Recommendations Made
For Council Reorganization

by Donna Brown

The Executive Council of Student Council has announced a series of proposed changes in its organizational plan. These changes include realigning student activities subject to the rules of the Institute and Student Association Constitution. It would also be responsible for departmental and campus elections, and in monitoring and fostering cultural, social and educational projects and all other activities as stated in the purpose of the Student Association Constitution.

The Vice-President would preside over the meetings of the Senate. Executive Committee would consist of the president, the secretary, and five senators elected by the membership of the Senate. Standing committees would consist of Personnel, Finance, and any others to be added later.

The present Executive Board would become the Student Activity Board.

Phi Sigma Kappa to Crown Queen at Winter Weekend

The 11th annual Winter Weekend sponsored by Phi Sigma Kappa is scheduled for Jan. 24-26. Snowball, the weekend will start with a snow sculpture contest featuring the theme "Cartoon Characters." All five fraternities are entered in the contest, with the winner being announced tonight at the Snowblast.

Everyone is invited to come and shout in the gym tonight at the Biggers Building. Word has it that plenty of guys are needed to help entertain the young ladies from area schools who are planning to attend. Price for the blast is $1.50 stag, $2 drag.

Tomorrow night in the formal dance, the Snowball, held this year at Happy Acres Country Club in Webster. The ladies is open to Greeks and their pledges only. Phi Sig's Greeks will dance to the music of Joe Bennett's orchestra. Price for the dance is $3.50.

Highlight of the evening will be the crowning of Phi Sig's new "Moonlight Girl" by reigning queen Joyce Allram. Diane Mercurie has been active in many extracurricular activities at RIT, including president of Delta Omicron Sorority, Secretary-Treasurer of ISC, three years on Spring Weekend Committee and many others. Diane is a third year School of American Craftsman student from Detroit Michigan. Mary Jane Mikulski of Cleveland, Ohio, is a second year retailing student.

Winter Weekend, 1964, will close with IndexPath, the pledge and pledges of Phi Sig enjoying the entertainment of Cecil and Jenkins in the apres ski atmosphere of the fraternity house.

Chaplain M.A.C. To Retire in Fall

A familiar face will be gone from the RIT campus next September. The Rev. Murray A. Cayley, 61, President of the Presbyterian Church will retire.

He has contributed to the Reporter weekly in his column "Cayley's Corner." Last October, Chaplain Mac published a special hand-made book containing 62 prayers used in union Sunday services for many years.

During his 24 years in the local pulpit, Dr. Cayley has been active in numerous civic and community organizations. He is the advisor of RIT's Religious Activities Association.

Dr. Cayley came to Rochester from New Rochelle. He is 62.

New Values Placed on 'Weekend'

by Ron Sokolowski

Spring Weekend Committee made three announcements of major importance this week which reflect its already hurried schedule.

Ron Mihills, a third year photography major, and chairman of last year's successful Saturday dance, will again assume responsibility for that event. In 1963, the Middlton Plaza evening, which started many years ago as RIT's senior ball, broke all past attendance records.

Two events, which stirred considerable controversy in past, have been eliminated from the program by the committee. Indoor advertising, which had been a major part of the weekend for the short duration of two years, and the Friday night carnival, have both been dropped.

The indoor advertising program was the object of sharp attacks both in and out of the committee as it was felt that the considerable amount of time and effort were not warranted. There did not seem to be any useful gain from the advertising given the interested audience, the student body, could be kept informed and brought into the spirit of the weekend without this waste.

The Friday night carnival also came under the efficient committee axe for basically the same cause. This event which it was felt had magnified itself completely out of proportion to its slight value, fell under the weight of its own cost, both monetary and scholastically. The slight financial cushion on which it had ridden for so long, had become a high price for the scholastic trenched into which it had sunk.

Plans for New Campus Building Announced

New campus plans became even firmer last week with the unveiling of plans for the building which will house the College of Graphic Arts and Photography and the College of Fine and Applied Arts.

The basement floor will contain the School of Printing and the Graphic Arts Research Dept. The building's main service entrance is on this level.

Forensic Club Debate Contest
Set for Tuesday

The annual RIT oratorical contest will be held at 8 p.m., Tuesday, Jan. 28, in M-21D. The contest is open to all students with the exception of members of the Forensic Society. Organizations or groups at RIT may sponsor a speaker if they wish.

Ground rules for the contest are: 1. Speech should run approximately 10 minutes. 2. Speaker may not use notes or other aids. 3. Topic may be any subject other than the national debate topic, "Federal Aid to Education."

Representatives of the speech committee and colleges within the Institute will serve as judges. A trophy will be awarded to the organization or group represented, in the case of an unsponsored speaker, will be displayed on campus. The winner will receive a gavel as his personal possession.

Application blanks are available on contest posters displayed around the Institute or from Joseph E. Fitzpatrick, Forensic advisor.

A Blowin' in the Wind

In an article in this week's Reporter, the head of the Student Health Services sound off on the problem of student smoking, and about the measures that should be employed to educate and combat this habit. Dr. Victor S. Murphy says that "Burning smoking is a personal matter, no campus-wide regulations are in order issued by the administration." He goes on to say that at other schools this problem is being handled by the Student Councils, student groups and the like.

Why wasn't the problem handled in this manner at RIT? For all the progressive thought that this year's Council has given to other problems facing the RIT student, it would seem natural, and indeed more welcome, to receive edicts such as the banning of cigarettes from the campus from our own peers.

It surely would a less difficult pill to swallow had student Council initiated action against cigarettes. Not necessarily complete banning of cigarette sales an campus, but perhaps a program of information and education about the possible effects of continued smoking. It could have been a worthwhile program and another feather in the hat of Student Council, had they the foresight and the sense of responsibility to their constituents to take upon themselves the measures that Administrative Committee found necessary to perform.

Precarious Pinky Position

The plight of the precarious Pinkertons (Dec. 6 Reporter) seems to have changed very little in the interim. Pinkertons still spend the bulk of their nights patrolling the dark alleyways and streets on foot or operating from their portable offices, commonly known as automobiles.

And still the fear exists that there is no way to depend on these people, and no sure way to contact them at any given situation.

The Reporter understands that negotiations are under way with the administration and those concerned about office space in the Eastman Building. We reiterate the problem only to add urgency to the question and to remind those decision maker's of the Institute that the students are still very concerned.

"An ounce of 'protection' is worth a pound of 'cure'" if may paraphrase an old and wise saying. And this was never more applicable than to the safety and peace of mind of RIT students.

Editor: Athleticly, RIT seems to be a school of championship

Dear Editor:

students. Upon my arrival last year, everyone was so enthusiastic about "student apathy": the basketball team went 2-19 and the hockey team was second. This year we are blessed with an undated hockey club but this has only raised our championship students to new creative heights.

Some of our better complainers (such as Alice Taft) are picking on the fans attending the home games. Then to climb another step on the ladder of absurdities, the first-string complainers (such as myself) are complaining about the way the club is winning.

As to the former, I can only point out the rabid Ithaca fans who, two weeks ago, tossed empty bottles, yelled obscenities, threw paper and sticks, and spit upon our players. As to the latter, I can only quote Norman MacKazhen, as he did to the Hamilton fans last week: "Come down on the ice for the first time and show us how it's done! I feel that it's a shame for these

Since the Nov. 7 meeting these four organizations have been rethe problem to be broken. One of the of these four or-

It might be of interest to the student body to know that Student Council is currently helping three new groups to become campus or-ties should leave their name in

Advertising Boosts Tobacco's Youth and Adventure Theme

by Ron Sokolowski

Of all the companies which advertise in the mass media, few can match the cigarette manufacturer's ability to create an atmosphere in which the cigarette manufacturers have spent well over $150 million dollars annually, on their campaigns to reach the American puffing public.

It seems rather strange that such a fortune would be spent on such a product which serves no useful purpose, as well as under the weight of medically unfavorable comment in the last decade.

The selection of the media is a strange lot on the basis of the medical findings of recent weeks. The use of cigarettes and cancer is statistical only, they say, and has not been absolutely proven.

According to L. S. Bruff, vice president of Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co., the cigarette ads are not designed to encourage smoking, or to encourage the adoption of the habit by the young, but rather to brand break the brand of the cigarets themselves. A close look at the recent campaigns by these companies seem to dispel Mr. Bruff's explanations, however.

Fall Mall shows us a young vivacious girl wearing a skirt, as she is expounding upon the mindless of a cigarette. R. J. Reynolds has a more refined approach. In the most lush green "springtime" surroundings, while other packs of cigarettes are shown countryside, beach parties, ice cream parlor, pet together of the gang, etc. The selection of the models seems hardly to be an accident.

Quoting Daniel Ladd, Director of Liggett & Tag, "Basically, the image we want for cigarettes increase are taken into consider- nation, the cancer death rate is up to 1000 percent. This rate increase is directly attributable to the tremendous surge in the lung cancer rate."

Cigaret smoking is not only held liable for the increase in the lung cancer rate, but also for cases such as coronary artery disease, chronic bronchitis, and emphysema. And as a significant reduction in life expectancy among cigarette smokers. The degree of the above is shown by the American Cancer Society's reporting results below.

Percentage of American men aged 35 who may be expected to die to smoking or non-smoking

Non-smokers 23 percent

Pipe Smokers 25 percent

Cigarette Smokers 40 percent

40 or more per day 41 percent

From the results of this and other surveys conducted by varying groups over the past decade, it appears that smoking is the main point to the point where it can be regarded as completely sound and scientific research, there are cases one can point to where the smoking habits of an individual are not the cause of premature death, but judged upon a statistical basis, these, ex- empirical data substantiate as they did previously, doubts con- cerning the dangers of the habit.

As with any controversy issue, no matter how sound the evidence may be, there are cases where the evidence is con- tested. In the cigarette-cancer issue, spokesmen for the tobacco indus- try as well as a few scientists insist that the conclusiveness of the research findings is not supported by any conclusive evidence. Ultimate causes of cancers are not known, true. However, until there is a consensus among the scientific community regarding the findings of the studies, their removal have been signifi- cantly dealt with. Cases to consider, for example, is the use of tobacco, vaccination for smallpox, water purification for the prevention of cholera and typhoid fever, uses of citrus juices for the prevention of scurvy, etc.

2. Evidence is only Statistical and Therefore Inconclusive.

In an institution of technology where we come into contact with the statistical methods of scien- tists, one might be tempted to question even a question. Dr. Warren Weaver, president of the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation, and former director for Medical Sciences of the Rockefeller Foundation has said, "Thus, if the evidence because it is statis- tically unstable and wholly unscientific, there is, in essentially all nontrivial cases, the only sort of evidence we have, and such a case in point here would be the de- velopment of the Salk vaccine for polio, as well as the thalidomide drug contro- versy."

3. There May Be a Genetic Factor Which Causes a Person to Take Up Cigaretting. Is it not a person to Develop Lung Cancer?

This seems to be a hypothesis without evidence, as it can hardly support the increase in lung can- cer (he just another instance of the increase in the population), as well as the parallel between lung cancer and the increase in smoking. The strongest evidence to con- tradict this seems to be the re- port of the increase in smoking among former cigarette smokers who have discontinued the habit.

As a result, this piece of evidence is Not Supported by Animal Experimentation.

It is a failing of modern science that no laboratory animal cannot be trained to smoke cig- arets, etc. It is impossible to observe the effects of the habit. (Maybe mice don't listen to the commercials offering the harmful- ness of springtime and the health and vitality of the Grand Prix cars.) This conclusion would not be as conclusive as many of the diseases which plague man (smallpox, typhoid fever, measles, etc.) do not have any effect upon the laboratory animal.

5. Cigaret Smokers-Heavy Cigaret Smokers Development of Lung Cancer?

Less than two percent of per- sons infected with poliomyelitis (continued on page 6).
SC Sponsored

Somewhere around the campus right now, two soloists and five groups are fervently practicing, sharpening their musical talents for the forthcoming Student Council sponsored hootenanny. This full evening of "folk song" entertainment will include a number of new and exciting features of special interest to all students. Highlight of the "hoot" will be a group sing-along for contestants and the audience, followed by a dance until curfew, with WITR, the campus radio station, supplying the music.

Friday, Jan. 31 is the date set for the hootenanny to be held in the Ritter-Clark Gym from 8:30 p.m. until 12:30 a.m. Student Council has provided funds for prizes to the top folk entertainers of the evening as chosen by the judges. Awards of $50, $30, and $20 will go to the first, second and third place positions respectively.

The banjo and guitar strumming vocalists will be singing a variety of tunes including "C C Rider," "Soft Blows the Summer Winds", "So Soon in the Mornin", "Darlin'", "House of the Rising Sun", "Amanda Blaine", and many others. Most outstanding feature of the evening: free admission!

WAC Officer Explains Career Opportunities To Food Adm. Women

Captain Barbara Davis of the Women's Army Corps visited the Food Administration Dept., last week to explain three major programs the Army has to offer men and women interested in working in Food Management.

The first program that was introduced was the Summer Practicum which consists of a month's training in a hospital during the summer as a dietitian for either a junior or senior. The Student Dietitian Program differs from the first course in that it offers, for a qualified girl only, a paid salary while in college then a tour of duty after graduation.

Men and women who are officer material can spend a six months internship at a hospital such as Brock or Walter Reed Hospital completely paid for after working a year under the American Dietetic Assoc. After the six months they are commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army Medical Corps.

It should be noted that one of the two main approaches from the parking area passes through an opening in this building, and the path of circulation touches the Fine Arts court as it enters the academic quadrangle. This is the largest single building in the new Institute and is compared with and scaled to other elements of the Institute. It is planned for function, unity, continuity, and flexibility for the future.

Dear Editor:

In the Jan. 17 issue of the Reporter a letter from Alice Tadt appeared decrying the unsportsmanlike conduct of RIT’s “adult students.”

Several RIT students attended the hockey game at Hamilton on the following day and witnessed a far more juvenile display of unsportsmanlike conduct than ever seen at the Ritter-Clark rink. This included the Hamilton students throwing broken sticks and other objects on the ice, and buzzing the goalie from behind the goal.

If this display is any example of the conduct of the schools in the E.C.A.C. the RIT students would stand out as a shining example of good sportsmen in this league.

RIT on Madeomiselle

Rochester Institute of Technology will be represented this year on Madeomiselle’s national college board by Karen E. Ferguson, (Ret 2).

The annual College Board Competition is designed for women students with talent in art, writing, fashion, merchandising, promotion, or advertising. Board members are selected on the basis of entries that showed the ability of each in one of these fields.

As College Board members, they will report news from their colleges to Madeomiselle. They are eligible to compete for the 20 Guest Editorships that will be awarded by the magazine in May. To win one of the top 20 prizes, they must submit a second entry to show their specific aptitudes for magazine work.

The College Board members who win Guest Editorships will be brought to New York City for the month of June to help write, illustrate, and edit the 1964 August college issue of the magazine. They will share offices with the magazine’s editors, advise the staff on campus trends, interview well-known artists and writers, and represent the magazine on visits to publishing houses, stores, and advertising agencies.

They will also be photographed for the college issue, and will be considered for future staff positions with Mademoiselle and other Condé Nast publications. (As a special bonus, the 1963 Guest Editors were flown to Switzerland, where they spent six days being photographed in the mountains, and touring Zurich, Bern, and Geneva.)

In a break with what he terms advertising tradition, Bruce Unwin, a 1951 graduate of the School of Art and Design, recently left his position as an officer in a large advertising agency to form Bruce Unwin & Associates, Inc. The new firm will associate itself from any identification with existing advertising agency methods, philosophies, and services according to Unwin.

Bruce Unwin

Maintaining that 90 percent of today's advertising has not kept pace with new product development, new reading and listening habits and a better educated society, Unwin claims that, historically, advertisers have not been creative, but built. They were constructed. Art was product presentation. Copy was statements and claims. And, in most of the ads produced today, this condition still exists.

Unwin Embarks on New Advertising Philosophy

Through his new company, Unwin proposes changes in advertising methods that will require a realism in copy and art; interrupted, surprising ideas; a new explanation toward and respect for the reader, rather than a billboard advertiser of the very reason for spending an advertising dollar. He has, he says, found on the part of many advertisers, a restless dissatisfaction with what is being done. Unwin maintains there is a giant gap between adequate advertising and brilliant advertising. The advertiser who is willing to spend his dollar for merely adequate advertising is missing the competitive boat.

Unwin joined MacManus, John & Adams, Inc., in 1955 as Art Director, and later became vice president. He left in 1957 as Art Director. He left recently to form his own firm.

A former president of the Art Directors Club of Detroit, Unwin is a member of the Society of Art Directors, Society of Illustrators, the Michigan Water Color Society, the International Design Conference, and the American Institute of Graphic Arts. An Art Director and chairman, Unwin is a recipient of many awards for graphic advertising and painting, including the Cranbrook Academy of Art Gold Medal for outstanding achievement.

The offices of Bruce Unwin & Associates, Inc., are located at 123 Brown Street in Rochester, N.Y., and at various U.S. cities and Toronto Canada.

If a virus is the cause or is involved in the development of cancer, cigarette smoking may be the disturbing influence upholding the balance between the virus and the body cells.

8. Cigarette Smoking Cannot Be The Cause of Lung Cancer Because Other Causes Have Been Demonstrated. It is true that the inhalation of varying elements such as dust, smoke, and impurities are also pointed to as the cause of this disease, however, it is not being placed with these recognized causes in relation to the amount of damage it can bring about. No agency has placed cigarette smoking on a plane of its own as a sole cause of cancer.
Gymnasium Revolt

There seems to have been a certain degree of dissatisfaction with the way in which the team was being coached. This unrest had been present for some time but endurance, meekness, respect, and timidity prevailed until after the team's eighth loss in a row, then action was taken.

Team members decided to take the matter of coaching into their own hands, and proceeded to do so in a manner which I cannot condone. At practice one evening the five members of the team who were involved in a scrimmage walked to the opposite side of the court from their coach, ignoring his existence. Mr. Alexander walked over to the boys and after a conversation those involved, excluding the coach, went downstairs to have a meeting in the locker room.

For the next day or so, meetings, conferences, discussions, and ideas were talked over and thrown about, with the end result being a happy one for those concerned. The team now has a new set of plays that they began using in the Clarkson game.

Whether these actions were the reason for what seemed to be an excellent game at Clarkson, we can't say. I don't know the results of the Detroit game played last Saturday but should the tide be turned and RIT comes up the victor by a reasonable margin, then perhaps it was the coaching techniques. But if there is no decided change, then someone seems to have been wrong and it wasn't the coach.

Off the Track

For those who are still puzzling over last week's article, it was intended to be satirical, not serious.... Anyone journeying to the gymnasium might come out wondering if he is still at RIT.

Seems that there is an abundance of nicknames that no one has ever heard of. For the uninformed, see if you can guess who the following are: Fog, Squeaky, Guppy, Mike Mercury, Hunch, Chesty. ... The time has come for the pucksters a 2-0 lead.

Pucksters Win Again; Hamilton Downed 8-6

Remaining undefeated, the RIT hockey club won its eighth straight game in open competition dropping a strong Hamilton freshman team 8-6 last Saturday at the Hamilton College rink in Clinton, N.Y. Team captain Norm MacEachern scored five goals as the Tigers won their toughest game to date.

The Hamilton varsity plays in the same league with Army, Cornell, Middlebury, Colgate, and Clarkson. According to numerous reports the Hamilton freshmen have beaten the varsity on various occasions. In view of this, observers believe that RIT's victory last Saturday is a more notable achievement than a combination of all the previous wins this season.

Proving that they can play top notch hockey against stiff competition the pucksters began their winning game from the first minute of play. Norm MacEachern scored the opening goal at 9:52 receiving a pass from Harvey Cain and slamming the first of a series of screaming slap shots past Hamilton's fast-handed goal keeper. A second RIT goal followed. Wayne Jackson passed to Larry Laskie and Laskie's shot at the cage was deflected by Tim Butler into the net giving the pucksters a 2-0 lead.

At 14:07 Hamilton broke away from the Tiger defense and scored their first goal of the afternoon. From the Tiger defense and scored their first goal of the afternoon. From the Hamilton blue line, Hamilton retaliated at 18:51, leaving the score 3-2 for RIT at the end of the first period.

After a slight holdup while Hamilton fans threw chieving gum, pennies, and snowballs at the RIT players the second period saw two fast goals. Hamilton tied the score at 3:33 following an early rush at 0:46. The pucksters wasted no time snapping back their lead as MacEachern, taking a pass from Bill McLean, slammed in his third goal of the day. Hamilton retaliated at 18:51, leaving the score 3-2 for RIT at the end of the first period.

The victory over Hamilton should mean better competition in years to come. The RIT hockey club has proved themselves capable of holding their own in far better competition than that of the Finger Lakes League.

Wrestling at R-C Tomorrow

RIT's "Fighting Tigers" will go back into action tomorrow night at 8 p.m., against the "Rutkies" of Bloomsburg (Pa.) State on the home mats. The Tigers, who suffered a 25-3 defeat at the hands of Waynesburg College two weeks ago, will be trying for an upset, Bloomsburg, who is currently in the famed Wilkes Tournament this year, will be bringing into Rochester perhaps the closest observation that the Tigers face all year.

The RIT freshmen will be posing the wrestling team from Brockport State in a preliminary meet starting at 6:30 p.m.
