January 25, 2005

The National Technical Institute for the Deaf (NTID), a college of Rochester Institute of Technology (RIT), has named John Macko associate director of its Center on Employment (NCE).

Macko, of Mendon, has worked in NCE since 1993 advising students, teaching, and developing employer relations. In his new role, he will add managerial and administrative duties. He holds a bachelor's degree in finance and a master's degree in human resource management, from RIT.

"John's experience along with his leadership skills will enhance the center's ability to develop job opportunities for our students, and build strong relationships with employers," said Allen Vaala, director of NCE.

NTID is the first and largest technological college in the world for deaf and hard-of-hearing students. NTID, one of eight colleges of RIT, offers educational programs and access and support services to its 1,100 students from around the world who study, live, and socialize with 14,000 hearing students on RIT's Rochester, N.Y., campus.
