

DOC Alumna to Attend GMU for Her Ph.D.

Bruce A. Austin baagl@rit.edu

17 March 2008

Nicole Robinson, a graduate of the Department's Professional & Technical Communication program and the Department's master's program in Communication & Media Technologies, has been accepted to the Ph.D. program in Health Communication at George Mason University. She has been offered a graduate assistantship that will cover tuition plus carries a stipend and will hold a teaching and research position. Nicole moves to Fairfax, VA this summer. Congratulations, Nicole!