

NTID student named Outstanding Undergraduate Scholar

April 1, 1998

Adrianna Smart, a graduating professional and technical communication student in RIT's College of Liberal Arts, has been named Outstanding Undergraduate Scholar, the first deaf international student to receive this award. Adrianna, from Nepean, Ontario, Canada, holds a 3.92 grade point average.

Adrianna was chosen by her college's selection committee, which reviewed the credit hours, grade point averages, employment activities, civic and student activities, creative work, and independent research projects of a number of students. The Outstanding Undergraduate Scholarship Award is the highest academic award given by RIT.
