

PTC Grad a Published Ph.D. Student: Aimee (Solomon) Whyte, '01

Bruce A. Austin baagll@rit.edu

13 February 2009

Aimee (Solomon) Whyte, a 2001 Professional & Technical Communication graduate, has had her first scholarly article published (she is first author), a case study of developmental and psychosocial challenges experienced by a Deaf college student: Whyte, A. K. & Guiffrida, D. A. (2008, Fall), Counseling deaf college students: The case of Shea, Journal of College Counseling, 11, 184-192. Additionally, Aimee just completed co-authoring a chapter for a book with Dr. Kendra Smith at Gallaudet University (Deaf College Student Development for a Psychotherapy/Deaf, edited by Irene Leigh).

Currently, Aimee is a full-time Ph.D. student at the University of Rochester's Warner School studying Counseling and Counselor Education; she expects to complete her Ph.D. in 2011. Previously, Aimee worked at RIT's Counseling Center.