

AT EASTMAN THEATER ON MAY 15

Ramsey Lewis concert set for Spring Weekend event

Ramsey Lewis "In" concert will be the highlight of "Showboat," the theme of Spring Weekend, 1966. The Ramsey Lewis Trio and Prof. Irwin Corey will provide entertainment at the Sunday concert at the Eastman Theater.

Lewis, who has been referred to as "the hottest attraction in entertainment today," has topped the charts with several recordings, and has made TV appearances and toured American colleges and universities. His music is jazz with a contemporary beat which appeals to young and old.

Prof. Corey, billed as the "Worlds Greatest Authority" on has made many appearances on Johnny Carson's Tonight show, and has been active on the nightclub circuit for several years. He uses a comical, slapstick approach in his humor.

General chairman for the weekend, David Christman, has announced the complete agenda of activity. On Friday, May 13, the first event will be the New Orleans Potpourri, starting at noon. Food will be served from quaint wagons, and there will be dancing in the streets.

A campus-wide talent show will be held in the Ritter-Clark gym at 2:30 p.m.

Friday evening at 8, the Mardi Gras and Carnival will be underway, with dancing in the gym and carnival booths in the ice rink.

Breakfast will be served Saturday morning at 10 at the Capitan's Table in the gym. Champagne punch and a variety of food will be served.

"Mississippi Moonglow," the Saturday evening dance, will be held in Midtown Plaza from 9 til 1 a.m., and music will be provided by Carl Dengler and his orchestra.

The concert will begin at 2 p.m. at the Eastman Theater, and students, as well as the public, will attend.

Alcoa makes second pledge

The Alcoa Foundation has made its second pledge within one year to the New Campus Fund at the Institute.

Dr. Mark Ellingson has received $1,000 from the foundation established by the Aluminum Co. of America. Last year, RIT received a similar gift for the new campus.

In expressing gratitude for the gift, Dr. Ellingson told Alcoa Foundation officials that "... every dollar that comes to us as we try to wind up this drive is indeed precious."

Two alumni selected to coordinate $300,000 drive

The Institute has named two local members of its Alumni Association Executive Council as co-chairmen of the regional campaigns seeking to raise $300,000 for RIT's new campus.

If the $300,000 is raised, an anonymous alumnus has offered to contribute an additional $200,000.

Selected to coordinate regional campaigns throughout the nation were Robert Flaherty, class of 1961 and secretary-treasurer of the Schlueter & Spanton Insurance Agency, Inc., and Alfred E. Vragel, class of 1940 and manager of the film storage department of Eastman Kodak.

Flaherty and Vragel will be responsible for organizing 250 key volunteers throughout the nation in an attempt to raise the $300,000 within the next year.

Approximately 40 regional centers are being established to bring the campaign directly to 17,000 alumni throughout the nation, according to RIT alumni president Benjamin Relin. Harris H. Rusitzky is general chairman of the campaign "The Incentive Fund."

Basically, the anonymous alumnus has offered to contribute up to $200,000 for the campus by giving RIT $2 for every $3 which is pledged by another alumnus or by a firm employing an alumnus.

The New Campus Fund has raised $15.3 million of its $18.8 million goal to date, with alumni contributing approximately $560,000. Total cost of the new campus has been estimated at $54 million with occupancy of the new facilities set for September, 1967.

Dr. Raymond Mack to speak at 40th annual management convocation

Dr. Raymond Mack, chairman of the department of sociology at Northwestern University, will discuss "The Challenge of Change" at RIT's 40th annual Management Convocation April 12 in the Chamber of Commerce.

Diplomas in management science will be presented to 178 employees from local business and industry at the program. More than 400 persons are expected.

Employees from 50 area firms will receive diplomas in industrial supervision, office supervision, sales training, motion and time economy, materials handling and transportation and traffic management.

Mack has been a member of the Northwestern faculty since 1953. In the past he has been a management consultant for a number of large national firms and a key member of the Research Committee of the American Sociological Association. Mack has also written three books.

PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES—Ray Baker, left, and Gary Proud, are the presidential candidates for the upcoming Student Association elections to be held on April 27. Baker, a third year student in Art and Design, is from Dallastown, Pa., and is presently vice president of the Student Association. Proud, a fourth year student in the School of Business Administration, who hails from Rochester, is president of Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity and is also a Senator.

Selective Service Tests to be given next month

College students wishing to continue their studies have finally come face to face with the much-talked about Selective Service Qualification Test. William Toporcer, director of Selective Service at RIT, has received information that RIT will be a testing center on May 14, 21, and June 3.

Toporcer said that until now a college student was deferred only if he was a full-time student and if he maintained a satisfactory GPA. Now in order to keep his

2-S deferment, the student must either make a passing grade on the test or rank as follows within his respective class: end of freshman year, upper half; end of sophomore year, upper two-thirds; end of junior year, upper three-fourths. A senior planning to do graduate work must be in the upper fourth of his class.

Toporcer noted, however, that fulfilling both of these requirements does not guarantee that a

Cyr, Pierce elected to men's residence halls posts

Ralph Cyr (Pr 1) and John Pierce (Photo 3) were successful in their bid for presidential and vice presidential positions in the Men's Residence Halls Association.

Voting took place in the lobby of Nathaniel Rochester Hall last Friday. In the election, Cyr received 172 votes. His opponent, Carl election by default?

All members of the Men's Residence Hall Association were eligible to vote. Approximately 324 of the 680 members cast votes.

There will not be another issue of the Reporter until after the Student Association elections are held, and it seems proper at this time to make comments pertaining to the unusual nature of this year's contest.

To use the word "contest" is surely stretching the point, because, unlike other years, there is virtually little that is competitive about the '66 elections. Ray Baker and Tom Staab are running on one ticket for president and vice-president, respectively, while Gary Proud is running independently for the office of president. To date, these are the only declared candidates for office.

In the past, the RIT campus has been charged with activity at election time; but this year the results are in before the votes are cast.

Is it that no one wants the responsibility of the job? Is it that the positions of Student Association president and vice-president aren't as attractive to the RIT student as they used to be? It is hard to believe that after such an active year in student government there are so few who would be anxious to do their part.

With less than three weeks until elections, it is hoped that some enterprising students will join in the race. If no one emerges, the Reporter supports Baker and Staab as the only logical choices for next year's campus leadership.

planning conference a success

The Reporter was fortunate to be represented last weekend at the Student Association-sponsored long-range planning conference, an event which will possibly stand as the most significant student activity of the year.

Every organization on campus was invited to send their president or representative, and more than 60 students turned out to discuss RIT's future at the two-day conference. The spirit of concern and enthusiasm on the part of this student group was strong evidence, indeed, of the genuine involvement desired by RIT student leaders. Discussion groups sought earnestly to recommend possible solutions to every problem imaginable—from morals to academic freedom, from athletic scholarships to foreign exchange programs.

A complete report of the conference activities will be published soon, and it will run in this paper for all students to see. It will also be brought before the administration and faculty for their review. RIT people surely will find it very informative. Although no problems were actually solved, there was a good number of new ideas and concepts that should be of interest.

This was the first conference of this magnitude, and all people concerned found it most enlightening to have so many student leaders together for such a serious occasion. No doubt there will be more conferences in years to come.

This week's cartoon was specially prepared for the Reporter by Johnny Hart, creator of B.C. and The Wizard of Id.

Currently running at the Riverside Studio, 24 Latta Road, is a fine art exhibit by Mark E. Greenlund, a third year Art and Design student, and Osmond S. Guy, an A&D instructor. The exhibit will run until April 27th and is a fine example of the quality of work going on here at RIT.

LATEST & GREATEST:

There is a new submarine shop to try the next time you are hungry. It is run by two RIT students down at the Pastime. If a PT boat wont quench your appetite, maybe a Depth Charge will We think it's about time the Tiger sign in the Rattcellar was cleaned or replaced. It looks like the grease is getting so thick that you can't see the stripes anymore.

New School Policy: Upperclass students must move out of dorms into apartments next year. Meanwhile all the area apartment prices are being jacked up. Will the school do anything to help the student? Here comes Peter Cottontail, hopping down the bunny trail. Bang, Bang, Bang.

The New Campus Planning Conference held at the Treadway Inn in Batavia last week was very successful. A lot of interesting questions were asked and a good batch of ideas were obtained. . . . First Superman. Then Batman. Now comes Wonder Women. That's right. Wonder Women should be on TV soon.

We'd like to thank Denny Deviate, the photographer for last week's centerspread, for the likeness of the residents of the Kage. It looked like the RIT cafeteria. . . . Maybe that's where the picture came from?

The time has come again for Student Council elections. It looks like it is going to be a tough campaign for Mr. Baker and Mr. Staab. The opposition looks real good. What was this about a two-party system?

The candidates for Mr. Campus and Miss RIT look real good. Why is it that most of them are unheard of on campus and why is it that people nominated for Who's Who in American Colleges weren't good enough to be nominated for Mr. Campus at RIT??

IN ATHENS:

The IFC softball season is here again. With the weather the way it was last week, maybe we should have the football games at this time next year. As for a prediction this time, we'll keep our mouths shut!! Congratulations are in order to Messrs. Allen, Palmer, Geraci and their recent pinmates. . . . PSK has their Pig Party and AXD has their Imposter Party? All the girls were at the PSK table last week helping the brothers celebrate their second annual ISD Day, commonly known as International Sorority Day. . . . Pledging is over for the girls of AXD and ASA — congratulations — but was it worth it going into another quarter?

Bill Sahmel, wherever you are, we're glad to see that you made the centerspread last week. We are saving you a copy in which you'll take great pride.

. . . . Congratulations to PKT for a fine weekend.

ASAS invites freshmen

Freshmen in the School of Art and Design, Photo Illustration, and the School for American Craftsmen are invited to join the Art Students' Art Society during Spring Quarter as a result of changes made in the ASAS Constitution in November.

Notice of meetings will be posted on the ASAS bulletin board on the main floor of the Bevier Building.

Greeks prepare for New Campus

Recently, the first of several meetings was held between Interfraternity Council and College Panhellenic Council to discuss and initiate for the future new ideas on improving the greek system and to set a precedent for the new campus. The greeks are trying a new approach of presenting themselves as greeks instead of individual organizations. This is the beginning of the fraternities and sororities banning together for their common good.

From this first meeting two committees were established — the Greek Week Committee and the Rushing Committee. The two groups are composed of one delegate from each fraternity and two from each sorority. These committees are now meeting regularly and planning new ideas for next year. It is hoped that from this joint effort the greek system will be improved at RIT and the fraternities and sororities will be ready to meet the challenge on the new campus.

IVCF announces spring retreat

Intervarsity Christian Fellowship chapters from all over western New York will hold their annual Spring Retreat at LeTourneau Christian Camp on Canandaigua Lake, April 15-17. The theme for the weekend will be "Personal Christian Ethics," and the speaker will be Bill Young.

Young, a graduate of Fuller Seminary and New York University, has spent six years as a member of the faculty of Haigazian College, Beirut, Lebanon, and is currently on the IVCF staff in New York City working with international students.

The weekend, starting at 7 p.m. Friday and ending at 2 p.m. Sunday, will cost only $8, and will include recreation along with the studies. Everyone is welcome to attend, and if you are interested, drop a note in the IVCF folder across from E-125.

Drama Guild attends festival

Against the impresive background of the Corning Glass Center, eight members of the RIT Drama Guild, their advisor, Mrs. Duane DaBoll, Prof. Dane Gordon of the College of General Studies, and Mrs. Gordon, attended the Sixth Annual Festival of the New York State Theater Festival Association held the 25-27 of March.

This year's festival was based on the theme "Staging With Minimum Scenery" and was well illustrated by six competing productions, two guest performances, and a special children's matinee. Of special interest was the speech given at the annual banquet by Prof. Harvey K. Smith of Yale University School of Drama.

Helen Hayes crowned as PKT's queen

Sentimental Sweetheart Weekend, sponsored by Phi Kappa Tau fraternity, was highlighted Saturday night by the crowning of Helen Hayes (Med Tech 3) as sweetheart, and the announcement of Ronald Sick (Bus Adm4) as brother of the year.

The student body was well represented for the opening event of the weekend on Friday evening. Approximately 1,000 students attended and were entertained by Joey and the New Clan, a band from Geneva.

Saturday night the brothers held their annual dinner dance in the Vogue Room of the Sheraton Hotel. Music was provided by the Fred Cole Trio.

PI CLUB VISITS

Twenty-five members of the Pi Club traveled to Toronto, Ontario, Canada, March 31 - April 2, for their annual trip, which took them to four major printing plants in the Toronto area.

Johnny Hart appears at RIT library

Johnny Hart, the cartoonist-creator of B. C. and The Wizard of Id, was on campus March 28 in conjunction with the Original Comic Art exhibit at the RIT Library. Hart was invited here by David Folkman, coordinator of the exhibition.

At the library, Hart made sketches of his characters, autographed them and gave them away. He said he was most gratified by the warm reception given him.

Hart started cartooning while he was in the service, and upon his discharge sold his first cartoon to The Saturday Evening Post. He was always fascinated by cavemen, and in 1958 sold his first strip, B.C., to the Herald Tribune Syndicate. This feature is now syndicated in over 300 newspapers in the U. S. Most recently he created The Wizard of Id which is in about 150 newspapers.

While here, Hart was interviewed on TV, and when asked which were his favorite comic strips, he replied, "None." He does not read the comics.

Folkman gave Hart a tour of the campus. Hart was impressed with the school, and thought the students' art work in the Bevier Building was especially good. He was also impressed with the Web Lab and their operations.

student will retain his 2-S deferment; this decision is up to the board at which the student is registered. It also is not necessary for every student to take the test, but draft officials recommend it.

The test is open to any high school senior, graduate, full-time college undergraduate and full-time graduate student who is a Selective Service registrant.

To take the test the student must first obtain an application form from any local draft board; the nearest to RIT is in the Federal Building, corner of Fitzhugh and Church Streets. After the application is filled out it is then mailed according to the instructions, no later than April 23. The center at which the student wishes to take the test will be notified.

The test is three hours long and is of the general aptitude type, similar in nature to the College Board Test. Counseling Services at RIT will administer the test for approximately 350 students at one time. In addition, there are about 1,200 examination centers throughout the country and the student may take the test wherever it suits him. Results of the test will be sent to the local board, where he may obtain them.

Topcorer has posted notices across campus detailing the requirements and nature of the tests and has also notified all departments to explain the situation to the student.

by Ron Barber and Tom Champion

The college student, too busy and too involved, has allowed himself to become unaware of "What's Happening." This article will be a regular feature, and it will attempt to give the involved student an opportunity to become an "in" student. It will give the RIT student an idea of exactly "What's Happening."

Is it possible that Rochester cannot offer the student a variety of social entertainment equal to its cultural counterpart? After doing some research, the authors have found that there are a great number of places in Rochester which are available to the "in" student.

This week we would like to spotlight the Mardi Gras on Lake Avenue near Lake Ontario. For both listening and dancing pleasure, the dixieland jazz tempo is tops. The atmosphere is lively and the usual crowd is young and in the swing. Drinks are reasonable and if you're in an eating

IFC announces rushing program

Earle C. Cook, president of Interfraternity Council, has announced that a formal rushing program is now in progress.

Open rushing will last until June 2, at which time bids will be distributed.

"Open rushing," said Cook, "is a period when students may become acquainted with the fraternity system. During this time, fraternity men will contact eligible students and outline the advantages and opportunities available through the greek system."

Cook stressed the ideas of social awareness and involvement, indicating that both are essential to the college student. "Fraternities provide the means for students to learn, both socially and academically. And they allow a kind of genuine involvement which is not found in any other organization," he said.

Those who accept bids on June 2 must return them to the Student Union between 7 and 9:30 p.m. on that date.

Girls of RIT

Vlasta Paul

In the first of series on "Girls of RIT," the Reporter presents two RIT girls who reflect both beauty and talent, two girls who are very much in evidence among our coed ranks.

Miss Susan Brock, vivacious 20-year-old sophomore in Art and Design hails from Buffalo. Beside her great interest in art and eventually a career in Art Education, she enjoys dancing and bridge.

Vlasta Paul, freshman Art and Design student from Rochester, is an avid dancer and fond of all types of music. She designs and produces her own clothes and likes to take long walks.

RIT cagers name all-opponent team

Two area cagers led the balloting for 1965-66 all-opponent team picked by members of the RIT basketball squad.

Frank Carter, a junior from Roberts Wesleyan College, was the only unanimous choice, while another from the immediate Rochester area, Todd Hahn of Geneseo State, was runner-up in the balloting. Hahn, a junior, is from of East Rochester High.

Others on the mythical seven-man club (averaging 6' 3") include the high scoring duo from Hartwick, sophomore Dan Parham and junior Dave Harper; senior Tom Chapin of Plattsburgh State, senior Charlie Mancuso of Buffalo State and Tony Martin, a junior from New York Institute of Technology.

Five of the players named to the Tech all-opponent team played important roles in defeating the Tigers. RIT finished the season with an 18-9 record.

Others to receive honorable mention in the vote were Sterling Black of Detroit Tech, Joe LoTempio of Buffalo State and Ross Cole of Indiana Tech.

Spring talent show planned for May 13

Spring Weekend this year will feature a talent show on Friday afternoon, May 13.

Anyone with any degree of talent is strongly encouraged to audition for the show, and may pick up an audition blank at the Student Activities Center. Prizes of $50, $25, and $10 will be offered for first, second and third place. Judging will be by a panel of alumni.

For more information, contact Sandy Donatucci through the Spring Weekend folders across from E-125.

Mrs. Coyle elected new PBA president

At the second luncheon meeting of the Professional Businesswomen's Association, election of officers for the year 1966-67 was held. Chosen by the P.B.A. were Mrs. Diannę Coyle, president, Miss Florence Stedman, vice president, and Miss Judy Witzel, secretary.

The meeting was concluded by a talk given by A. Stephen Walls, director of Student Activities, on the subject, "The Secretary and the Student."

Lacrosse club looks for support

Two years ago the idea of a lacrosse team on campus was inconceivable — today it is a reality. Through the efforts of a group of students interested in playing lacrosse, a club was formed. This year the club has nine games and five scrimmages scheduled for the remainder of the quarter.

At present the club needs a manager and a time-scorekeeper. Anyone interested may contact the Lacrosse Club folder across from E-125, or in the Student Union.

The Lacrosse Club, as well as all other school sports, needs the support of the student body. The game schedule will appear in a later edition of the Reporter.

RIT track team shows promise

Peter Todd, in his first year as coach of RIT's track team, set in his crystal ball a .500 season. Obtaining a 5-5 record this spring, would make the Tigers the winningest track team in school history. In 1964, when the team was organized, their record was 0-2. In 1965 the outdoor team dipped to an 0-6 record and the indoor to an 0-2 record. This past fall the indoor team was 2-2.

Among the returnees are team captains Richard Poole, a senior, and Pete Kozowyk, a junior. Kozowyk holds school records in the 220, 300, 440-yd. dash. He is co-holder of the 440-yd. relay record with teammates Leo Derkowski, Joe Farrand and the graduated Rick Overall. Poole shares the one-mile relay school record with Kozowyk, Charles Bennett, and Leigh Stewart. In addition he holds the high jump record.

Junior Walt Wilcox set one record and tied another this past February. He tied the school record for the 50-yd. dash with Dave Gustin. The 45-yd. high hurdles record he holds by himself.

Sophomores Fred Higham, Charles Bennett and Jim High are all record holders. Higham holds freshman records for the 100 and 220-yd. dash. High set the indoor record for the one-mile run in February. As a freshman, Bennett set the school record in the 330-yd. intermediate hurdles. He is a co-holder of the one-mile relay record.

Outstanding freshmen are Bill Fretz, George Southworth, and Dan Benz. Fretz holds school records set as a freshman in the 880 and 1,000-yd. run. Southworth set the 600-yd. run school record. Benz, top cross country man, won six out of nine races this past fall.

RIT fencers fail to qualify

RIT's fencers failed to qualify in the NCAA Fencing Championships held March 25-26 at Duke, N. C.

The Rochester fencers were eliminated from the round-robin competition in the first round. Competing were Al Cocco (foil), Leo Derkowski (sabre), and Duane Harrington (epee).

Thompson and VanderVeen lose at NCAA tourney

RIT's wrestling season came to a dismal end with the defeats of Bill Thompson and John VanderVeen at the NCAA wrestling championships at Ames, Iowa, March 24-26.

Douglas Robertson (U. Oregon), Pacific Coast champion, defeated Thompson, 4-3. Robertson was beaten in his next match by William Stewart (Lehigh). Thompson fought in the 137-lb. class.

VanderVeen was defeated by Gary Cook (E. Stroudsburg State) 6-3. Cook placed fourth in the 177-lb. division.

Thompson ended the regular season with an 8-2 record. In the 4I Tournament he lost his only match. VanderVeen, who placed second in the 177-lb. division at the 4I Tournament, had a 10-2-1 record. In the 4I he was 2-1.

The varsity's record this year was 4-9. Coach Earle Fuller's teams have won 113, lost 89, and tied five meets since 1948. He has had only six losing seasons at the Institute and his 1953-54 team went undefeated in 10 meets.

Oklahoma State, paced by Yojiro Uetake, Gene Davis and Bill Harlow, won the NCAA Tournament. It was State's 25th national championship.

Oklahoma State closed with 79 points to 70 for Iowa State and 69 for Oklahoma. Lehigh edged Michigan in the battle for fourth place, 48-47.

Basketball team continues to win

Although the season is over, RIT continues to win — its latest triumph coming in the form of a sportsmanship trophy for the basketball team.

Coach Lou Alexander's team was named winner of the Tenth Annual Schoenfeld Sportsmanship Award for Upstate New York by the Collegiate Basketball Officials Association. The award was presented at a luncheon at the Hotel Manhattan in New York City.

The award is determined by the balloting of referees who officiated at collegiate basketball games in the east. Officials voted on a basis of team sportsmanship and cooperation with officials.

INTERMURAL CHAMPIONSHIP—Fast action characterized Thursday's championship basketball game between the Printing School and Sigma Pi fraternity. The printers won the fierce battle 49 to 45. (Kudola)

Braun leads printers to basketball championship

Arnie Braun and Vic Mudra combined to lead the Printing basketball team to the campus championship. The Printers edged Sigma Pi 49-45 to win the crown on March 31.

Braun scored 20 points and Mudra 17 in the victory over the Fraternity League champions. The printing quintet are kings of the Department League.

Roger Collier earned game scoring honors in both the title contest and the playoff game, but with different teams. Collier meshed 21 points to top Sigma Pi in the championship game.

Two nights earlier, Collier led the Printing team to a 69 - 55 triumph over the third floor of Kent Hall. He sank 26 markers and teammate Braun, 22. Bob Cornell tossed in 18 points for the Dorm Loop winners.

Joining Collier as members of both the Printing and Sigma Pi teams are Gary Bloodworth and Duncan MacRae. All three chose to play for Sigma Pi in the finals.

student planning conference

Discussion groups.

Using an idea similar to that of the Institute Planning Conference held in February of this year, the RIT Student Association conducted a conference last weekend aimed at some of the problems of the future of RIT's student body.

More than 65 student leaders were present at the Treadway Inn in Batavia on Friday, April 1, to discuss a number of questions related to both the near and the far future of the Institute. The weekend event opened with a dinner on Friday evening, and Robert Wood, Rochester city councilman, was the keynote speaker. The students divided into small discussion groups after dinner, each discussing individual questions prepared previously by the planning committee. The work session lasted until 11:30 p.m.

The conference was underway early the next morning. After breakfast, with only a break for lunch, discussion groups were in session until 3:30 p.m.

Hank Olson and Bert Zaccaria were chairmen for the conference, which brought chairmen or representatives of every organization together. Selina Zygmunt was active in preparing the conference and in keeping those in attendance busy.

All present at the conference seemed to concur on its outstanding merit as an effective student function. The results of the conference will be published soon, and the Reporter will publish the text of this report.

Mr. Walls listens with interest.

Rochester City Councilman Robert Wood stresses leadership to the conference.

Senator Don Hanson outlines his thoughts and opinions.

letters to the editor

Dear Editor:

Dean Brennan has requested that I attempt to describe my impressions of study overseas by way of a letter to the Reporter. I'll begin by saying hello to those of you whom I knew last year while doing my graduate work in the School for American Craftsmen. My best wishes to all of you for a successful Spring Quarter and an enjoyable summer vacation.

It would be anything but fair to compare Stockholm, where I am now studying, with Rochester except, possibly, to say that the weather is equally miserable in March. I have been here since September studying furniture design in particular, and learning a little about Scandinavian culture in general. As evidenced by the number of Americans studying in Europe and elsewhere overseas this year, the advantages of foreign study are no great secret. Most of the American undergraduates here are studying on the "Junior Year Abroad" programs or the like, while graduate students are supported by a range of scholarships and grants which are available.

I think my first impression and probably that of most who begin study in a foreign country, was that it seemed to be more trouble than it was worth. The problems of learning to use a new language and of getting accustomed to new ways of working can be a little discouraging, to say the least. Things that used to take only a few minutes to do, like reading a page of a book or a sheet of instructions, suddenly became hour-long tasks. It looked for a while as though it would be hard to get much accomplished. A little determination, though, finally puts you in the swing of things, and then you only regret that there can't be more people taking advantage of this kind of opportunity.

Every bit as valuable as learning about the country in which you are studying is the experience of seeing America through the eyes of a foreigner. If this were the only thing one got out of a year abroad, it would be worthwhile, but of course there's much more. I've been able to travel throughout Scandinavia, and have met and talked at length with many of the designers and craftsmen in my field. I've had the privilege to study at Konstfackskolan (the Swedish State School of Arts, Crafts and Design) which is one of the outstanding schools of its kind in the world. Here is taught the rational approach to design which distinguishes Swedish designers. There's been skiing, theater, invitations into Swedish homes, class trips and parties, the celebration of "Lucia," Christmas in Sweden . . . all included in the experience of living and studying abroad in one of the most beautiful cities in Europe.

My enthusiasm is only to be tempered by a warning that it takes a lot of hard work and seriousness of purpose along with the fun to make such a year rewarding. I hope there are a number of you students at RIT who are or will be considering a year overseas as part of your preparation. You certainly have my encouragement and my sincere best wishes.

Dear Editor:

Back in the fall of this academic year, the RIT student body did something that to me was very significant — they expressed their opinion through a rally. The issue was of international importance; it was and still is the Viet Nam crisis. Unfortunately that was as far as things went, no more, no less. The big question is why? Was it because during this past fall most big colleges were expressing their views on this war, so it became the thing to do? Or was there actually developing an opinion for or against the United States policy in Viet Nam? I am not sure because that was the last I heard about it.

I feel that in a student body of more than 2,000 there must be some who have developed firm beliefs in the national and international affairs of our country, not just limiting themselves to either the social, academic or alcoholic aspects. The Viet Nam issue is as important today as it was last fall, if not more so.

Later this spring the Selective Service (draft board) will review students with a 2-S deferment and there will be some who will be re-classified and eventually inducted into the armed services. Why? This is an important question and there are many more to which I can't supply an answer.

I think that RIT consists of a student body of individuals who have ideas and should be given an opportunity to express them. Why not this spring sit down and express your opinions, be they national, international, or about RIT.

"I know all about General Electric. They make toasters and irons and things like that."

"Right. Things like the world's most powerful jet engines, the world's largest turbine-generator, the world's first Man-Made diamonds. Things like nuclear power plants, suitcase-size computers and a whole new family of plastics."

"Yeah, yeah. Things like that."

Only about one quarter of G.E. sales are in consumer goods. All the rest are in industrial, aerospace and defense products.

A variety of products (over 200,000 in all). A variety of activities (everything from research and development to advertising and sales). A variety of challenges for young men who want to be recognized for their talents and rewarded for their work.

Important responsibilities come to you early at General Electric. Talk to the man from G.E. about coming to work for us.

This is where the young men are important men.

This week we thought we would try something a bit different, and display some of the services now available to alumni. The response for the class rings has been tremendous, and a number of alumni have written concerning the alumni chair. Both are on display in the alumni office.
