The College of Liberal Arts twice annual newsletter is hosting its first staff meeting this Friday, September 21st, beginning at 3 p.m. in the Idea Factory of Wallace Library. The Idea Factory is located on the first floor of the library on the far left section with the couches. Editor Katie Locus invites Communication majors to attend and notes that contributing to Liberal Smarts will make an excellent portfolio piece. The newsletter has the largest on- and off- campus circulation of any newsletter published at RIT.

An e-newsletter published occasionally by the Department of Communication and distributed to students and their family, alumni, faculty and others who have expressed an interest in communication.
