Images that make News & Events come alive

While putting together our Nov. 1 issue of News & Events—our usual four-page version, by the way—I thought that, once again, some great images really made this edition “pop.” In general, this one is “visually pleasing.”

On the front page, we are immediately drawn to our centerpiece photo—a shot of our young women marching against violence. The photo very simply has great content.

Inside we find some really colorful shots—award-winning documentary photographer Nina Berman’s image of a statue placed against a brilliant blue sky. Someone in our office asked me which image we selected to run with this Charles Arnold lecturer, and I couldn’t quite remember everything about it. All I remembered was that it was beautiful.

Another of my favorite images is the shot at the top of page four. RIT’s men’s hockey team defeated Cornell University in a hockey showdown Oct. 27 at the Blue Cross Arena in front of a record-breaking crowd. Interestingly enough, the image we’ve selected isn’t of the hockey team at all, but the subject is an exuberant fan supporting RT goaltender Louis Menard.

Enjoy the images (and the copy, too)—see you next time!
