight it may be. Entering its 125 year of service to Rochester and surrounding areas, the Division bears a brilliant record for its ability to shift its courses and programs to meet the need of the people. Bearing proof of this is its expanded Driver Education program and the recent addition of the Occupational Vision Conference.

Both occupational and avocational training are offered by the division which employs 287 faculty members. Those who are in search of the A. A. S. degree, at ten classes two nights a week, while those not working for the degree attend anywhere from one to four nights. Last year 215 men and women received the A. A. S. degree.

The Management course which is offered has proved to be exceptionally successful. Many employers and men who are working for management positions find that this course is one of the most helpful in any kind of management. Included under this course of study are Methods of Improvement for Office and Factory, Improving Supervisory Skills, Motion Time and Study III, and others.

Off-the-campus programs continued in Auburn, Rochester, and Newark, as the plants in these cities which have received the special courses continue to expand and prosper.

Many short and intensive courses are offered in the Printing Department throughout the school year and summer. A special course given to Gardner Board and Carton Co. employees during the summer was very intensive but proved very satisfactory.

Day School Enrollment Shows Increase of 60

The doors of RIT were opened wide on Sept. 10 for the registration of students for another school year, and since then approximately 1,150 have crossed the threshold of this institution.

Surpassing last year's total of 1,018, this year's enrollment will be representing nearly 25 different states and 15 foreign countries without respect to final statistics.

Showing a marked increase of nearly 60 students over last year's freshman class, the new students of this year number close to 600. Students from Canada, Japan, Alaska, and the Philippines are among the new entrants.

In the years to come an increased enrollment is expected, due to the fact that the high school graduating classes will be getting larger. The last few years have been years in which those students born in the early 1930's, when the birth rate was low, have been graduating from high school. Many Korean veterans have been attracted to RIT just as others before them have.

In comparison with other schools throughout the country, the Institute is expected to continue to show a marked increase in enrollment.

Newman Dance Slated Tonight

"September Song" has been chosen as the name for the Newman Club mixer, which will be held tonight in the Eastman Lounge from 8 to 11:30. Charlie Monachino's Orchestra will furnish the music. Admission will be 40 cents.

Plans for the year were discussed at the first club meeting. In the offing are a Communion Breakfast and a cabin party.

The Newman Club was founded for the purpose of teaching the Catholic religion in non-sectarian colleges.

SS Examinations Slated for Nov. 19

Applications for the Nov. 19, 1953 and April 22, 1954 administrations of the College Qualification Tests are now available at Selective Service local boards throughout the country. Information and application blanks may also be obtained from the Registrar's office.

Students should fill in application blanks and mail them immediately to Selective Service Examining Section, Educational Testing Service, P.O. Box 586, Princeton, N.J. Applications for the Nov. 19 tests must be postmarked no later than midnight, Nov. 2, 1953.

Students will take tests at one of the local testing centers. Both RIT and the University of Rochester have been named testing centers in the Rochester area.

According to the Educational Testing Service, it will be to the advantage of students to file applications at once, regardless of the testing date selected. Results will be reported to the student's Selective Service local board of jurisdiction for use in considering deferment as a student.

PR Posts Events

To keep Institute members informed of weekly happenings around RIT, the Public Relations Office is now preparing a "new events" bulletin.

Items for the events bulletin should be submitted by Friday of each week for publication in subsequent issues.

mixers are unidentified. Freshman Mixer, Friday, Sept. 11, started newcomers off on the right foot as the new male population took time out from registration activities to become associated with future classmates. (Photo by Dean Zeeb)

B. S. -Degree Aids Students, School

How will the granting of the B.S. degree at RIT affect you as an individual? This question and the question, "How will the granting of a B.S. degree affect RIT," has been asked of quite a few people around the Institute and the answers have been many and varied.

As far as the first question, the one 'How does it affect the individual,' is concerned, almost everyone seems to feel that it will be a big help to them. The students feel that the B.S. will help them in getting better jobs upon graduation. Most of those that aren't going to stay for the degree are going to be content with the Associate in Applied Science degree because of the lack of financial means.

Others want to go on to even higher schools and this means that they can transfer credit without loss.

Instructors are enthused because it will probably mean a larger program at the Institute which means their individual jobs will be more unified. Their time will not be divided among a conglomeration of unassociated jobs.

Almost every one asked feels it is probably the best thing that could happen to the institution. They feel that it opens up new horizons. Programs will probably be widened making room for a larger faculty and staff group which eventually should lead to a larger expansion that is anticipated at the present time.

One other thing that will be anticipated will be more general education courses—courses in mathematics, English, and others which the outgoing student now feels a little at a loss for.

Even though the authority has been granted to RIT only on a provisional basis everyone feels that they will be better graduates for it and that the Institute can be of even more service to the community.

Students Risk Parking Tickets

Parking has always presented a problem to RIT students and it looks very much as though this year is going to be no exception.

Parking facilities are not the best here but they are adequate. The student parking lot is only a little more than a block from the Institute and any member of the student association may purchase a sticker that gives him permission to park there all year for a very small fee. These stickers may be purchased soon from the Student Parking Committee—until such time as they are available though, you may park there free.

Streets around the Institute have restricted parking and you are reminded that you park there at your own risk. The police around here, at times, want to park their buggies to gain access to the Locust Club, so, if you happen to be in the way when they want to get in it's just tough. "Their pencils are the sharpest, their tickets the reddest, and their attitude the firmest of any I have ever seen," is the way one student put it. Sections other than in front of the Locust Club are tagged occasionally too.

One thing that should be considered when parking near the Institute for all day you are probably taking a space from some visitor or business man who is only going to stay for a few minutes or an hour. You can imagine how burned up you would be if you had to pay an hour parking fee' just to run into one of the buildings for a couple of minutes, especially if it was because someone was overparking.

There are a few things that are annoying about the parking lot though that should be taken care of. Have you gone over there and tried to go through a hole just a couple of inches wider than your car lately? Most of us have. That is the fault of the drivers that don't know how to park in a straight line though. You would think that after seeing a line starting to close up that the next cars coming in would try to straighten the line out.

PARADE OF OPINION

Pants Raid . . .

Two universities, one in America and the other in England, have recently experienced panty raids in reverse—with the girls being the raiders.

At the University of Toledo, 35 girls raced through the men's dormitory, startling half-dressed male students and stealing pairs of shorts, as they stormed from one room to another.

And in England, six girl students at Cambridge university, having vowed to take baths at each of the men's dormitories in turn, are already reported to have been successful in two male dormitories.

In each bathroom the intruders have left their club's insignia—a single silk stocking.

Ideal Prof: Just a Dream .

A Texas paper claims it has "found" the ideal professor. He is: One who can laugh with his class; a guy who has a sense of humor and uses it in the classroom. A well-prepared lecturer who thoroughly understands his subject.

A friendly, enthusiastic person who is really interested in his class and who is aware that ideas contrary to his own may be just as sound.

One who does not use the curve system of grading, but rather rates each individual on efforts as well as achievement.

A young man.

Questions?

Know a lot about a lot of things! Are there a lot of things Institute or campus-wise that you are kind of in the dark about? If there are, let the people that know, answer your questions for you.

Your Reporter staff would like to help by channeling your questions to those who are best qualified to answer, and also, let others, who may also be interested, know.

This is how it will work: You write your question on a slip of paper, sign your name to it, and deposit it in the mail box outside the Reporter office or give it to any member of the Reporter staff. The staff will then send it to the person who is an authority on that subject. He will answer it and return both the question and answer to the Reporter office. You will then be contacted from the Reporter office and both the question and answer will be published in a proposed question-answer column. That is, it will be published unless there is some objection.

Remember to sign your name, otherwise we cannot contact you and it will not be published. You may request that your name be withheld from publication, if you like, and it will be.

THE QUESTION

What impresses you most about RIT?

Jane Fees . . .

Retailing Freshman:
The thing that impresses me most is the friendliness of the students. There was an upper-class girl who met me at the dorm to help me with my things and to show me around. The way the girls drop in my room just to visit, it's just wonderful!

Barbara Law . . .

Retailing Freshman:
The section of town was a disaster.

I didn't think there would be much campus life, but the students are so down to earth that I don't even notice it any more. I should enjoy it here very much.

Beverly Flemming . . .

Retailing Freshman:
My schedule is much easier than I thought it would be, and I love the apartment that I have at Kate Gleason. Not only that but the seniors are much more friendly than I had expected.

Marilyn Glad . . .

Art Freshman:
I liked the freshman assembly and the freshman mixer. The assembly gave me a chance to know the school and at the mixer I got a chance to meet some of the students. I thought the mixer was a good idea and I met a lot of students there.

Sam Silberberg . . .

Printing Freshman:
I got my first impression last April when I came here to visit. I think RIT has one of the best printing schools in the country and I was really impressed with the printing equipment, the instructors, and everything in the Printing Department.

Coach Fuller Announces Wrestling Tryout Plans

Wrestling tryouts will start Monday, Sept. 28, at 4:30 p.m., in the Eastman Annex gym. All who are interested are urged to tryout for either the freshman or varsity team. Coach Earl Fuller emphasizes that previous experience isn't a requirement for the tryouts. He also in need of a freshman manager.

A quick survey of some of the freshmen shows an interest in wrestling. Among early prospects are three freshmen from the Electrical Department. Jim Cargononi from Cannonsburg High School (Pa), Mike Besederio from Washington High (Pa), and Gus Sciarahba from West High here in Rochester. Also Jim M o d r a k (Mech) from Cannonsburg, Pennsylvania. Joe Falardean (Comm) from Charlotte High, (Rochester) and Mack Hendrickson (Pr) Jamestown High (NY), have also shown an interest in the sport.

Returning veteran members of last year's squad who are scheduled to make their return appearance at the September 28 meet

Backed by the experience and strength of these returning matmen, along with an abundance of interested freshmen and upperclassmen, Coach Fuller states that the 1953-54 season looks promising.

Last year's squad did very well, taking seven of their ten matches. Not since 1940 has such a mark been set, and in that year the Techmen took six of seven matches. At the 4-I meet in Cleveland (sponsored by the Case Institute of Technology), last March, the, Techmen took three fourth places. These were won by Larry Wilson, John Radocha, and Jim Barclay. The squad would probably have done better, but they were hampered by injuries.

The squad will have better than two months' training under its belt before the season officially opens December 12, away from home against the University of Buffalo.

Tech matmen are expected to engage the following teams during the coming season: Cornell, Case Institute of Technology, Waynesburg College, Cortland State Teachers College, Edinboro State Teachers College, and Kent State (Ohio) Western Reserve.

Larry Wilson, one of last year's top wrestlers, demonstrates during University of Buffalo match, some of the intricacies of the grappling game. Tryouts are ready to begin.

Cagers Slate Team Practice For October 5

Basketball Coach Leo Fox announced that practice will start Monday, October 5. Anyone is eligible to try out for the team, and previous experience is unnecessary. The first two or three weeks are largely conditioning drills which are held in the school gym in the Eastman Annex, in preparation for the more intensive workouts to be held at Jefferson High School later in the year.

Candidates for both varsity and Jayvee manager can contact Faculty Manager Harold J. Brodie in Room 211 of the Eastman Building as soon as possible.

The only letterman returning from last year's squad is Bob Klos. Ken Hale will return in February, and of the others who were eligible to return, Bill Hunt is serving in the Army, and Ken Rhodes in the Marines.

Last year's netmen set three team records. Besides their excellent record of twelve wins against four losses, they set a new team high of 1265 points scored during the season, and a 79.06 average. One individual player record was set by Ken Rhodes when he racked up a 16.6 average for 16 games.

Although only one letterman is returning, several members of the Jayvees will be back to form the nucleus of the squad.

Eskimo, Philippine Island Student Register for Craftsmen Programs

Attending RIT on scholarships under the auspices of the Indian Arts and Crafts Board and the Mutual Security Plan respectively and at the same time cementing our neighbor relations are two craft students.

Ronald Senungetuk, an Eskimo, is a student in woodworking and furniture design at the School for American Craftsmen. Before coming to RIT he attended an Indian school, where he attracted the attention of many people interested in his scholastic and artistic ability.

Ronald's home is Wales, on the Bering Sea, a mere 57 miles from Soviet Siberia.

He plans to spend four years at RIT and return to his home to teach in an Indian school. Before leaving Nome, Alaska, for the United States and RIT to further his education, the temperature was a cool 55 degrees. Sixteen hours later though, when he arrived in Washington, it was a blistering 96.

His scholarship is financed by the Daughters of the American Revolution through the Indian Arts and Crafts Board.

A ceramic major at the crafts school is Miguel Agpoon, a native of the Philippines. He is attending the school for one year under the Mutual Security Plan.

Florescue Seeks Fencing Candidates

Coach Harold Florescue of the fencing team is preparing to receive recruits for both the men's and women's squads with preliminary workouts scheduled for the first week in October.

Freshmen students interested in trying for positions on either team should contact team members between now and the opening of the practice sessions or see Coach Florescue anytime after practice starts in the Eastman Annex gymnasium.

As a nucleus of returning veterans on the men's squad Coach

Florescue has Co-captains Irwin Kaplan and Wayne Atwell and manager Bernie Boston.

The women's is a little better off with five of last year's outstanding team due to return to the wars. Heading the list will be last year's captain Diane Klepinger and Clea Cooper, Cleo Wombacher, Lynn Thiemke, and Pat Putner.

Meets have been schedule for the teams with Buffalo, Conesus, Syracuse, St. Lawrence, Utica, Keuka, Fredonia, and Penn Colleges.

French Student Lodging Criticized in New Film

The lodgings committee of the Paris student community, fed up with student housing conditions, is distributing a film short to Paris movie houses showing the conditions under which 5,000 students have to live.

The committee hopes the film will arouse public interest in student housing conditions. Many students in Paris have no room of their own and others are living in unhealthy quarters.

Clark Union Plans Various Activities

This is the first in a series of articles covering the recreational facilities for students at RIT. These articles are being written primarily to orient freshmen students of the many and varied recreational and relaxing facilities offered by the school.

Clark Union is located on the first floor of the Spring Street dorm. Open to girls as well as boys, the Union includes such specialties as the Carnegie Room. Lovers of classical or semi-classical music will find in the Carnegie Room many hours of enjoyable listening. To obtain a pass for the room, contact George Kennedy in the Art Department. He will be happy to orient any and all students as to the operation of the record player and the use of the records. Hours for obtaining the key will be posted on the Union bulletin board.

For those who like to lunch while watching TV or just relaxing, the Union offers an assortment of sandwiches and pastries at very reasonable prices. Miss Mable Brown and Mrs. Anne McDonald operate this feature from six to 12:00 Friday and Saturday night, and from six till 10:00 Sunday nights. All mail addressed to students at the Institute is distributed from Clark Union.

Typewriters are also available to students without charge. The key to the typing room must be requested at the counselor's desk.

FACULTY ADVISOR

AL LAWSON

Every so often in our lives we are privileged to come into contact with an outstanding personality. In numerous instances we may be unaware of the impact that this person has upon us and how it will affect our lives.

Here at RIT such a person is Alexander Lawson, though many may not be aware of it at the time. Instructor, typographer, and advisor to a number of school publications Mr. Lawson affects the lives of a great many students as well as people not here at the Institute. Students who work on Technilla, Typographer, and the Reporter from other departments have come to know and appreciate Mr. Lawson as well as the students of the Printing Department.

Quiet, unassuming, and modest as he is, Mr. Lawson imparts the wisdom that he has gained in his years at RIT. Frequently you hear some student remark that he is astounded by him when a question has been answered in more ways than the student anticipated.

Here at the Institute Mr. Lawson advises the librarian on what books of interest to the Printing Department students should be bought for the Graphic Arts section; is the instructor in Hand Composition; and Survey of Printing courses; and is advisor to most of the student publications.

In addition to his other duties the Evening Division depends on him to act as counselor to anyone who may be interested in taking a course in printing to better himself in his work. But this is not enough to occupy his time, he also is the typographic advisor for all other Institute publications such as the guidance series and the Convocation program.

In his private life away from the Institute Mr. Lawson is a member of the Typophiles and the Typographer's Union. Throughout the printing industry he is recognized as an authority in his field. As such frequently he is called upon to help them in their work, and to attend meetings as their representative. As an indication of the esteem in which he is held by the industry Random House has named him as one of the judges for their contest held yearly for RIT Printing Department students.

Three RIT Departments Renamed In Recent Modernization Move

Among recent changes at the Institute toward modernization are the changes of department names to better indicate the courses offered.

Departments that have been renamed are the Printing Department (formerly Publishing and Printing Department), the Photographic Department (formerly Photographic Technology Department), and the Department of Art and Design (formerly Art Department).

Along with the name changes the Department of Art and Design has modernized its programs to be more flexible and to make it possible to go more into detail in the different branches of art.

All first year students take foundation courses in drawing, painting, and design which familiarizes them with the fundamentals of art. These courses are designed to develop sensitivity, organizational and visual aspects of design through the use of organic and inorganic materials applied to the use of line, form, color, and texture.

This program is a far-cry from the methods used by past masters of drawing simple forms with charcoal for months on end until one day the student was allowed to make a still-life drawing.

After the foundation course the student is better qualified to choose for himself the particular field in which he is most adept and interested.

The Printing Department also recently instituted a "topping" program which added a quarter to the original program.

Museum Solicits New Members

Canvassing from Sept. 17 to Oct. 1, Rochester Museum Association hopes to add 500 new members to provide financial support for the community services of the Rochester Museum of Arts and Sciences.

Mr. George H. Hawks, Jr., is over-all chairman of the campaign for members, and co-chairmen of the women's division are Mrs. Gilman C. Perkins, president of the Women's Council, and Mrs. William Yates. Mrs. George C. Schlegel, chairman of the membership committee of the Women's Council. Mrs. Clifford Dix Ford and Mrs. Rupert W. K u e n z e l, members of the latter committee, are cooperating and coordinating in the organization and planning of the campaign. Mrs. Ford is supervising preliminary work and enlisted the aid of many volunteers and junior aids for the undertaking.

For the campaign, Museum Director W. Stephen Thomas points out that 150 workers have been enlisted in the tremendous task of calling on prospects.

The goal of the membership canvass is 500 new members to bring the total membership to 2,000. It is through membership in the Museum Association that many of the "extra" services are sponsored and provided for the community at large.

The Museum Association makes possible the expanding of many areas of service. The children's program is sponsored by the Association such as the past summer activities in which 800 children participated in the variety of clubs and field trips. The adult and youth lecture series are another important contribution of the Museum Association.

An exhibition portraying the advantages and contributions of Museum Association membership is currently displayed in the Museum Library reading room on the second floor.

Crafts, Printing See 49 Graduate

Forty-nine seniors from the Department of Printing and School for American Craftsmen received degrees in graduation ceremonies during the summer. Nineteen graduates of the School for American Craftsmen were addressed by James M. Brown, director of the Corning Glass Center, in ceremonies, at the Crafts School.

Describing the role of design in industry, Brown told graduates "Taste in these arts, a sense of the fitness of things, can be acquired through education, through looking, reading, and comparing." Urging graduates to develop enthusiasm for their jobs and to be alert to new trends and research in the printing trades, Clifford L. Van Derbogart, president of the John P. Smith Company, expressed his congratulations to graduates of the Department of Printing. Thirty seniors received diplomas from Byron G. Culver, head of the department, at the exercises in the First Presbyterian Church.

When you smoke Chesterfield it's so satisfying to know that you are getting the one cigarette that's low in nicotine, highest in quality.

A fact proved by chemical analyses of the country's six leading cigarette brands.

And it's so satisfying to know that a doctor reports no adverse effects to the nose, throat and sinuses from smoking Chesterfield.

The doctor's report is part of a program supervised by a responsible independent research laboratory and is based on thorough bi-monthly examinations of a group of Chesterfield smokers over a period of a year and a half.

Chesterfield is best for me — my steady smoke for 7 years.
