NTID Sponsors Scouten Internship in English Literacy

December 20, 2007

Rochester Institute of Technology's National Technical Institute for the Deaf is accepting applications from teachers of the deaf for a one-week endowed internship in English literacy.

This internship was established to honor the memory of professor emeritus Edward L. Scouten, who was a faculty member in the NTID English Department from 1970 until his retirement in 1985.

The intern will study and work with NTID faculty members to learn about promoting the English literacy skills needed for deaf and hard-of-hearing students to be successful in college.

Interns will receive a stipend of $1,500. To qualify, applicants must be primarily teaching deaf students English Language Arts at the high school or middle school level and have two to five years of teaching experience.

The successful candidate for this internship will select one week in either February, March, April, or May during RIT's winter or spring quarters.

Applications are accepted year round and the selected applicant is informed by January 31st each year.

For more details and to apply, see: English literacy or contact Kathleen Eilers-crandall.
