RIT and the College of Liberal Arts' literary and arts magazine, Signatures, holds its organizational meeting this Friday, 5 September, beginning at 3 p.m. Liberal Arts' Faculty Commons (06-1251). In addition to orientation and setting priorities for the academic year, pizza will be served.

Communication majors – APR and PTC – have opportunities for public relations, advertising, and editorial matters associated with the magazine. In years previous, communication majors have built their portfolios with work they performed for Signatures. Too, those interested in creative expression – poetry, fiction, photography and graphic design – are invited to attend.
