YES!
Identify Goals

- provide access to the course material,
- select the delivery tool,
- agree on the language the course will be delivered in,
- select the timing of delivery so all students can equally participate, and design the e-learning experience so it is manageable.
A dependable on-line internet connection with a minimum one hour connection is essential.
Delivery Tool

- Internet-based
- Support course material, email and discussion boards
- Technical support for design and delivery
- Seamless interface
- User friendly
Delivery Tool

- BlackBoard
  A leading software infrastructure company for E-Learning.
  Editors: Patricia Mudgett-DeCaro and Susan J. Foster
Language

- Awareness and sensitivity to cultural differences
  - Faculty to student
  - Student to student
Timing

- Select a time that ensures a full audience
  - Quarter vs. Semester
  - Difference time zones
Information Highway Officer
• One person making changes
• Limit Readings to 200 pages per Unit
• Appoint a Faculty Monitor to generate and focus discussions
• Set-up informal discussions on personal interests (Coffee Pot notion)
• Required all students to participate in Bb discussions
• Required all students to upload photo and other bio information
• Reduced faculty Bb discussion
Organization of Bb Content

Each country was responsible for its own content

Viewing other student homepages

I see several students have loaded their pictures and short bios! That is GREAT!

To view other students pages - click on the COMMUNICATION button. Then click on the Roster - click on List All. A message will appear asking if you really want to do that - click on the list all button to the right. A new screen should appear with all the students listed. Click on the students name to view their page.

Enjoy!

Student Homepage - Thore Johansson

Intro Message
Hi! I'm Thore from the University of Örebro. I'm studying special Education, and I have been studying at the University for 1½ year. I was born in Gothenburgh, Sweden's 2nd largest city on the western coast of Sweden. Sometimes called the frontside of Sweden. I have been living in Örebro for about 6 years now.

Personal Information
I love travelling around. I've been in Norway, Suomi, Denmark, England, Germany, Poland, Chechia, Slovakia, Austria, Hungaray, Greece, Turkey and Sri-Lanka. And when I will get a chance, I will go abroad again! I live in a nice flat with my two lovely curly Cornish Rex Cats. I was born HOH and lost the rest of my hearing when I was 15 by an accident, and I had to learn sign language. And nowadays I am quite well signing. My primary language is still spoken and heard Swedish, but it works best with SSL. I have been at an intensive two weeks course with CH, a Swedish woman who has moved to US. So I sign some ASL too, a little bit slow and I don't know all the words, but I love signing ASL!

Students relied more on the Reader (printed version) than on Bb – but Bb was still used for viewing/downloading content.
Conclusions

- Technical problems created real barriers but they can be overcome

- Learning styles and personality are important considerations in selecting students
Cost of putting material on Bb was minimal – mainly paying a person to put the material on the site.

The Reader provided the content at a fraction of the cost.
The content must have an editor. Leaving it to each "country" resulted in uneven material.

A "chat room" and simple web-site could address most of the communication needs.
Meeting as a group before the eLearning experience will likely increase communication dramatically.

English did not appear to be a major barrier.
Conclusions – cont.

- All the faculty reported that the eLearning process was a positive professional growth experience.

- The universities benefited from faculty participation as evident from increased IT and eLearning skills.
