CONVOCATION ISSUE

1,004 in Graduation Exercises At Memorial

The largest graduating class in the Institute's history, numbering 1,004 degree candidates, will assemble in convocation tomorrow morning at 10:30 in the Rochester War Memorial to receive citations for M.F.A., B.S., B.F.A., and A.A.S. degrees. This year's class tops last's year's record of 967 by 37 members.

Nine candidates will graduate with highest honors, 12 with high honors, and 39 with honors.

The program will begin with a organ prelude played by Clarence Warrington. Selections will include works by Bach, Mendelssohn, Campra, Widor, and Handel.

The academic procession, lead by the Board of Trustees, administration, and faculty, will march into the auditorium to Purcell's Trumpet Voluntary in D Major.

Dr. Murray A. Cayley, Institute Chaplain, will offer both the invocation and the closing benediction.

Kenneth Donmower, director of the RIT Choraliers, will lead the graduates and audience in the national anthem.

The Convocation Address will be delivered by the Honorable Kenneth B. Keating, Republican Senator from New York. Keating was first elected to Congress in 1946, and in 1958 was elected to the Senate for his first term.

Dr. Mark Ellingson, President of RIT, will present the citation for degrees to the graduates.

The recessional, following the benediction, will be Purcell's Trumpet Tune in C Major.

Other Convocation Day events include a luncheon and reception (luncheon admission by ticket only) in the Ritter-Clark Memorial building at 12:15. There will be open exhibits in the School of Art and Design, School of Photography, School for American Craftsmen, and the Institute Library from 1:15 to 4:30 p.m.

Students graduating with highest honors include:

From School of Business Administration (A.A.S.) Alyce A. Deer, Peggy Jean Goodwin. From the School of Retailing (A.A.S.) Elizabeth Ann Meyer, Bonita E. Thiel, Virginia B. Ziegler; (B.S.) Jane C. Hunt.

From the School of Printing (A.A.S.) Dwight E. Agner (B.S.) William O. Kiefer. From the Evening College (A.A.S. Industrial Technology) John P. Burns.

Students graduating with high honors include: From the Chemistry Dept. (B.S.) Robert Y. Ning. From the Electrical Dept. (B.S.) Carl G. Love. From Busi-

New Counselor To Join Staff

Beginning this summer, the RIT Counseling Center will employ a new psychologist. The new psychologist, Stanton Plattor, is a graduate student at the University of Rochester and is working for his doctorate.

According to Dr. Laurence C. Lipsett, Director of the Counseling Center, Plattor has been a guidance director on Long Island and has also been an "intern" at the Counseling Center this spring.

He will begin work on a full-time basis on June 1.

'Raiders' Rebuffed In KAGE Fiasco

Sunday night at 10 p.m., Kate Gleason Hall, the women's dorm, was the scene of an intended "pantie raid" by a mob of residents from Nathaniel Rochester Hall. The raid, however, was no secret as the girls' dorm had received warning approximately one hour in advance.

Dr. James Campbell, Vice President of Student Services, Mr. A. Stephen Walls, director of student affairs, and Melvin Rinfret, Director of Housing, were all present in an attempt to stem the attack. This line of reasoning failed, however, as a horde of students made it past them and on to the upper floors of the dorm.

Once inside, the raiders were foiled in their original idea of securing undergarments. They proceeded to upturn fire extinguishers, throw water and shaving cream, and try to open the locked doors by force, thereby springing several of the doors and locks.

Several students were injured as they attempted to leave the building by jumping from the windows. Mr. Walls also was injured while trying to stop a fleeing student.

Eleven students appeared before the Student-Faculty Judicial Board Wednesday for hearing and a decision on the case.

FIRST PLEDGE—Alfred L. Davis, vice president for Development and Public Relations, receives first pledge to New Campus Fund from member of Class of 1963. Donor Joyce Pilato will receive citation for AAS degree at tomorrow's Convocation.

New 'Reporter' Staff Named For 1963-64 School Year

With applications in and interviews over, the Reporter staff for the coming school year has been selected. "We received more applications from more qualified people than in recent years," commented Editor Bill Barley.

Barley will remain as editor through December. Promoted to associate editor is the former managing editor, Gary Ludwick. News editor, Tony Puskarz, will assume the duties left vacant by him.

A graduate of the journalism class and staff reporter, Earle Wooton, will become news editor. Also coming through the ranks from the class is feature editor, Donna Brown, and Evening College bureau head, Jim Weeks. Judy Cohen will continue as a feature reporter.

In charge of special projects will be Ron Sokolowski. A newcomer to the staff, Charles Swan, will take over the duties of public relations manager.

The sports department will be handled by editor, Nick Cerchio. He will also write the weekly "Tiger Tracks" column. Associate sports editor will be Chris Hoagland, a former staff reporter.

The new photo editor, Klaus Fischel, will work with associate Steve Eisenberg, and photographers Jim Erwin and Richard Neidich.

The man behind "Our Man on Campus", Jim Witham, will take over the post of art editor.

Continuing in the position of copy editor, Robert Frank will have James Stevens as his associate.

Moving up from his associate position, Fred Ellsmore will take over as production manager. Having worked in the newspaper production class, Steve Barish will become his associate.

Wayne Dingson will continue in the position of advertising manager.

The man responsible for getting the paper to the public will be Dick Walsh, the new circulation manager.

Another drive for staff members will take place during the freshman introduction period in September. More students will be needed to supplement the present staff.

The first issue of the Reporter scheduled for next year will be the Special Freshmen Issue which will be prepared over the summer. It will be distributed during Freshmen Orientation week in late September.

Women's Housing Director Named

Along with RIT's new housing arrangement next year will be a new housing director of women's dorms.

Miss Deanne Molinari of Attica, N.Y. will assume the position of Associate Director of Women's Housing and Activities beginning July 15.

Miss Molinari received her B.S. degree in education from the University of Rochester and her master's in counseling psychology from Ohio State. Among many collegiate honors is the winning of the highest academic award at the U of R, a prize as the senior contributing most to the U of R, belonging to the Women's Honorary Society, being officer of the Intercollegiate Association of Women Students and the winning of New York State Regents and U of R scholarships.

Deanne Molinari was assistant to the Dean of Women at Ohio State, head resident at a dorm and also was an elementary school teacher in the Rochester school system.

According to Melvyn P. Rinfret, Director of Housing, Miss Molinari, besides being housing director and advisor to dorm council, will also work with A. Stephan Walls in planning activities for girls in both dorms and also work with commuters in order to bring them closer to the campus.

35 Graduates Are 'Pacesetters'

Thirty-five graduating students are the first in the "Pacesetters" campaign to give pledges to the New Campus Fund.

The "Pacesetters" campaign has been directed to 1963 graduates during the past two weeks. Preliminary reports indicate widespread support of the program, first in the history of the Institute.

The 35 students representing each of the schools and departments at the Institute made their pledges during the last two weeks.

Among the first contributors are Nancy Schusterbauer (BA 2), Joyce Pilato (BA 2), Patricia O'Brien (BA 2), Peter Zando (Chem 5), Ralph Gerner (Chem 5), Janice Johnson (SAC 4), Maurice T. Goldin (Elec 2), David A. Quadrini (Elec 2), Norm Frisch (A&D 4), Roger Morris (A&D 4), Dave Tan (A&D 4), June Carey (A&D 2), Gorden Brown (Mech 5), Alan Stone (Mech 5), Philip Sykes (Mech 2), Michael Yax (Mech 2), George Murray (Ph 4), David Haberstick (Ph 4), Barry Winters (Ph 4), Carolyn Salisbury (Ph 4), Bob McCaffery (Ph 4), Frank Lentz (Pr 4), Terry Sholley (Pr 4), Carl Thurber (Pr 4), and Joe Wimmer (Pr 4).

Reflection at Year's End

The past academic year has been one of importance and change for RIT. Some of the things accomplished in the past nine months have been for the better, some for the worse. Many things set upon were never accomplished to any degree of satisfaction. But this is the way of a growing, struggling campus.

In regards to the student body, the Student Association has not run an effective course. As the school grows in both population and importance, Council becomes just that much more ineffective. Some have proposed a change in procedure; a new system of government. This may provide part of the answer, but the Reporter feels that Council suffers much more from a lack of dynamic leadership. We hope to see this type of aggressive leadership under the President-elect Sherman.

The decision made this year by the Board of Trustees of the Institute was of importance to the student body, not only of this year, but of the next six years to come. Allowing a damp campus was a surprise, placing a heavy burden of responsibility upon the shoulders of present and future student. The green light for fraternities allocates the same burden to this group.

Social life? Better than usual for RIT, and upon a par with larger schools. All events this year whether private or SC sponsored were usually well organized and wholly enjoyable . . . if not always supported. This area of social life is one where much improvement is needed. . . on the part of the student body as a whole.

Better than most years it still remains a challenge to us, the returning undergraduates, to improve, refine, and excel in those areas where the need is apparent. To those leaving the Institute we can only give our warmest congratulations, and our sincerest thanks for past work, and for making the future just a little bit easier.

College or Kindergarten?

In possibly one of the most flagrant displays of immaturity and disrespect ever witnessed at RIT, the Men's dorm led off exam week with a "raid" on Kate Gleason Hall.

Despite warnings and the presence of the Dean of Students, the Director of Student Activities, and the Director of Housing, the "boys" of the "Men's" dorm proceeded to break into Kate Gleason Hall intent upon their conquest.

During the ensuing struggle, two of the three representatives of the Institute administration received injuries. Serious? No—but it was an indication of complete lack of self-control, respect and maturity that one assumes as requisite of a college student.

What did the "raiders" accomplish? As far as can be determined they received no "lingerie". Their only accomplishment was to bring disgrace to an institution, which during the U of R raids two weeks ago had been cited by the Democrat and Chronicle as having good "normal" students who did constructive things like building floats and sponsoring a parade which benefited the city.

These were the springtime activities which brought credit to RIT. Sunday night's antics, however, were of the same type that brought the wrath of the city down on the U of R.

For a while we had something in which we had bested our up-the-river neighbors. Now we're riding in the same boat.

Thank you Nathaniel Rochester Hall . . . for nothing!

Letters to The Editor

Dear Editor:

It would seem that the extent of Student Council "crabgrass" mentioned in last week's editorial is limited to one 'dandelion.' Specifically, one lame duck president who feels that it is his duty to plan the actions of next year's legislative body by announcing to this paper that a publications committee will be formed for the purpose of letting the editors of the three campus publications (Reporter, Techmila, and Hall Gazette) "have a say in each others editorial policy."

The Reporter seems to vehemently against this for fear of censorship, and I for one fully agree; however, I hardly feel that the last gasped words of one individual should be taken as the feelings of all Student Council, and in correction of last weeks' admonishments I wish to point out that: 1) the discussion mentioned was merely the suggestions of Russ Trimble, and 2) as publicity and publications chairman for next year, I have no intention of forming such a committee for the purpose Mr. Trimble has outlined.

Next year's student body will see many new things come out of SC, and they may be assured that great expansion is in order for publicity and publications, without any infringement upon the freedom of this or any other "press of the people."

THE DISTAFF SIDE

by Marilyn Sanderson

A person experiences a wonderful uplifting feeling when he learns something new, whether it is about art, literature, music, or any number of topics. No one wants to get in a rut and stop learning. A person is never too old to learn.

Now that graduation is here, although some students still have a summer of school work to complete, many of us will be going to work. Many students have the feeling that now they are through with school, that is the end of books, learning, and education for them. This is not the time to forget about learning. It is the time to increase our knowledge further.

There are so many fields of interest to learn about. Every time you listen to the radio, watch television, or read the newspaper or a magazine, the opportunity to learn is presented. If you attend a play, listen to a concert, or listen to a lecture, you learn something new.

Reading and learning can be fun. Whether you set aside a few minutes, an hour a day, or longer to do your reading, you will get a wonderful feeling in knowing you are gaining new knowledge. Now is the time to continue increasing your knowledge. Just because you are graduating from college with SINGING SESSION—Joe Ilardo and accompanist June Kern listen to tapes recorded during a practice session.

Joe's Chemistry and Singing Make a 'Singing Sergeant'

by Jerry Lewis

Rochester brews its share of talent and RIT's own Joseph Jerold Ilardo is no exception. Although he was born in the midst of talent, his mother a singer and his father a musician, Joe could not have been less interested in singing for the first 15 years of his life.

It all started when he joined the chorus his Sophomore year in high school. It was from there that he first became interested in singing. By the summer of 1956 he was performing in Eastman School's "Opera Under The Stars." At that time, he was the youngest person in the chorus, an energetic 16.

In 1957 Joe entered Albany State Teachers College to major in Latin. "Next to voice, Latin was my best subject," Joe commented. He continued his voice interest by working with a performing group he auditioned for his first voice scholarship and won.

But Joe longed for the wealth of musical treasures that could be found only in Rochester. He returned to Rochester and the "Opera Under The Stars."

"I came to RIT because I heard so many impressive stories on RIT's Chemistry Department. I felt it offered a great challenge and had the most prestige." At the same time Joe began to study Italian, Russian and French, languages basic for a good vocal repertoire. He also began exten-

A COMMENCEMENT PRAYER

O God our Maker,
Consider and hear us now,
We pray.
We are grateful
That we have discovered
The fellowship of learning —
And we are encouraged
By it.
But we confess .
That there have been days
When we have been seduced
By the conceits of Shrewdness and skill.
We have discovered that Knowledge is power
And have been enticed by
The power which corrupts.
Consider us
And hear us
And cleanse us, we ask,
For Thou art strong
To save.
We know our own spirits!
We pray for a Holier Spirit
Than our own
To possess us
As we commence our careers.
We long to become worthy
To be called Thy sons.

Amen.

Everyone is in contact with other people and thus tend to form mental images of those with whom they have the closest association.

It is often the physical characteristics and personal attitudes which cause a person to retain a specific image of his friends. And this image may run the gamut from serious to comical.

The mental notes some use to record their friends may be entirely removed from the actual appearance of the person. It is such with this presentation.

Photographer Klaus Fischel has taken six of his fellow students into the scope of his lens, creating a visual record of the tags by which he identifies them.

Garroway Moderates New RIT Sponsored Telecast

"Exploring the Universe," a weekly television series sponsored by RIT over Channel 10 in Rochester, will present discussions by various noted scientists.

The second of these programs features a discussion of the scientific method with Walter Orr Roberts, director of the National Science Center for Atmospheric Research in Boulder, Colo., and Dr. Maurice Goldhaber, director of Brookhaven National Laboratories in Long Island.

On June 12 Dr. Martin Schwarzschild of the Department of Astronomy at Princeton University will describe Project Stratoscope, a giant telescope placed above the earth's atmosphere with balloons, which will aid study of theories about the stars. Dr. Leon Lederman of the Department of Physics at Columbia University describes order in the smallest particles of nature.

The fourth show, "Science and Social Responsibility", will feature Dr. Barry Commoner, biologist at Washington University in St. Louis.

Garroway discusses "Some Facts About Scientific Fact" June 26 with Dr. Isaac Asimov and Dr. Edward Purcell. Dr. Asimov is a bio-chemist at Boston University and Dr. Purcell, Nobel Prize winner (Physics, 1952), is affiliated with Harvard University.

Dr. Charles Townes, provost of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, will explain how the "laser" works on the July 3 program. He will demonstrate the intensity of the light beam the laser generates. A laser is a machine that highly concentrates light rays.

Seventh in the series is "Are Theories True?". Dr. John A. Wheeler explains that a theory is a way of putting related facts into a useful pattern and he will explain Einstein's theory of relativity and of matter. Dr. Wheeler is affiliated with Princeton University.

On July 17 with Dr. Robert Jastrow, director of the Goddard Institute of Space Studies of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, Garroway will discuss four theories of the creation of the universe. Dr. Harlow Shapley, world famed astronomer, and Dr. Philip Morrison, theoretical physicist at Cornell University, speculate on life on other planets July 24.

"The Challenge of the Space Age" gives Garroway the opportunity to ask Dr. Robert Jastrow and Dr. Philip Abelson if we are in danger of overreaching ourselves in our explorations of space. Dr. Abelson is director of research for the Geophysical Laboratory at the Carnegie Institution of Washington, and a member of the Atomic Energy Commission Advisory Committee on peaceful use of the atom.

The last program, "Values and Limitations of Science", will be discussed by Dr. I. I. Rabi of Columbia University, the winner of the 1944 Nobel Prize in physics, and Dr. Robert Oppenheimer, director of the Institute for Advanced Studies at Princeton and former director at Los Alamos.

New Assignments For RIT Grads

New assignments for two RIT Alumni employed in Graphic Arts Sales Division of the Eastman Kodak Company have been announced.

Theodore Chapman (Ph '39) has been assigned to the Northeastern Sales Division as a technical representative. He will headquarter in New York City. He was formerly Technical Sales representative for Mississippi, Alabama and parts of Tennessee. He joined upon graduation and has served with the company continuously except for terms of service in the Air Force during World War II and the Korean conflict.

Newly assigned to the Southwestern territory is Gordon Price, a 1959 graduate of the School of Printing. Price will cover Oklahoma, Arkansas and southwestern Missouri. He was formerly assigned to the graphic reproduction technical service center in Rochester. He will have his headquarters in Oklahoma City. He joined Kodak in 1960.

Philip M. Mikoda

RIT Alumnus New PR Head

Philip M. Mikoda has been named Manager of Public Relations for the Photo & Repro Division of General Aniline & Film Corp., it was announced by Robert M. Verburg, General Manager of the division. In this capacity, he will manage the publicity for Ansco and Ozalid products, press relations, and assist in the coordination of community relations for the division.

Mikoda came to the company in 1942 upon graduation from the RIT. He has held positions in research and sales, being active in the introduction of Ansco color film to the New York City market in 1945.

In 1947, he returned to the home office in Binghamton to direct a technical service program for the Sales Dept. Later assignments included work on the then new Anscochrome process in the Quality Control Dept. Mikoda was appointed Manager of Sales Publicity for Ansco products in 1957, and with the recent consolidation of Ansco and Ozalid activities, he was named to his present position.

In recent years, Mikoda has been active as company advisor to NASA on photography in the manned space programs. He is one of the foremost authorities for "on board space photography, and has lectured before many audiences on the subject.

Duke Appointed Kodak Supervisor

Glen E. Duke, a 1949 graduate of the School of Photography, has been appointed Photofinishing Sales Supervisor of the Mid-Eastman Kodak Company.

Duke is the retiring vice president of the RIT Alumni Association and a member of the Executive Council. He will have his headquarters in Chicago.

Duke joined Kodak in 1955. After training in Rochester he was assigned as a technical representative in Southern California. In August of 1960 he returned to Rochester as manager of the Photofinishing Sales Laboratory.

A native of Atlanta, Ga., Duke is a veteran of service in World War II, having served in the U.S. Navy as a photographic specialist.

Duke and his wife, Cora Mae, presently reside at 27 Charmwood Road, Pittsford. They have three children. Mrs. Duke is also a graduate of the School of Photography.

Alumni News

Elmer H. Larsen, a 1949 graduate of the School of Printing has joined Publishers Lithographers, Inc., a division of the Von Hoffman Corporation in St. Louis, Mo. where he will be a Plant Manager. He was formerly with Rand McNally, Inc. and had been associated with the RIT Web Offset Laboratory for four years prior to entering industry.

Leon Brandes (Pr'58) has purchased the Tioga County Herald, a weekly newspaper published at Newark Valley, N.Y. He assumed management of the paper on April 22.

Brandes was formerly employed in the rotogravure department of Packaging Corporation of America in Rittman, Ohio. The Brandes family, including Pamela, Steve and Beth will make their home in Newark Valley.

Winfield S. Van Horn, a 1928 graduate of the Electrical Department of the College of Applied Science, passed away on May 17 in Northside Hospital in Rochester. He is survived by his wife, Eunice and a son, Edward. Mr. Van Horn was superintendent of the Beebe Station of the Rochester Gas and Electric Corporation.

Seldon Rockowitz, a 1962 graduate of the Evening College Management Program has joined the DuBois Press of Rochester as Assistant to the President. He was formerly with the Lawyers Cooperative Publishing Company.

Burton H. Slocum, (Mech '17) recently visited the campus during a trip to the Rochester area. Now retired from the Naval Bureau of Ordnance he was one of the first cooperative students at the Ritter Company. He now is engaged in restoring a colonial house in Virginia, the Wirtlands, located at Oak Grove.

George E. Duke has joined American Optical Company's Public Relations and Advertising Dept. as advertising production manager. He formerly was in a similar post with the Hartford Insurance Group of Hartford, Conn.

A graduate of RIT, he has been employed by printing firms in Connecticut, Virginia and New York.

Duke, a native of Gardner, Mass., served in the U.S. Air Force as a photo lithographic technician from 1951 to 1955. He lives in Rockville, Conn., and plans to move his wife and three children to the Southbridge area soon.

A Stolen Soul

by G. J. Habinak

My life is taken this dark day,
Without a reason given;
Hurled away from this mortal world

Into a dismal haven.
Where is this world
That seems so sad?
Is it Hell — or Heaven?

A voice cries out
With a mournful sigh
"I'm here to take your soul!"
My eyes grow bright;

My lips do curl;
A laugh, I begin to bellow.

What fool is this
Who does not know
On earth my soul was stolen.

The will I had,
The love I knew,
The reasons I had for living —
All were destroyed

That fateful day;
How can this be forgotten.
Oh, I still search without avail,
For him who has taken
The only things

A man must have —
A soul, a will, a reason.

Greenberg Returns As RIT Lensman

Appointment of Leslie M. Greenberg to the newly created position of official Institute photographer has been announced by Alfred L. Davis, Vice-President of Development and Public Relations. Greenberg will be responsible for all photographic coverage of Institute affairs, news and publications photos and a central photo file.

Greenberg, a 1961 graduate of the School of Photography is a native of New York City. His wife, the former Sandra Meek, is also a graduate of the School of Photography.

During his undergraduate years, Greenberg served in various editorial positions on the RIT Reporter. He was editor-in-chief during his senior year. He is a member of Delta Lambda Epsilon, the professional photographic fraternity.

The Greenbergs will make their home in Rochester.

Golfers Win All the Way; Unbeaten for 19 Matches

In its three final matches played last week the Tiger Golf Team closed out its second straight undefeated season. In the first match Alfred fell victim to the Tech golfers by a 7-2 score. Brockport and Oswego were beaten 14-4, and 15-3 respectively. Their victories ran the Tiger winning streak to 19 straight matches.

The day before the Alfred meeting Coach Bob Klos predicted that the golfers could go the distance. Though the Saxons were reputed to have a strong squad, the Tech golfers were unimpressed.

Co-captain Russ Carter led the Tiger attack at Alfred with a flashy 77. He was followed closely by Tim Butler with a 78. Twin scores of 79 were posted by B. Dinga and Fred Babcock. Co-captain Jerry Abel rode in with an 80, and Ted Solarek with an 82.

The Tech Tigers won their final two matches in a three-way meet with Brockport and Oswego on May 24. In this meet players for each of the three schools were placed in six threesomes.

Abel and Carter finished up their college golfing careers as low men. Abel wound up with a 76 while Carter carded a 77. Ted Solarek and Bob Dinga scored 79's for the Tigers. They were followed by Babcock with an 80 and Butler with an 82.

With Abel, Carter, Dinga, and Babcock graduating tomorrow, Coach Klos will be on the lookout for talented newcomers for next year's squad when he attempts to extend the golfers winning streak into its third year.

With the closing of the school year there come changes, new faces and new names. One of these changes will be seen next year in this column when this writer will take over the job of writing Tiger Tracks.

To move into this position is not an easy task as Hank has cut my work out by doing an excellent job throughout the past 25 editions of the Reporter. His writings have brought humor and criticism from faculty and students, help in attaining a better program of athletics and a sports editorial column that will be hard to duplicate in the future. column that will be hard to duplicate in the future.

In the coming year I will try to give adequate arguments for the cause of athletic scholarships, the benefits of hockey as an intercollegiate varsity sport, a need for more help in coaching of all our teams, a better association between the faculty and the athletes in order that articles denouncing our administrator may be avoided, and what I feel will best benefit the program of athletics in the future, both here and when we make our move to the new campus.

The things that will aid in the deletion of such figures as 2-19, 0-12, 32-0 and 21-1 from our record books will be the prime objective of my articles.

Congratulations are now due for the eight men and the coach of the Golf team who for the second year in succession have become the only undefeated untied sport on the RIT campus. Coach Bob Klos is to be commended on his fine work with the boys and congratulated on receiving an invitation to participate in the NCAA finals to be held this year at St. Louis, Mo.

The team now has streaked its win to 20 straight and although four starters are leaving this year, prospects for a winning season next year are definite.

Congratulations also go to Paul Scipioni and the fencing team on belatedly receiving the Theta Xi award for the best team of the year. The award was not presented at the awards banquet due to indecision as to who should be the proper recipient.

The plaque is given to the team who has done the most to further the name of RIT through their contacts with others, their record, and their improvement.

In summation of this year we can only say that it has been one of the worst yet to appear here at the Institute. Although predictions were optimistic at the beginning of the Fall quarter, not many of these positive outlooks materialized. Of the thirteen sports representing the school only two came up with winning seasons, a poor showing for anyone.

To take a realistic look at what to expect when we journey back to Rochester next year, a half good, half bad picture comes into focus.

The Soccer team, with many of their letterman hopefully coming back should improve. Certainly a team that did so well during a "rebuilding" year can bring more wins the following season.

As for Cross Country, a definite upsurge in victories must be predicted. The harriers showed that they were becoming better during the final portion of last year but ran out of meets in which to prove it.

The dimmer side of the screen finds the basketball team without a positively good player. There is rumor that a few players previously ineligible will be back in school to help bolster the team. Without these men another O-XX could go into the books.

Wrestling is on the road to improvement. Under the training of Coach Earl Fuller the team should pull out of its two year tailspin.

In fencing there is only one way to go. With a number of men graduating there will be holes in next years line up. A losing season is improbable, but one as good as their 11-1 record of this past quarter is improbable.

2,000 Graduates Needed Urgently For Positions With Insurance Firms

More than 2,000 graduates from the 1963 college classes are being sought to fill positions with the nation's property and casualty insurance companies.

The need for graduates was disclosed in the second annual survey conducted jointly by the American Mutual Insurance Alliance, the Insurance Information Institute and the National Association of Independent Insurers.

The survey indicated that 2,074 graduates will be needed by 153 companies which handle about two-thirds of the property and casualty insurance in the United States. This is a drop from 1962, when a similar survey showed a need for 2,898 graduates. Only direct employees of companies— not agents and brokers and their office employees—were covered by the survey.

The survey also showed that 63 per cent of the companies were able to satisfy their needs for college graduates last year. The remaining 37 per cent said they could have filled an additional 711 positions.

The survey also showed a strong preference among the companies for graduates who have had insurance courses at the college level. Nearly three-fourths of the companies said they preferred college men with insurance training.

Culver Receives P.I.A.R. Honor

Byron G. Culver, Director of the School of Printing, was recently made an honorary member of the Printing Industry Association of Rochester.

The PIAR is the local unit of the regional association of the Printing Industry of America, Inc.

The announcement of the membership was made by George E. Strelbel, executive vice president of Printing Industries of Western New York.

'Singing Sergeant'

side voice development with the aid of his voice coach Clyde Miller.

Joe spent the next two summers working for Eastman's Opera. It was not until the summer of 1961 that he made his first appearance in summer stock. "This was my first contact with the professional theatre and I loved it."

Inspired, he returned to summer stock in 1962, where he was fortunate to work with such eminent personalities as Steve Lawrence, Gesile MacKenzie and Kathrine Grayson. This was Joe's best summer. "It was at this point I felt confident that I could make it in show business."

Joe also made another important decision that summer. He saw the glitter of show business, but he also saw the realm of insecurity in which the performers lived. "I decided it was important to return to RIT and obtain my Bachelor of Science in Chemistry." With this security Joe hopes to build a successful career in the operatic theatre.

Joe was impressed with the high standards of the students in the Chemistry Dept., especially with the honor system that always prevails. It was the "real people" at RIT which made Joe enthusiastic about staying in school.

After graduation Joe will join 38 of the Air Forces finest singing voices, the "Singing Sergeants." He will be one of the three soloists of the group and in the baritone section. Joe described his January audition for the Sergeants as "the toughest I have ever had. I came out a thousand times better than I had expected."

Talented and enthusiastic about his career, Joe Ilardo will be an up and coming name in the operatic theatre.
