

Rochester Engineering Society Seeks Student Writers

Patrick Scanlon pmsgsl@rit.edu

6 November 2008

The Rochester Engineering Society (<http://www.roceng.org/>) is looking for student volunteers to work for its monthly magazine. The publication focuses on engineering-related projects, tools, or general technology. Students write articles and/or visit local firms to gather information. These are unpaid positions with commitments of approximately 10 hours per month.

For more information, contact Lisa Moretto, www.rgilearning.com (585) 461-3617.