

Public Relations Society of America Meets Sept. 28th

Bruce A. Austin baagl@rit.edu

24 September 2007

The Public Relations Student Society of American (PRSSA) seeks to "Advance the profession and the professional." Advertising & Public Relations majors and Professional & Technical Communication majors, as well as other students, who want to learn more about the organization now have the opportunity to do so.

RIT's recently certified chapter of PRSSA hosts an informational meeting this Friday, September 28th, in the College of Business (bldg 12), room 1115, from 1 to 2 p.m. Refreshments will be provided.

"The best reason to become a member of PRSSA is professional development," says Professor Wilma King of the Department of Communication and PRSSA advisor. "Graduates with a PRSSA affiliation often have an edge over the other students graduating with PR degrees each year."

PRSSA membership provides access to scholarships, networking, travel, job, and portfolio building opportunities. It also looks great on your resume.

An e-newsletter published occasionally by the Department of Communication and distributed to students and their family, alumni, faculty and others who have expressed an interest in communication.

To unsubscribe: msbgpt@rit.edu

Visit our web site at <http://www2.rit.edu/doc/>