

Studio 86: Innovation News (May 19, 2009) (Season 2, Episode 17)

Episode summary:

In this episode, Michael Riordan, assistant professor of print media and co-director of RIT's Open Publishing Lab, discusses "Innovation News" and other projects in the Open Publishing Lab with Kelly Downs and Studio 86 host Mike Saffran.

Riordan describes the production model used for "Innovation News"—described as a "virtually instantaneous" Web and print publication—during RIT's second Imagine RIT: Innovation and Creativity Festival on May 2 (content, submitted by writers and photographers directly from the field, was accessed immediately by editors and designers); open-source publishing solutions developed in RIT's cross-disciplinary research lab known as the Open Publishing Lab; and impacts of these developments on RIT's print-media curricula.
