

Gail Gabriel and Fred Hamil given NAG Outstanding Service Awards

May 1, 1998

Each year NTID's National Advisory Group (NAG) recognizes faculty and staff members for their outstanding contributions to NTID. Recipients of this award have made a consistent and exceptional contribution to the goals of NTID and to the quality of life of deaf students and colleagues and whose contributions have been made in a quiet way and have not yet been publicly recognized.

Gail Gabriel, manager of technical services and operations in NTID's Center for Institutional Services, and Fred Hamil, chairperson of NTID's Applied Science/Allied Health and Computer Integrated Machining Technology (CIMT) departments, are this year's NAG Outstanding Service Award recipients. Gabriel has worked at NTID since 1981, and Hamil is NTID's longest tenured chairperson with his 29 years of service.
